Bradley returns

Old soldiers pay respects at Normandy

OMAHA BEACH, Normandy, France (UPI) — Thirty years after their longest day, Allied war veterans led by five star Gen. Omar N. Bradley, 81, returned to the D-Day beaches of Normandy today and paid tribute to their fallen comrades.

At Bayeux, American old soldiers were joined by a French delegation led by Armed Forces Minister Jacques Soufflet and walked in solemn procession to the Memorial of the Liberation to lay wreaths.

At Omaha beach, where American troops landed, there was a religious service at the U.S. cemetery and another wreath-laying at the National Guard monument which was specially erected for the 25th D-Day anniversary. Further ceremonies took place at Point du Hoc, where the Rangers stormed ashore and climbed an impossible cliff.

The 90th Division was honored at Carentan and Gen. Maxwell Taylor's airborne troops at St. Mere l'Eglise, where a private first class once dangled by his parachute from the church steeple and watched hand-to-hand fighting go on in the square below.

A total of 130,000 men landed on the Normandy beaches June 6, 1944. Of those 9,000 died.

It was history's biggest seaborne operation, commanded by the then General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, and proved the beginning of the end for Adolf Hitler, funnelling eventually onto the shores of France a body of human beings larger than the population of Pittsburgh.

Among the American veterans who came to Normandy to re-live the day were Bradley, Taylor, Gen. Mark Clark, Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Gen. Ira C. Eaker and representatives of seven U.S. veteran groups.

U.S. Ambassador to France John Irwin was among them.

Two area women wounded in incident

Pomonan slain in drug probe

An inquest may be conducted into the shooting death last Friday night of Wayne Martin Glidden, 23-year-old Pomona man slain by police in a narcotics investigation in Monrovia.

Frederick Lacey, hearing officer of the Los Angeles County Coroner's Office, said Wednesday that he is studying official reports of the incident, and has been contacted by the district attorney's office about the possibility of an inquest. A decision was expected soon.

Two other persons, both women, were wounded in the incident. One, Vicky Lorraine Jones, 24, 1441 Sheridan Ave., Pomona, was Glidden's sister. She was struck in the foot and ankle and was released after treatment at County-USC Medical Center.

But Victoria Ruth Alexander, 25, 910 W. Gladstone Ave., San Dimas, was wounded seriously and at one time was reported in critical condition at the hospital. She was reported in satisfactory condition Wednesday, however, in the jail ward of the county hospital.

According to information obtained from various police agencies, the incident occurred in the following manner:

Glidden was picked up while hitchhiking by a team of long-haired undercover Fullerton police, who said during the ride he offered to sell them drugs. At one time they drove to Pomona, where they dickered about the deal but eventually went to Monrovia, where they parked in front of 1425 S. Mountain Ave.

Glidden, apparently sensing that the men were police, attempted to get back some papers he had given them and pulled what later was found to be a starter's pistol to back up his demands. The officers opened fire, hitting Glidden and the women.

Glidden, 1191 E. Pasadena Ave., Pomona, was pronounced dead at the scene. The women later were charged with offering deadly drugs for sale.

Police reports did not indicate when, or where, the women were picked up.

AT IT AGAIN IN BERKELEY

Student demonstrators at the University of California Berkeley scuffle with riot-equipped police as they tried to force their way past and occupy a building on the campus to protest cutbacks in criminology and ethnic studies programs. The incident ended when students voluntarily departed.

Ontario council reverses field, OKs rock event

ONTARIO — The City Council Wednesday night gave approval for another rock concert to be held at the Ontario Motor Speedway.

The date was designated for one of the first three Saturdays in August, preferably on Aug. 3. The exact day will depend on "firming up" arrangements with the performers, said Ken Hunter, city manager.

Council members were split on the issue, with Mayor Paul Treadway being joined by Gustavos Ramos and Joe Aime in favoring the concert. Opposed were Fay Dastrup and Robert Abel.

The rock concert is expected to feature the group of Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young, plus the Beach Boys, the Band, Jesse Colin Young and Joe Walsit.

In another action, the council took action that will increase the city's revenues from rock concerts. During the recent California Jam, it received $17,000, plus license fees and a share of sales taxes from concession stands.

Members held second and final reading on a licensing ordinance amendment whereby the city will receive $5,000 per each day of operation, 25 cents per person based on an estimate submitted seven days prior to the festival, plus 50 cents per person for those exceeding the estimate for each day of operation.

The new ordinance will become effective 30 days after the final reading, or on July 5, said Mrs. DeLoris Arterbum, city clerk.

Based on the new provisions, the city could receive $50,000 from the August concert, she added.

After the California Jam, held April 6, a controversy had developed over the behavior of the 200,000-plus crowd, plus traffic snarls.

A previous concert had been requested for the speedway on July 6, but this was canceled when Ontario police refused to work there and there was a scheduling conflict with the performers.

But Police Chief Lee Kolbrek Wednesday night filed a letter with the City Council stating that if the concert was approved, the police department would staff it and he would handle all police arrangements, said Hunter.

"The police chief has agreements with departments in surrounding areas and he will work with them. Those officers working at the concert will receive time and a half pay, with this being paid from the gate receipts," he added.

One of several points approved in the concert discussion was that the speedway parking facilities be improved. The speedway plans spending $50,000 to revise the parking lot to comply with good parking procedures, he noted.

The speedway has 63,000 parking spaces, but at the California Jam an aerial inspection showed only about 20,000 spaces were utilized, said Hunter.

Officials estimate a crowd of 180,000 for the August concert. But, added, Hunter, the speedway is now contemplating several auto races to reach the 200,000 figure. These are the California 500 and the NASCAR 500.

Birmingham girl, 12, is nation's spelling champ

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Julie Ann Junkin, 12, of Birmingham, Ala., won the National Spelling Bee today by correctly spelling the word hydrophyte —meaning a kind of plant requiring water.

The tiny sixth grader burst into tears when she was announced the winner. The runnerup was another youngster from the south, Gail Meier, 14, of Memphis, Tenn.

Gail misspelled the word mantelletta —referring to a knee-length outer garment worn by Catholic priests. She spelled the word as mantilleta.

Pulie Ann then spelled mantelletta correctly and became the champion by spelling hydrophyte.

She outlasted 79 other young spellers in two days of competition in which a total of 597 words were either spelled or misspelled. Tears often were shed —like those by Shawn Whittington, 14, Edinburg, Tex. —when a youngster missed a word.

Champion Julie attends Gordo Elementary School in Birmingham where she is involved in science and cheerleading activities. She survived a three and one half hour spelldown held in Birmingham in order to qualify for the national contest.

Fifty-five youngsters were eliminated in eight rounds of spelling Wednesday and the field rapidly was reduced this morning as the words became progressively tougher.

Impending hike in rail freight rates to up prices

NEW YORK (UPI) — The consumer will pay more for most goods in a few weeks because of an impending rise in rail freight rates.

Lettuce, meat, soap, bread all will cost pennies, or fractions of pennies, more per item because of the boost.

And the cost of transporting the average car from Detroit to New York City, for instance, will go up more than $50.

Virtually every segment of the economy will face higher costs as a result of the new rates approved Tuesday by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The rate increase is expected to bring the nation's railroads an additional $1.2 billion a year. The ICC gave them permission to boost rates as much as 10 per cent but some lines may charge less, depending on local conditions.

The additional money, under provisions laid down by the federal agency, must be used to improve service and cannot be applied to operating income. "But that won't hurt," said one railroad spokesman, "since that's where we need the money."

The boost goes into effect June 30, with a filing made Wednesday, according to the Association of American Railroads.

A spokesman said the freight boost will mean higher prices for supermarket items, as well as coal, grains, newsprint and manufactured goods —anything that has to move by rail.

Figures from an ICC survey indicate that the new freight increase would boost the cost of moving the average-size automobile from Detroit to New York by from $52.15 to $57.20.

The cost of shipping a head of lettuce from Salinas, Calif., to New York, is approximately six cents and will go up another six-tenths of a cent.

To ship a 45,000-pound carload of meat from a major livestock center such as Omaha to New York now costs about 2 ½ cents a pound. That cost would go up a quarter cent.

Railroads in some areas of the country were expected to make exceptions. Those in the South, for instance, probably would not apply the increase to textiles, a major industry in that area. Western railroads also would not be expected to apply the full 10 per cent boost to lumber shipments.

Rails in the Northeast, which have had tough financial sledding for years, might levy the full increase.

The freight rate increase particularly would be welcome to the bankrupt Penn Central railroad. Penn Central President Jervis Langdon Jr. recently testified to the FCC that the line would receive an additional $14 million a month from the increase.

Cloud envelops school

100 children overcome by ammonia fumes

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Nearly 100 children were treated at hospitals Wednesday after an ammonia cloud enveloped their Roman Catholic school.

"It was so thick," said Sister Sheila, an eighth grade English teacher, "we couldn't open our eyes, we couldn't even breathe."

The white cloud was released when a crane ripped a two-inch refrigeration pipe at the nearby P. Ballantine & Sons plant which was undergoing demolition.

At least 98 youngsters from St. Aloysius School, which includes the first through eighth grades, were treated at hospitals for nausea or running eyes and noses. There were no serious injuries, officials said.

About 170 other students were led out to safety.

Thinking at first it was a fire, school authorities sounded the alarm. But once the 14 teachers and aides led the students from the building they came in contact with the gas.

Some of the youngsters began vomiting. "A lot of people started crying," said one 13-year-old seventh grader. The teachers and students managed to make their way several blocks where the air was clear.

Deputy Fire Chief Edward Wall said the incident occurred as workmen were using a crane belonging to Interstate Wrecking Co., to clear rubble from the five-story Ballantine plant which has been undergoing demolition for several months. The crane struck and severed one of four refrigeration pipes that contained a residue of ammonia in the building's basement, Wall said.

Mass murder suspect is rickshaw driver

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Police announced Wednesday the arrest of a young rickshaw driver accused of killing more than 100 persons with a hammer.

Sankaraia, Alias Ratan Lal, Alias Black December, has already confessed murdering 70 persons in the three Indian states of Rajasthan, Punjab and Haryana over the past 18 months, Rajasthan state police said.

"He always struck at night and attacked lonely people sleeping in the open during the summer," said Rajasthan police Inspector General Ganesh Singh.

"After killing them with a hammer or a similar heavy instrument, he took the victims' belongings," Singh said. "He is quite sane and took pleasure in killing his victims and later robbing them."

Police studying bomb fragments for clues

PASCO, Wash. (UPI) — Detectives collected fragments from a pipe bomb Wednesday in their attempt to solve the assassination of a judge.

They said they hoped to find enough of the fragments to trace the origin of the bomb which arrived by mail and killed Judge James Lawless.

Fragments were picked from the wall, floor, ceiling and furniture in the judge's chambers.

Survey shows loan rates going up as high as 14%

By United Press International

Bank interest rates for personal loans are going up — as high as 14 per cent for used car loans —a United Press International survey shows.

Boston's Shawmut National Bank increased general purpose loan rates from 13.5 per cent to 14 per cent. The rate on new car loans was boosted from 9.5 to 10.5 per cent and on used cars from 13.5 to 14 per cent.

The State Street Bank and Trust Co., also in Boston, changed loan rates for new cars from 9.25 to 10 per cent and for used cars from 11 to 12 per cent. A bank spokesman said there were no plans to increase general purpose loan rates.

A spokesman for Continental Illinois National Bank, largest in Chicago, said the bank moved its loan rate for new cars to 10.20 from 9.75 per cent and for used cars to between 11.5 and 12.67 per cent, depending on the vehicle's age.

The First National Bank of Chicago boosted new car loan rates from 9.76 to 11.08 per cent. Used car loans also were increased.

New York banks exempted automobile loans from rate increases, but have raised other rates.

First National City Bank of New York recently raised rates on 18-month loans of $2,000 and under to 12 per cent from 10.54 per cent. But it reduced the rate on three-year loans of more than $4,000 by a fifth of a percentage point. The bank said it found smaller loans unprofitable.

Bankers Trust Co. of New York increased one-year loans from 10.07 to 11.58 per cent and two-year loans from 10.89 to 12.02 per cent. Longer term personal loans were not affected.

Chemical Bank of New York said it probably would boost personal loan rates next week "when we have had time to adjust our rate cards."

$4,636,444 budget gets Montclair's tentative OK

MONTCLAIR — The City Council gave tentative approval to a proposed 1974-75 budget of $4,636,444 and were warned of possible cutbacks in fire department services because of a new federal law.

The budget reflects an increase of $500,664 over the current year's fiscal plan, but there was no consideration of raising the current property tax rate of $1.74 per $100 assessed valuation. The primary source of taxes in the city is derived from the sales tax.

Lauren Wasserman, city administrator, cited the upward inflationary spiral, the energy crisis which has skyrocketed gasoline and utility costs, and the Fair Labor Standards Act as explanations of expenditure increases.

This federal act will also adversely affect the services provided by the fire department, possibly causing shutdown of the snorkel unit for high-rise building fire suppression, and the reduction of firemen's working hours, the men manning fire equipment going out on call and the number of men at the headquarters station at Arrow Highway and Monte Vista Avenue.

The federal law which was geared primarily to raising the minimum wages for hourly employes had a rider bill attached that calls for cutbacks in fire department service and hours throughout the nation.

By January 1975, a fireman's working hours must be reduced to 60 hours; by January 1976 to 58 and finally to 54 hours or the national average by 1977 according to the U.S. Department of Labor, said Fire Chief Harold Duncan. Montclair firemen are currently on a 63-hour week. That work week must be reduced according to federal standards and any firemen working more must be compensated with time and a half pay.

Duncan and Wasserman both voiced uncertainty about the elimination of the elevated platform truck unit. The chief noted that the labor department has until Sept. 1 to establish precise regulations and local departments must remain in a state of abeyance until that time.

The snorkel has been particularly effective in suppressing high-rise building fires. It was utilized at the Chino Farms Market fire a year ago in the West End and prevented surrounding shops from being lost. In Montclair, it would be valuable in fires at the Montclair Plaza, officials say.

Duncan said if placed on an inoperative basis, the snorkel could be reactivated within 30 minutes. However, 30 minutes could be fatal in fire suppression, he added.

The snorkel unit has also contributed to the class three insurance rating Montclair's department enjoys. A downward shift in the department rating would increase business and private citizens' fire insurance rates.

The new federal law also eliminates the option of compensatory time off or paid overtime for city employes.

Wasserman told councilmen that a transfer of $78,400 of revenue sharing funds to the general city income would be necessary in order to balance the budget. This action would be mandatory if no other revenues became available for the upcoming fiscal year.

The city derived roughly $100,000 more from the sales tax than estimated in January. This was due to high Christmas sales at the Montclair Plaza and inflation.

Budget reductions included $10,000 from data processing; $1,200 from the Alcoholic Educational Program serving the West End; $1,000 from the appropriation to the Chamber of Commerce; and $3,000 for modification of lights at Kennedy Park.

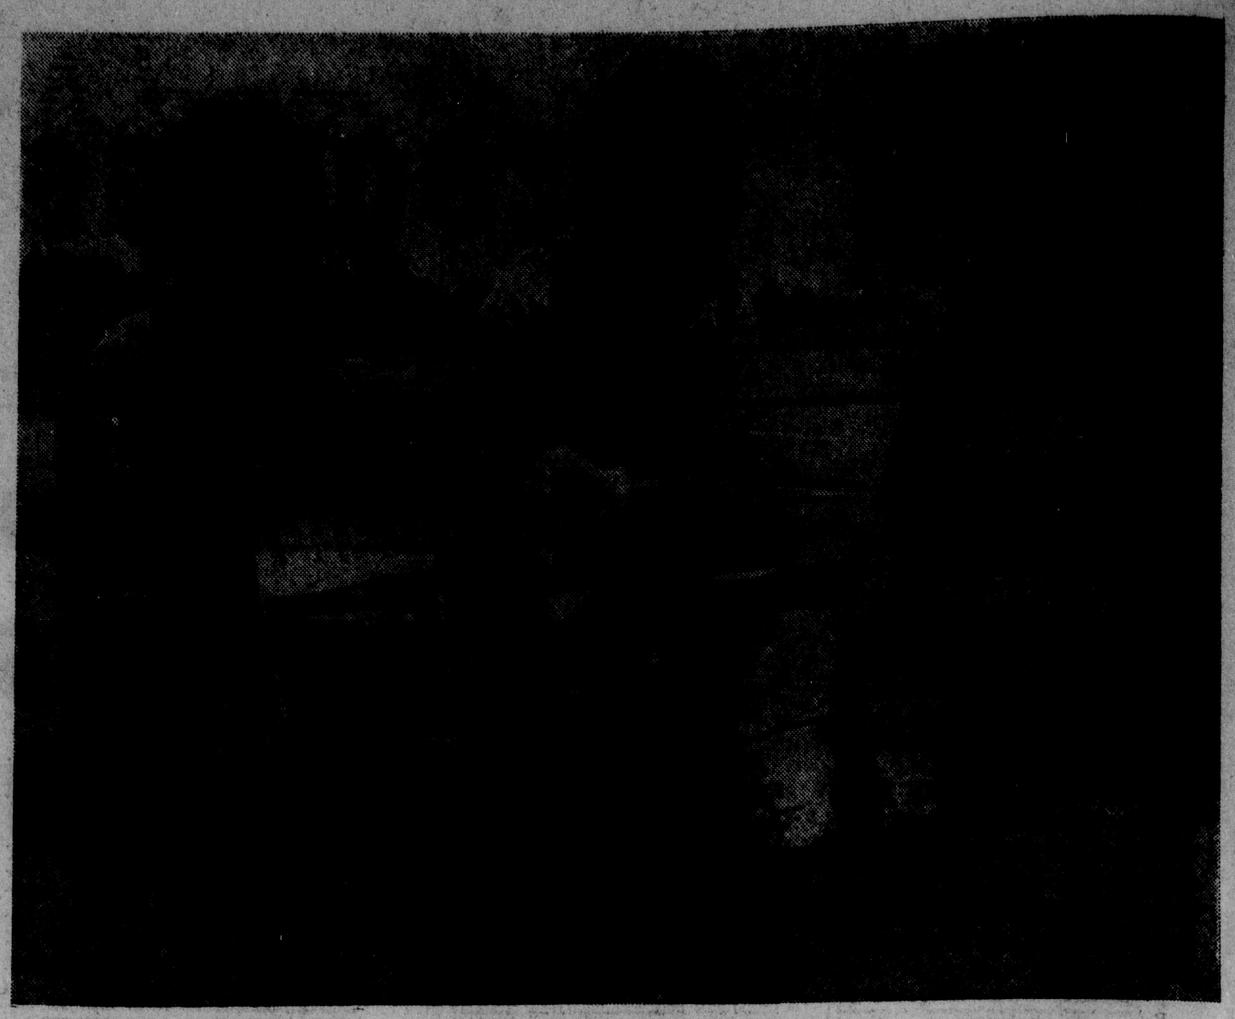

Of the $3,560,003 for operational expenses, 62 per cent is allocated for salaries and fringe benefits, 35 per cent to services and supplies and three per cent to capital outlay, Wasserman stated. There is $1,076,441 allocated to special funds.

The breakdown of the tentative budget per department is administrator and administrative services, $194,879; city council, $15,100; city attorney, $14,300; contingency, $261,830; general city functions, $805,880; police, $860,722; fire, $632,655; community development, $149,074; public works, $568,526; and recreation, $82,037.

The special funds were allocated to sewer maintenance, capital improvements, park development and revenue sharing.

In accepting the recommended cuts, the council agreed with Mayor Harold Hayes position that "first priority must be given to ongoing programs and services within the city."

A second budget session has been set for Tuesday.

PARADE OF STATES

Ninety fifth-graders at Sumner Elementary School in Claremont are busily completing their miniature state floats for the annual "Grand Parade of States" Friday morning at the school. Steve Willsey, left, in Mrs. Evelyn Vaughn's class, has finished his Ohio entry, Sarah MacLeod, armed with glue and Scotch tape, is working on Washington, and Ronald Smith in Miss Dorothy Peck's class has already completed his state of Nevada float, inspired by a trip with his family. Awards will be given.

Sumner's 'Parade of States' Friday will feature student-built floats

CLAREMONT — Proud parents will be on hand Friday at 10:30 a.m. at Sumner Elementary School for the annual "Grand Parade of States."

About 90 floats, representing the different states, with some duplication, of course, will be paraded around the schoolgrounds by their student creators, who also made state flags.

Special awards will be given for floats judged as follows: 1 — Float telling the best story of its state and showing the true character of its state; 2 — most colorful float; 3 — most original float; and 4 — best "advertisement."

Fifth-grade students in classes taught by Mrs. Evelyn Vaughn, Mrs. Grace Ward, Miss Dorothy Peck, and student teacher Mrs. Janet Mullins of Cal Poly built their floats on a regular size vehicle such as a shoe box or cereal box.

Each student told his classmates some special attractions of his individual state, such as climate, vacation spots, agricultural and industrial products, and special events such as sports, seasonal events, and historical events.

Each student pretended he was visiting his state for a week, and wrote a paper reflecting such a trip, which he read to the class.

The floats were made at school.

Theme of the parade this year is "From Sea to Shining Sea."

Drag racing's end approved by La Verne city manager

POMONA — An announcement that the Los Angeles County Fair board is dropping all drag races next year except the Winternationals has given satisfaction to La Verne.

But City Manager George Caswell mixed his approval with some skepticism.

"That's how it was four years ago," he recalled. "They dropped all the drag racing, but later they went back to them one by one."

Phil Shepherd, general manager of the fair, said the board came to the decision to eliminate hot rodding independently of the pressure generated by 300 residents last Monday who complained about the noise caused by the racing of engines and the use of public address systems.

He said the board had decided to drop drag racing two weeks ago, holding on to the Winternationals only. He said there was one more commitment left, that one in July, for a drag race meet and then there would be no more.

Although Shepherd said he received only one direct complaint from the residents, Caswell said another spokesman at the fair said numerous complaints also have been made by residents of Ganesha Hills in Pomona.

The complaints also reportedly included those against noise coming from public address systems at horse shows and private meetings. But there are no plans to drop those events.

Caswell said that since the fair board had taken the "proper action" he would not send letters of complaint to Pomona where the fairgrounds are located.

But he said he will inform County Supervisor Peter F. Schabarum of the situation and ask him to investigate.

First stage smog episodes called today

First stage smog episodes were called today by air pollution officials in San Bernardino and Los Angeles counties for valley communities.

The smog will be accompanied by temperatures in the mid 80s.

It is the second day of moderate smog conditions in the valley. The Air Pollution Control District in Los Angeles reported ozone readings of .25 parts per million Wednesday and San Bernardino APCD reported .16 ppm for West End communities.

First stage episodes are called when the ozone count reaches .20 ppm. It is recommended that persons — especially children, elderly and those with respiratory problems — remain indoors and that unnecessary driving be curtailed.

Pomona teens hold carnival

POMONA — Pomona Southside Teen Post will sponsor a community carnival tonight through Sunday to raise funds to finance student clubs on the Garey High School campus next year.

The carnival is set up on a vacant lot on the northeast corner of Garey and Lexington avenues.

It will be in operation today through Sunday from 6 p.m. to midnight. It will feature, in addition to the carnival rides, a variety of game booths. Ride tickets are four for $1 and may be purchased on the grounds.

Irv Clark, director of the teen post and a proctor at Garey, will supervise the carnival. Parents of teen post members and Garey students will assist in the game booths.

Carnival proceeds will be used by one club to purchase outfits for 1974-75 cheerleaders at Garey. Other clubs will use money earned to buy materials, supplies and other items needed for next year.

Public support is invited.

Prop. 1 funds won't come in time for S.D.

SAN DIMAS — Although the City of San Dimas will receive an estimated $90,000 allocation because of Tuesday's passage of Proposition 1, it's doubtful if the funds will arrive in time to provide funds to construct needed Little League ball fields before next spring.

City Manager Robert Poff said this morning that it is his understanding that funds from the $250 million bond issue for the acquisition and development of additional recreational land will not arrive until June of 1975.

The Little League in San Dimas has outgrown facilities at Marchant Park and several new fields are needed to keep up with the interest San Dimas youngsters have in participating in the program, recreational officials say.

Poff this week did express the possibility that a ballfield may be constructed by next spring at the proposed park at the former San Dimas Elementary School site through revenue sharing funds.

The City Council has approved in the city budget an $18,000 amount to tear down the old school buildings which were gutted by a fire last year.

Poff said for an additional $20,000, a sprinkling system, turf and bleachers could be realized. He said there would be enough room in the five-acre park for a small picnic area and basketball courts.

Now that the city has in view a $90,000 amount for park development, Poff said this will give the city some "breathing room." Just where the money will be spent will be decided finally by the City Council after recommendations from the Park and Recreation Commission.

Because of a slowdown in development throughout the city and a resulting decrease in the Park Develop-met Fund revenue, many planned park projects for this year have been delayed.

The City Council may take a new look at some of these projects in light of the $90,000. This includes the proposed Freeway Park and the proposed swim park; tennis courts at Lone Hill Park and possibly development at San Dimas Elementary School park site.

Chino man held in rape incident

CHINO — A 31-year-old Chino man was arrested Wednesday on suspicion of rape and possession of heroin for sale.

Edward Parra Alcala, of 5345 Anderson Ave., was arrested by police after being identified by witnesses of the rape incident on Sunday in Villa Park. Narcotics were found in his possession at the time of arrest, said police.

Arraignment for Alcala is scheduled today in Chino Municipal Court. Bail has been set at $13,500.

Norco man hurt in truck accident

CHINO — A Norco man was injured Wednesday night when his pickup struck the rear of a slower moving truck-trailer on the Pomona Freeway near Campus Avenue.

Kenneth Thompson, 23, of 4023 Sierra Ave., was admitted to Chino General Hospital where he underwent surgery today. His condition is termed satisfactory.

Thompson said he was going east on the Freeway and reached down to pick up a dropped cigarette when the accident occurred.

Raymond Ingle, 55, of La Puente, driver of the truck-trailer, said he was driving about 55 miles an hour when he felt a jerk and thought his trailer axle had broken.

City clerk appointed acting city treasurer

POMONA — Larry B. Thomas, city clerk since 1955, will also serve as acting city treasurer until someone is appointed to the latter position by the City Council.

Appointment of a permanent city treasurer, to succeed Mrs. Esther Brichacek who retired from that post last Friday, is expected to be made by mid-July.

Mrs. Brichacek was named by the council as "treasurer emeritus" and will serve in a consulting capacity for about two weeks to help close out the city's books for the fiscal year ending June 30.

Thomas came to Pomona in 1946 as license and sales tax collector for the city and was appointed city clerk afer the resignation of C. Harry Doremus in 1955.

Alex defeated for second term

WEST COVINA — Incumbent Jack Alex has been defeated in his bid for a second term as judge of the Citrus Municipal district by attorney Robert O. Young of West Covina.

Alex polled 24,442 votes, while Young received 32,244, about 57 per cent of the total in Office 2.

Young will take office Jan. 1.

In Office 1, Judge Wintrop Johnson was returned to the bench for his fourth 4-year term, defeating West Covina Attorney Morrie Matcha, 32,036 to 24,633, a 53½ per cent total.

Pomona personnel director takes Santa Barbara post

POMONA — Sidney R. Simms will leave his $21,000-a-year post as city personnel director to accept a position with Santa Barbara County.

Simms, 37 has submitted his letter of resignation to City Administrator Jerold R. Gonce.

The personnel officr said he will be moving to Santa Barbara and will start work July 1 as an assistant to Wilbur S. Wagstaff, Santa Barbara County director of personnel.

Simms has been personnel director for the City of Pomona since April 15, 1968. He was named to the position to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Earl Wilson.

Before coming to Pomona Simms was in charge of personnel recruiting for the City of Palo Alto, working under Wagstaff.

The letter to Gonce reads in part:

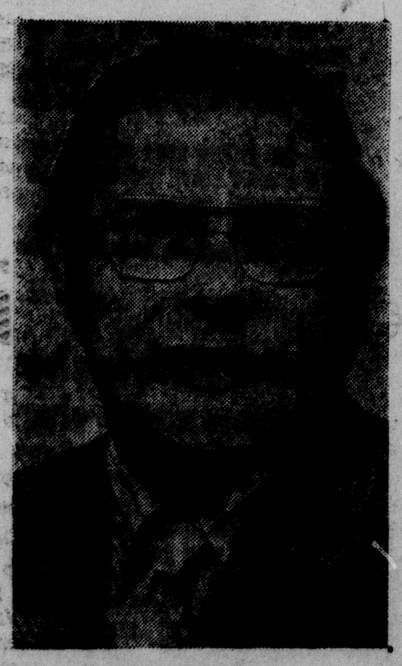

"Working with you the past eight months has been extremely rewarding and my expectations for Pomona under your direction are high. It is my sincere hope that the organization will continue to support a progressive path under your capable leadership.

"The past six-plus years have been invaluable to me professionally, and I am most appreciative for the opportunity to contribute to the development of a personnel system and the growth of Pomona."

During Simms' service as personnel officer here, the city has made major and drastic changes in its hiring practices, personnel rules and regulations and last January adopted an Affirmative Action Employment Program on equal job opportunities with city government for minority ethnic groups and women.

For his efforts to increase job opportunities for minorities, Simms four years ago received the Toltec Award for outstanding achievement from the Mexican-American Opportunity Foundation of Southern California.

Simms, an Upland resident, has served on the advisory board of the MAOF office in Pomona.

16-year-old boy arrested in rape

POMONA — A 16-year old boy was arrested Wednesday on suspicion of kidnaping and raping a 12-year-old girl.

The attack took place in a vacant, boarded-up house at 501 E. La Verne Ave., police said. The girl said she was forced to submit by the youth who threatened to kill her sister. The suspect denied charges that force or threats were used.

Two armed men rob delicatessen

ONTARIO — Two armed men staged a noon hour robbery at a delicatessen here Wednesday, escaping with an undetermined amount of money.

According to police, one of the men pulled a .25 caliber automatic handgun from his pocket and demanded that the owner of Sayer's Deli, 1459 W. Mission Blvd., open the cash register.

When Frances Sayer, 53, opened the register, the men seized the cash drawer and fled. Police believe that the men were driving a late model blue sedan.

The men were described as being black, about 18 and 21 years of age, both wearing dark clothing.

L.A. settles insurance in fireman's death

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles City Council voted Wednesday to accept a $200,000 share of a $1 million settlement involving a 1970 accident in which a fireman was killed when a mechanical ladder malfunctioned.

Fireman Thomas C. Collier was killed, and Capt. Hillis M. Baker and fireman James J. Denning injured as the three men rode in the basket of an 85-foot-high ladder. The apparatus tipped over, throwing the men to the street.

The city joined the two injured men and Collier's widow in a suit against the Snorkel Fire Equipment Co. and Crown Coach Corp.

In the settlement, Baker received $550,000, Mrs. Collier $225,000, and Denning $40,000. The city's share covers medical bils and disability and pension benefits paid to the firemen and Mrs. Collier.

Boy hurt when bomb he made exploded

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A 15-year-old junior high school boy was injured Wednesday when a bomb that he made exploded in his home.

Sheriff's deputies said Carl Ross Ammons II, an honors student at Colton Junior High School, received second degree burns over 25 per cent of his body.

Officers said the gunpowder bomb accidentally exploded, blowing out the boy's bedroom windows. The boy's mother said his room had been converted into a laboratory and that she thought he had been making firecrackers.

Back in the race

DETROIT (UPI) — Former Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh, bouncing back from a cancer operation 54 days ago, has resumed with campaign for governor of Michigan with a pledge of a vigorous race.

The 45-year-old Democrat smiled broadly as he made announcements in Detroit, Lansing and Grand Rapids that he is back in the race Tuesday. "I feel fine," he said.

Grand jury named Nixon as co-conspirator

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal grand jury voted last February to name President Nixon as an unindicted co-conspirator in the Watergate cover-up, it was disclosed today.

The President's impeachment lawyer, James D. St. Clair, told reporters he was informed of the development three or four weeks ago by Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

St. Clair made the comment after the Washintgon Post and the Washington Star-News said the grand jury named —but did not indict —the President and others in a sealed indictment returned March 1 against seven former White House and Nixon campaign aides.

A Los Angeles source, which first reported the grand jury wanted to name Nixon, said Jaworski persuaded the jurors not to mention the President even as an unindicted co-conspirator..

Asked about the reports, St. Clair said when Nixon was told that the grand jury wanted to name him, the President said, "They just don't have the evidence and they are wrong."

The names of the seven persons indicted, including top former presidential advisers H.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and John N. Mitchell, were revealed March 1. No names of co-conpsirators were disclosed.

Later, the grand jury turned over voluminous material it used in its investigation, including any evidence relating to Nixon, to the House Judiciary Committtee for its impeachment inquiry.

The newspapers cited unnamed sources as the basis for their reports.

The Post and Star-News said the jurors actually wanted to indict the President, but named him as an unindicted co-conspirator instead after Jaworski told them there was some question whether thy had power to indict a President.

As an unindicted co-conspirator, Nixon would not face criminal penalties.

St. Clair added that the President is "very confident that the true facts will come out and that he will be exonerated."

The Washington newspapers said Nixon was named in sealed documents turned over to Federal District Judge John J. Strica, but said the House Judiciary Committee was not told of the co-conspirator listing.

The Post said the grand jury's findings were relayed to attorneys for the defendants May 6 at a closed session with Jaworski and Sirica. The judge was said to have ordered those present to maintain secrecy.

The meeting was in response to motions by the defendants demanding that the prosecution supply them with a "bill of particulars." They asked for names of "all persons alleged to have conspired with the defendants named in the indictment."

On Wednesday, Jaworski delayed complying with the defense request for names of co-conspirators. A spokesman for Jaworski was quoted as saying "when the judge orders us to file it, we'll file it." Even after filing, the information could be kept secret.

Jaworski said in court Wednesday the Watergate cover-up would have been revealed much sooner had not top government officals lied from the beginning as "part of an extensive pattern of criminal actions."

SNIPER GUNNED DOWN

Man who held Omaha police off for 4½ hours, killing policeman and wounding 10 others, lies dead where he was hit by police bullets after fleeing burning home where he had barricaded himself.

Sniper slain after killing policeman, wounding 10

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — A sniper killed a young policeman and wounded 10 other persons during a nearly five hour gun battle that ended early today when he was gunned down by officers while fleeing a burning home filled with tear gas.

Police chief Richard Anderson said officers opened fire on Elza Carr Jr. 33, after Carr came out of the home onto a closed-in porch and fired a shotgun at the officers crouched outside, wounding one policeman.

Carr's bullet-riddled body fell out of the door onto the steps below. A Douglas county sheriff's deputy recovered a shotgun on the porch floor inside.

Angry young blacks, who had watched the drama during a night filled with sometimes heavy thunderstorms, surged into the combat area objecting to the way the police had gunned Carr down, literally jerked his body off the steps and dropped it on a sidewalk.

The crowd, estimated at more than 100 persons, dispersed but only after a woman was shot. She was not believed seriously wounded. Anderson said he was uncertain who fired the shot.

Throughout the incident involving Carr police were openly harassed by blacks, several of whom flaunted police barricades and walked within firing range of the sniper, who was holed up in the upper story of a two-story house near North Omaha where he had a room.

Patrolman Paul Nields, 29, a five-year police veteran, was shot and killed by Carr, who was standing on the stairway as Nields attempted to enter the home while officers fired tear gas into it.

Anderson said he authorized Lt. James Perry and Sgt. Charles Parker to fire the tear gas into the front of the home, but no one was authorized to enter it.

Following Nields' shooting, Omaha Mayor Edward Zorinsky, on the scene with his public safety director, Richard Roth, told Andersen, "I don't want any more patrolmen shot."

Roth, former head of the Secret Service in Omaha, added, "We can always wait until morning. He's got to come out."

Andersen said authorities will "probably never know" what prompted Carr to open fire. Andersen said Carr was convicted of two felonies, a burglary in 1967 and for auto theft in 1972.

Three people in the home, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Owens and James Solman, managed to escape while Carr was inside. Andersen said just how they escaped was uncertain, but they weren't physically harmed.

The night-long ordeal started when Carr reportedly shot and wounded his half brother, Jesse McDonald, 44, less than a block from the rooming house.

Bystanders reported, Andersen said, that Carr fled down an alley into the rooming house where he shot two policeman and a bystander from windows.

Boy, 3, found 600 miles away

Kidnaped by 'mean man'

MARIETTA, Ga. (UPI) — Three-year-old Matthew Gabriel Goodman says his kidnaper was "a mean man" who took him off a merry-go-round and abandoned him in a department store 600 miles from home.

The boy was found wandering around a Sears & Roebuck in Richmond, Va., Wednesday with a note pinned to his shirt that read: "I am from Atlanta, Ga. Please help me to get home."

Police said he was in "perfect health and good spirits" and had not been harmed by his kidnaper.

Matt told his mother, Mrs. Natalie Goodman, 28, in a joyous reunion at the Richmond airport that he "runned away" after the man pinned the note on him. The boy, carrying a sackful of toys, and his mother returned home Wednesday night.

Asked who took him from a small, 25-cent-a-ride merry-go-round in front of a K mart department store in Marietta Monday afternoon while his mother was shopping inside, he replied: "It was a man, it was a mean man."

Mrs. Goodman, a divorcee whose former husband, Dr. Steven Goodman, is a chiropodist in Santa Fe, N.M., said she had left Matt on the merry-go-round while she shopped. But when she returned about 20 minutes later, he was gone.

Mrs. Goodman, activities drector at a nursing home, offered in a public plea to give the abductor $10,000 for Matt's safe return, and promised, "I will make sure they won't prosecute."

The boy indicated he was lured into the man's car with a promise to "look for Mommy."

"He drove all around and looked everywhere, but he couldn't find you," Matt told his mother.

A customer found Matt in a stairwell in Sears about 2:30 p.m. Tuesday.

"He had no recollection of how he got here and no one knows how long he wandered around Sears," said detective James Croddy. "He just kept saying he was from Atlanta." Marietta is a suburb of Atlanta.

Mrs. Goodman, who moved to Marietta from Chicago two months ago, said she was "amazed" at the help she received in the Atlanta area.

"I lost my little boy and the whole population has been trying to help me find hime," she said.

Now that Matt is back, she said, "I'm never going to let him out of my sight."

U.S. 'badly overextended'

Mansfield calls for cut of 125,000 troops abroad

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Saying the United States is "badly overextended abroad," Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield proposed today a mandatory cut of 125,000 American troops overseas by the end of next year.

His statement came one day after a warning by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger that a mandatory cutback could politically destabilize U.S. allies in Western Europe and sabotage efforts to build "a structure of peace" in Asia.

The United States now has about 300,000 men in Europe and 140,000 in Asia.

Mansfield opened a day of debate on the issue by saying "it has been painfully evident...for at least the last several years that the United States is badly overextended abroad."

He said overseas troop commitments tended to set American foreign policy rather than the reverse, and added that a succession of administrations have resisted congressional suggestions that they be cut back.

"It is time that the gentle request be replaced with an order," Mansfield said.

He said that 30 years since World War II, "it is costing us $19 billion a year" to maintain U.S. troops in Europe.

Mansfield charged that the administration had put on a massive campaign against his proposal, including recruiting the AFL-CIO to lobby aganst it.

Kissinger's warning was contained in a letter made public Wednesday by Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee.

Stennis is fighting to preserve his $21.8 billion, 1975 arms procurement bill intact. It calls for a minor, optional reduction of about 23,000 support troops in the 300,000-man U.S. force in Europe.

But Mansfield and Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., who head a sizeable liberal bloc, have proposed much deeper cuts and the Senate put aside a full day today to consider them.

Mansfield wants to bring home about 125,000 men, the bulk of them from the European force. Cranston is proposing cuts of 100,000 from the worldwide total of 492,000 soldiers, sailors and airmen abroad, with emphasis on Asia.

Kissinger said it was certain that unilateral cuts imposed by Congress would undermine the current mutual force reduction talks between NATO and the Warsaw Pact.

But he said even worse consequences could follow. The combination of U.S.-European friction during the October Mideast War and the fall of several European governments since has created an unstable political climate, he said.

This has made it "important to avoid at all costs abrupt and destabilizing actions by us... There is no question in my mind that a reduction in U.S. forces in Europe would be destabilizing."

Senate gets $10.17 billion budget--exceeds Reagan plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A $10.17 billion proposed state budget for fiscal 1974-75 has been sent to the Senate floor by the Finance Committee.

On a 7-0 vote Wednesday, the 13-member committee approved the spending plan (SB1525) which contained $7.5 million more than was sought by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Meanwhile, the Assembly Ways and Means Committee was expected to complete its work today on the lower house's version of the budget. A committee spokesman said the panel will probably send its budget to the full Assembly on Friday or early next week.

The legislature is under a constitutionally-set June 15 deadline to enact a budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Reagan originally requested a $9.81 billion budget but later sought an additional $351.6 million, which included $169 million to meet added Medi-Cal costs.

Major additions to the proposed budget approved by the Finance Committee included $16 million for local mental health programs and a $3 million loan to the Department of Transportation to tide the agency over a period of uneven revenue income from gasoline taxes.

The committee, chaired by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, cut $6 million from senior citizens property tax assistance because funding projections did not take into account a recent increase in Social Security benefits.

The committee's spending program contained a $83.7 million appropriation requested by Reagan to finance pay increases averaging 5.3 per cent for state civil service employes.

S. Koreans shoot down U.S. copter

SEOUL (UPI) — South Korean troops guarding President Park Chung-hee's official mansion today shot down a U.S. Army helicopter with antiaircraft fire, wounding two Americans.

U.S. military officials said South Korean troops fired on the chopper when it strayed into a restricted air zone over Seoul. South Korean police said the helicopter crash-landed in a stream in downtown Seoul.

U.S. offcials said the chopper, from the 128th U.S. Army aviation company, was on a routine orientation flight at the time of the shooting.

The officials said two officers on board the helicopter were wounded in the incident. The officers, who were not identified, were taken to the U.S. Military Command Hospital in Seoul and reported in good condition.

Police identify body found dismembered

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Police Wednesday identified the dismembered body of a teenage girl found in the San Fernando Valley as that of Tauyne Lynn Moore, 17, of Mt. Gilead, Ohio.

A motel caretaker found portions of her body in plastic bags last April 9 in three trashcans in Studio City.

Authorities said Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fannim filed a missing persons report on their daughter shortly after they last saw her on May 25, 1973.

Would quit Fischer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bobby Fischer's lawyer wants to quit. He says the world chess champion is "uncooperative" and "inaccessible."

Fischer had to hire a lawyer when he was sued for for $3.2 million for refusing to allow Chester Fox to film Fischer's showdown chess match with Boris Spassky in 1972.

But the attorney, Paul Marshall, no longer wants the case. He filed a suit in his own behalf Wednesday, asking the city court to terminate his contract with Fischer and asking that Fischer be ordered to pay legal fees amounting to $2,976 and expenses.

The chess champion now lives in Southern California.

West Point speaker

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — Secretary of the Army Howard "Bo" Callaway told 840 graduates of the U.S. Military Academy Wednesday the future of voluntary military service in the country rests upon their shoulders.

"There are many in America who feel that we still need the draft," Callaway told a crowd of 6,000. "But I have confidence in the officers' ability to make the volunteer Army workable."

Callaway, 47, graduated from the Military Acadamy in 1949 but left military service three years later.

Desperate moment

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Marji Wallace, 20, the former Miss World who is in critical condition suffering from an overdose of sleeping pills, took the medicine in a moment of desperation, her mother said Wednesday.

"Conceivably, she thought she could not go on," said Alice Wallace of Las Vegas, Nev. But Mrs. Wallace said her "mother's intuition" would not allow her to believe her daughter attempted suicide.

Elkins who?

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Johnny Elkins, the assistant manager of a Nashville service station, is confident he will be elected governor.

Elkins, who filed a petition with the state Election Board Wedneday, said he has "no platform, no money, and no organization." But he thinks he can win through "word of mouth."

"My chances are pretty good since the majority of people in Tennessee are poor, and I'm poor," Elkins said. "I m not a politician, I'm not rich and I wouldn't owe anybody any favors."

Elkins faces one immediate obstacle: The Democratic state party endorsement. They say they never heard of him.

Appeal by Cousteau

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — Oceanographer Jacques Cousteau has called for international cooperation to preserve the oceans and their resources for future generations.

Cousteau made the appeal in an address to 130 Texas A and M University students, including six coeds, at the Texas Maritime Academy. He later visited the Texas Clipper, A and M's 15,000-ton floating classroom, just before its two-month cruise around the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean.

Brown, Flournoy pledge to abide by spending limit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Before California's tough new electoral reform law was a day old, the Democratic and Republican candidates for governor launched their campaigns by agreeing to comply with its campaign spending limits even though they don't have to.

The spending ceilings, and some other major provisions of the reform initiative passed overwhelmingly by voters Tuesday, do not go into effect until next year. But both Democrat Edmund G. Brown Jr., and Republican Houston Flournoy pledged Wednesday to limit expenditures.

If final agreement is secured, each would spend about $1.26 million —the sum allowed under the newly enacted Proposition 9 ballot initiative.

Flournoy, the 44-year-old state controller, said he was "prepared to live by the provisions of Proposition 9" and "perfectly prepared to have a spending limit in the general election if it is agreeable to Secretary of State Brown."

Brown, at a news conference later Wednesday, accepted the challenge and said he directed his staff to meet with Flournoy's representatives to "try to work out a limit."

Flournoy opposed Proposition 9 on Tuesday's election ballot while Brown helped draft the measure and and vigorously campaigned for it, although his support cost him the endorsement of organized labor.

Many provisions of Proposition 9 take effect next Jan. 7, including creation of a $1 million state commission to enforce it.

Brown said there should be a "strong policing mechanism" worked out by the two candidates to enforce any formal agreement in the absence of a commission.

Flournoy told a news conference he would be happy to debate the 36-year-old son of former Gov. Edmund G. Brown "as long as we start early and have a series of debates."

Brown said he already had directed his staff to meet with Flournoy's to develop ground rules.

"I have no preconceptions about the debate. We can have a face-to-face debate, but I want to work out some rules," he said.

With 96.9 per cent of the primary election vote counted, semi-official tigures showed Flournoy defeated Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, who was indicted by a Watergate grand jury, for the GOP nomination by 1.11 million to 539,008 votes.

Brown defeated San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto 1.05 million votes to 519,611. Other Democratic candidates included Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, 465,694; William Matson Roth, 287,499; Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, 193,123; Los Angeles County Supervisor Baxter Ward, 78,194; and Claremont attorney Herb Hafif, 75,805.

ROBIN HOOD — Bruce Vanier, 23, was cleared of any wrongdoing Wednesday for plugging parking meters in downtown Milwaukee and leaving envelopes on the cars asking owners to send him $1.

Modern-day Robin Hood

Philanthropist aids overparked drivers

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Robin Hood rides again — through the downtown forest of sturdy parking meters.

Milwaukee's modern - day Sherwood Forest rogue, Bruce Vanier, resumed his self-appointed mission of saving motorists from parking tickets Wednesday after the city attorney's office could find no reason to stop his philanthropy.

Vanier, 23, began his rescue work last week, pedaling his 10-speed bicycle in search of expired parking meters. When he spotted one he plunked in a coin and left a stamped, selfaddressed envelope under the windshield wiper.

Inside the envelope was a note: "You have just been rescued from a $5 parking ticket by the Robin Hood Public Parking Aid." The notes asked the motorist to send Vanier $1 to help him continue his "public service."

However, police caught up with Vanier and ordered him to appear in the city attorney's office for possible charges of using a restricted parking area more than once a day and "throwing a missile on a vehicle."

"Bruce can continue his operation," assistant city attorney David Felger concluded after Wednesday's meeting.

Felger, after conferring with an attorney provided Vanier by the Legal Aid Society, agreed the "missiles" ordinance was too vague especially since police also throw "missiles" in the form of parking tickets.

As for putting coins in meters for someone else, Felger said no ordinance covers that situation. If anyone was violating a law it would be the motorists for overparking, he said.

Felger's interest in the case spurred him to extensive research, including a trip to the library to read "The English Rogue," published in 1665 and purportedly the origin of the Robin Hood legend.

Felger said if anything was needed to pin a rap of Milwaukee's Robin Hood, it was a citizen' complaint.

But police had none. In fact, all the written evidence was in Vanier's favor —notes he'd received from motorists saying, " I hope you get off the hook" and "God will bless you."

So Vanier pedaled away a free man and immediately began rescuing overparked motorists. But, like his legendary namesake, Vanier couldn't elude the long arm of the law completely.

Before the day was over, police ticketed him for riding an unlicensed bicycle.

Consumer slower dipping into pocket

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans reached for credit cards instead of cash twice as fast in April in efforts to stave off the effects of inflation, according to the Federal Reserve Board.

Consumers also slowed down repayments of credit in April, the Federal Reserve said.

Rising credit and slower payments are apparently results of the shrinking buying power of the dollar and the fear that prices haven't peaked yet.

"Price increases are apparently putting the squeeze on consumers," a government economist said. "The same amount of money is not going as far."

Pam Rose, a Washington school teacher, said she borrowed $1,700 to buy a new car, even though she could have repaired her old one. "Why wait; it'll just be higher next week or next month, anyway," Mrs. Rose said.

The Federal Reserve reported Wednesday that consumer credit jumped $1.5 billion in April, more than double the average increases in January, February and March.

"Nearly one-half of the total growth in installment debt was in credit for 'other consumer goods' and another one-third in personal loans," the Federal Reserve said.

The "other consumer goods" category consists of clothing, household appliances, recreation equipment and small and medium priced items paid for in installments.

Americans asked for $356 million in credit extensions in April and slowed down repayments by $180 million. In January, February and March, consumers were paying off loans at record high levels, the Federal Reserve said.

The impact of high interest rates, which have cut construction of new homes by 30 per cent, was also reflected in the Federal Reserve report. Since Americans cannot buy new homes as readily, they increased home improvement loans by a record $135 million to fix up and enlarge their old ones.

Total consumer credit outstanding on April 30 was $179.5 billion, an increase of $18 billion over last year.

Fired school principal wins $10,000 award

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — A school principal who said his contract wasn't renewed because he removed the portraits of two Confederate heroes from a classroom has been awarded $10,000 damages in federal court.

Pinckney Love, now teaching in Atlanta, told the court that his contract was not renewed because he raised the ire of some parents when he removed portraits of Jefferson Davis and Robert E. Lee.

He said he removed the portraits in an attempt to comply with a desegregation order at the Waynesboro Elementary School.

AGAINST EVERYTHING — Under the watchful eye of police, pickets march around Olympic Hotel in Seattle Wednesday where 66th Annual National Governor's Conference was in its final session. The pickets were protesting everything from the Nixon administration to Sen. Ted Kennedy and even Indian treaty fishing rights.

Governors wind up annual conference held in Seattle

By RICHARD E. COHEN

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — The nation's governors concluded their 66th annual convention Wednesday—three days of telling others and being told in turn how states have seized the initiative from a federal government mired in Watergate.

Little was left on the closing agenda. Democratic Gov. Calvin Rampton was the choice to succeed Washington's host governor, Dan Evans, as the new chairman of the National Governors' Conference.

The final panel was titled "States and Their Future Agenda," and speakers included former Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson; Duke University President Terry Sanford, former governor of North Carolina; and Daniel J. Elazar, director of the Center for the Study of Federalism at Temple University.

A handful of resolutions were expected to be ratified—none of them controversial.

The governors seemed ready to vote for an ethics resolution that urged all levels of government" to impose strict controls on campaign spending, outlaw secret government meetings, and require public officials to disclose their finances.

The resolution, a bipartisan offering by Democrat Patrick Lucey of Wisconsin and Republican William Milliken of Michigan, had the unanimous support of the 27 governors present at Tuesday's meeting of the Democratic Governors' Caucus.

Governors' conferences traditionally are politically bland, and this one was no exception. Partisan politics were largely muted save for an attack Tuesday by Gov. Wendell Ford of Kentucky on the Nixon administration for what Ford said was an effort to frighten coters with the specter that a veto-proof" Congress may be elected in a Democratic landslide in November.

Ford called it a "cynical ploy" that invited representatives of the administration came to Seattle to drum up fear among Americans that too many Democrats winning in off-year congressional elections would damage the nation.

Among those who spoke of a veto-proof Congress at the session were Ken Cole, Nixon's chief domestic adviser; Republican National Chairman George Bush, and Casper Weinberger, secretary of health, education and welfare.

Ford's blast and the attention focused on potential presidential hopefuls Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, were the only outward signs that 1976 is approaching.

Privately, however, many of the participants indicated they expect the governors to seize prominent roles in their parties' national conventions — perhaps as candidates.

Among the Republican names being broached as possible candidates were Reagan, Milliken and Evans. Democrats who governors felt could find their way into a national ticket included Dan Walker of Illinois, Dale Bumpers of Arkansas; Reuben Askew of Florida; Jimmy Carter of Georgia; John Gilligan of Ohio and the new head of the Democratic Governors' Caucus, the boyish-looking Wendell Anderson of Minnesota.

New work schedule ends clockwatching

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Employes of the various state ministries in the province of Catamarca in the Argentine northeast can stop clockwatching.

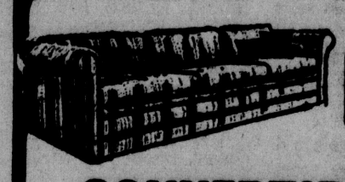

A new work schedule plan eliminates all reference to arrival and departure times but says the employes must be at their desks during the same period that the minister in charge of each department is at his.

Women termed best customers of wine

NEW YORK (UPI) — Women are the best wine customers in the United States, says the Newspaper Advertising Bureau, Inc. The bureau said 14 million of the nation's 27 million wine drinkers are women. The fair sex also makes 51 per cent of the wine purchases in the United States.

No more promises, FDA tells drug industry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nonprescription antacid products will no longer be allowed to promise relief for everything from nervous tension headaches to cold symptoms under new rules from the Food and Drug Administration (FDA).

The agency, in regulations published this week, also told the $117-million-a-year industry the compounds its sells must be composed of a small set of ingredients that have been proven safe and effective.

The regulations rejected claims that one of the most widely sold antacids, Alka-Seltzer, should be banned because it could be harmful to ulcer patients. FDA Commissioner Dr. Alexander M. Schmidt said there was no evidence that Alka-Seltzer's aspirin content had resulted in a significant medical problem, as Ralph Nader's Health Research Group had claimed.

The new rules will allow antacid products to be combined with pain killers such as aspirin only if the label informs the buyer that the drug should be used solely for both upset stomach and headache. Alka-Seltzer has already announced that it is marketing a second variety of its product that contains no aspirin and which will be sold strictly as an antacid to comply with the new rules.

The labels of all antacid products will specify they are for "heartburn," "sour stomach" or "acid indigestion." Claims for treatment of such things as "morning sickness of pregnancy," "cold symptoms," "nervous tension headaches" or "nerves or emotional disturbances" will be outlawed.

Only 13 ingredients will be allowed for antacids. They are aluminum, bicarbonate, bismuth, calcium, citrate, magnesium, phosphate, potassium, sodium and tartrate—all containing active ingredients — as well as sodium bicarbonate, glycine and dried milk solids.

Those ingredients will not be allowed in combination with laxatives, antichlorinergics (stomach calmers) or some other non-antacid ingredients.

Schmidt said he doubted very many of the estimated 8,000 antacid products on the market would be forced out of business by the new regulations. He said most would change their formulas or their labels to comply.

The agency also said the rules provide for labels to warn consumers that some ingredients in antacids react with or interfere with prescription drugs.

Dog gulps $100 bill

GRASS VALLEY (UPI) — Harold Krause has learned that his 7-year-old Chesapeake retriever has expensive tastes.

Krause, an artist-antique dealer, wadded up a $100 bill and tossed it across the room to his wife Lorie, saying: "Here catch."

His dog, Rusty, apparently thought the command was directed to him. When the bill ricocheted off Mrs. Krause's knee, Rusty clamped down on it.

The couple offered the dog some bacon hoping he would open his mouth. He opened wide, swallowed the bacon, and the bill.

A veterinarian tried to get the dog to disgorge the bill—but again, no luck.

The pair then decided to let Mother Nature take over. After two days of close observation, the bill came back to them.

Hirohito had an idea how war would end before it started

TOKYO (UPI) — Emperor Hirohito said before World War II that his fleet could not even defeat the U.S. Navy in war games played on maps, according to a book published in Japan last week.

"Record of the Emperor's Words" (Tenno Goroku), is a book of hundreds of quotations attributed to the Japanese monarch during his 47-year reign.

Compiled from old newspapers, aides' diaries and testimony at postwar trials of Japanese leaders, it contains Hirohito's observations on the war, the atomic bombing of Hiroshima —and the problems of buying presents for his children.

It also unveils a dry, sarcastic sense of humor that is not part of his public image in Japan.

"I hear that every time they have a war on maps over at the Navy college, we usually lose to America," Hirohito told a cabinet meeting in September, 1940, more than a year before the Pearl Harbor attack. The meeting had touched on the possibility of war with America.

The book later quotes the emperor as telling Gen. Douglas MacArthur that it would have been impossible for him to check the Japanese army's war schemes.

"If I hadn't given permission, they quickly would have set up another emperor," Hirohito is quoted as saying.

When a general in September, 1941 promised victory in three months in a war with America, Hirohito reminded him that Japan already had been fighting China for four years.

"You say the interior of China is a big place, but isn't the Pacific Ocean even bigger?" the Emperor remarked.

Several of the quotations disclose worry over the jealous rivalry between the Japanese army and navy.

"We can't help it that things have turned out this way," he said to an aide one week before the Pearl Harbor bombing. "Now please try somehow to get the navy and the army to cooperate with each other."

Hirohito's vein of sarcasm was at its richest when Gen. James Doolittle's B25 bombers staged America's first raid on Tokyo at noon on April 18, 1942.

"Maybe this ought not to be happening," the emperor told an official who rushed in with the news. "The navy minister was just over here, and said if there were any air raids they'd be at night. That's bad. Now Tokyo is being bombed. Let's get out of here quickly..."

Hirohito's initial reaction to the Hiroshima atomic bombing was: "Since weapons of this type are now being used, it is more than ever impossible to continue the war."

The Hiroshima attack found Japan's government divided between politicians who wanted to surrender and army diehards who wanted to fight to the end.

"Until the dramatic conditions created by the Hiroshima bombing, the peace faction was not dominant," the emperor told MacArthur about a month after the 1945 surrender ended the war.

When Crown Prince Akihito graduated from primary school seven months after the war, Hirohito said he should be given an old camera from the palace photography shop.

"For the crown prince, that will be suitable," the emperor said. "He shouldn't be given expensive or splendid things in the future."

Another quotation indicates Hirohito issued an order, never carried out, that America, Britain and the Netherlands were to be accorded a formal declaration of war before Pearl Harbor was attacked.

After the war, a new constitution stripped the emperor of his power and made him a purely ceremonial symbol of state. When he heard the news that a general election had ended with no political party getting a majority in parliament he remarked:

"Well, democracy is like that."

Survey shows

Most patients still prefer male doctors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A survey of 500 New York City patients shows there is a general prejudice against women doctors and most people would rather go to a male physician.

More than half of those questioned at three general clinics on New York's west side said the doctor's sex was the single most important consideration in a long list of characteristics. Seventy-eight per cent said they preferred male doctors.

Dr. Edgar G. Engleman, a research associate at the National Heart and Lung Institute, said that despite their preference for male doctors, more than half of those interviewed had never been treated by a female doctor.

"Female physicians were considered less competent and less experienced than their male counterparts, but were also seen as cleaner, moreemotional, more trustworthy and more concerned about poor patients," Engleman said in a report published in the Western Journal of Medicine.

He said he believed a major reason for the prejudice against women doctors is "the conflict which exists between society's ideal image of women and the image of the profession.

"In American society, some of the preferred femimine attributes are personal wealth and empathy, sensitivity and emotionalism, compliance, dependence and deference, as well as absence of such 'masculine' traits as aggressiveness, egotism, persistence and ambition.

"By violating society's common image of feminity, the female doctor disconcerts both men and women," he said.

Women interviewed in the study were found to be slightly more favorably inclined toward female physicians, Engleman said.

Seventy-five per cent of the female patients preferred male doctors, 17 per cent favored a woman and 8 per cent didn't care. Eighty-four per cent of the men questioned preferred a male doctor with only 6 per cent favoring a woman.

Half of the men questioned said they considered women doctors as competent as men. Twenty-five per cent said they thought females were less competent, 16 per cent thought they were more competent than male doctors, and 9 per cent didn't know.

Of the women patients surveyed, 46 per cent said they thought men and women doctors were equally competent, 27.5 per cent said women were less competent and 21 per cent said they were more competent than male physicians.

Younger patients were more likely to prefer female doctors, athough 68 per cent of those under 30 favored male doctors.

Engleman said blue collar workers were more likely than those in other occupations to express negative attitudes toward female physicians with 81 per cent preferring male doctors. Sixty-one per cent of the students interviewed favored men.

Baby seriously hurt in fall from car roof

MODESTO (UPI) — A baby riding accidentally on the roof of her parents' car fell to the pavement suffering a fractured skull but avoiding being crushed by a pursuing rescue car.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Johnson had driven five blocks before they learned that Karri Ann Johnson, 2 months, was not in the car.

The child, strapped to a plastic carrier, had been placed on the roof when her parents unlocked the car and each had thought the other had put her inside.

Robert Webster and Dennis Wallace, California Highway Patrol members, spotted the child on the roof and gave chase, trying to stop the Johnsons.

But the child slipped off before they could catch up.

The child was reported in serious condition at Modesto's Memorial North Hospital.

Alka Seltzer may be told to confess

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some non-prescription drugs — Alka-Seltzer in particular — may have to start running ads confessing that previous claims were wrong, a high Federal Trade Commission official suggested Wednesday.

Such advertising may also include warnings to the consumer on side effects, the proper doseage and other cautions now listed only on product labels, said J. Thomas Rosch, director of the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection.

Rosch told a Senate monopoly subcommittee hearing that the Food and Drug Administration's review of all over-the-counter drugs — the antacid portion of which was completed Tuesday —should make the products safe and effective; but there is a problem, he said, if consumers go on buying nonprescription drugs on the basis of old advertising claims disproved by the FDA review.

Erasing such erroneous consumer beliefs, Rosch said, is a matter "worthy of substantial commission attention." It is possible, he said, that "corrective advertising orders will be requested in order to dispel public misimpressions concerning the use of drug products."

Rosch said there was a particular problem involving products which combine antacids and aspirin —Alka-Seltzer being the largest selling and prime example. The new FDA rules say such product labels must advise the user to take them only for upset stomach and headache —not for upset stomach alone.

Yet, Rosch testified, Alka-Seltzer has been advertised heavily for years as good for relief of upset stomach alone. Miles Laboratories, he suggested, will have to "demonstrate to the staff's satisfaction...that the claim it has been making does not at this time linger in the public mind."

Alka-Seltzer is test marketing a second variety without aspirin which meets the FDA rules for antacids. The other major product in the class, Bromo-Seltzer, is second to Alka-Seltzer in sales and probably would not be involved in any corrective advertising.

Rosch also said his staff is drawing up a trade regulation rule, for submission to the FTC, which would require all advertising of over-the-counter drugs to disclose some of the warnings that will be required on product labels by the FDA review.

Rosch said he hoped the advertising rule would take effect when the FDA's antacid rules go into effect —in about one year from now.

Jazz tradition taking hold at Bonita High School

By MAE TATE
P-B Staff Writer

LA VERNE — Jazz is a musical idiom usually foreign to the high school campus, but not to Bonita High.

The proof is in the fact that the Bonita Jazz Ensemble has been invited for the third consecutive year to participate in the California High School Jazz Band Competition at Monterey Peninsula College Saturday.

Although most high schoolers are turned onto rock and country and western music, the Bonita campus has the unique presence of jazz enthusiasts who are not only listeners, but masters of the jazz style.

At the age of two in 1972, the Bonita ensemble won the distinction of being the top high school jazz unit in the state at the Monterey invitational competition. Last year, it was among the top four units. Thirteen trophies have been added to the band room display within the last two years with Bonita winning every major high school jazz festival in 1972 and placing in the top three throughout 1973.

The young people in the Bonita Jazz Ensemble have the mark of true jazz artists — tapping feet, bobbing heads and intense concentration shifting between the feel of the music and the conducting of Robin Snyder.

Sitting in on a rehearsal session is a unique sight and sound experience. The entire band rehearses mornings and evenings with speicific sections taken through paces each afternoon. It's a demanding schedule for both instrumentalists and instructor. But that's how prize winners and pacesetters are made.

The young men are quick on the uptake, reacting immedaitely to the dun, dun DUN instructions from Snyder.

"Get that tone sustained. No chopping, holding. Da, da, da, da, push," Snyder points out with an upward swish of the shoulders. "It's not a catch-up game. It's basic 1 and 2 and 1 ah; E and 2 E and E . . . You're going to have to work that over, baby, so that does't sound like a caterpillar coming through here. It's supposed to be warmer and prettier."

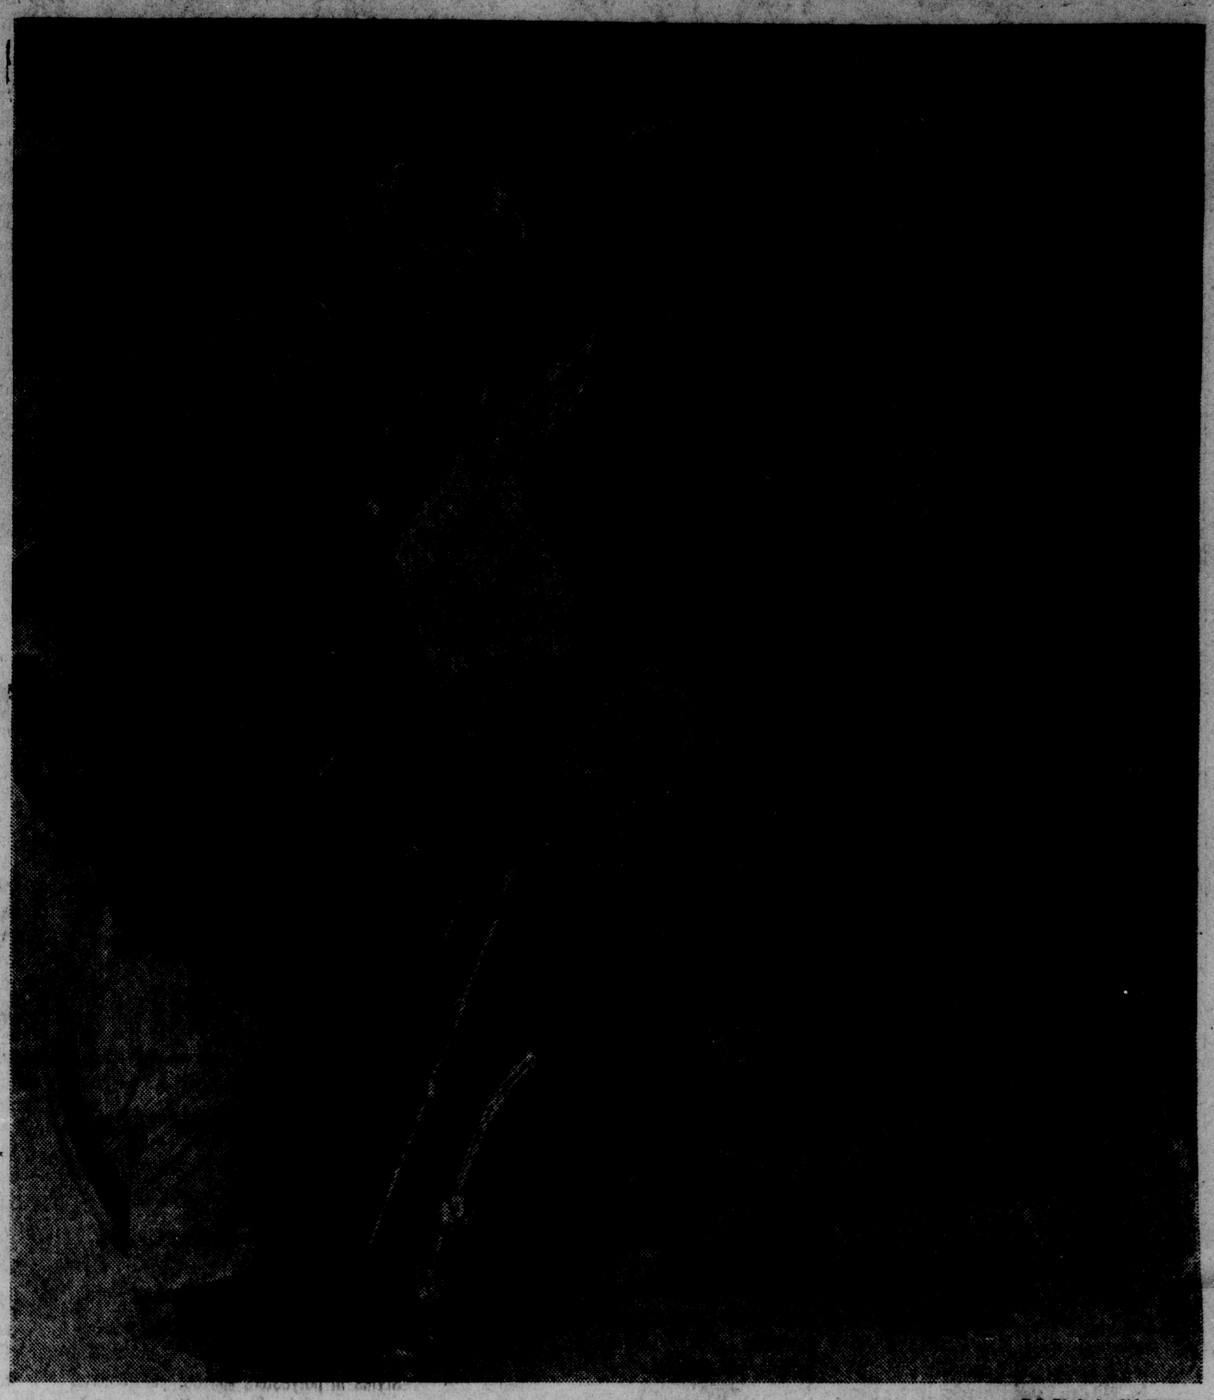

Snyder came to Bonita seven years ago as band instructor-director at the high school and beginning music teacher at Roynon, La Verne Heights and Grace Miller elementary schools.

He provided the initial thrust for the establishment of the jazz ensemble and advance instrumentalists from the Bonita High concert band provided the manpower.

"We were pretty weak to start out with, but it got better. Obviously," he laughed. "I've had no trouble with maintaining the interest level. I can call a rehearsal at any time and get it. They're dedicated and turned on to it," Snyder said.

The 21 members of the ensemble are allowed more freedom in musical approach. Snyder characterized the group as listeners, frequent record buyers and attracted to difficult and good musical scores.

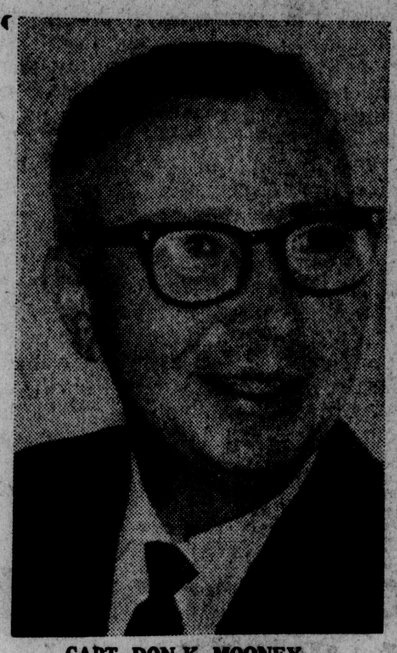

A tenor sax man, Snyder has done club, combo and college campus work as a free-lance musician. A frequent listener at jazz spots and concerts, he often takes his students along.

Four Pomona veteran police officers retiring

POMONA — Four veteran police officers, including the department's only policewoman, will be honored on their retirement Sunday at a banquet at the Ontario Elks Lodge.

Those leaving the department after almost 75 total years of service are Capt. Don K. Mooney, Policewoman Bonnie J. Miller, and Officers Joseph L. DeMoss and Lawrence C. Feemster.

The banquet, with the social hour at 6 and the dinner at 7, is open to all who wish to attend. Reservations must be made by Friday. Tickets are available at the Pomona Police Department. Charles Bader, Pomona city councilman, will be master of ceremonies. Dancing will begin at 9 to the music of the "Sweet and Sour." Tickets are $6.50.

Retirement badges and identification cards will be presented to the retirees by Police Chief F. P. Wallick.

Mooney joined the department April 1, 1950, as a patrolman. He was promoted to sergeant four years later and to lieutenant Jan. 1, 1959. On March 1, 1966, he was promoted to captain and headed the detective bureau.

Mrs. Miller, whose husband, Bob remains in the department's detective bureau, joined the department May 7, 1951, as a record bureau clerk. On Feb. 1, 1960, she became a policewoman. She was assigned to the juvenile bureau.

DeMoss joined the department Nov. 7, 1955, after service with the Oceanside Police Department. His service was with the Patrol Division.

Feemster joined the police department in 1966 after previous employment in another city department. He retired for medical reasons April 1 of this year.

Former CBS president to address CMC graduates

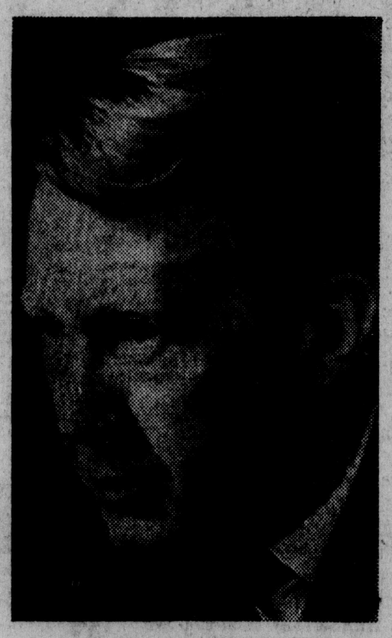

CLAREMONT — Dr. Frank Stanton, former president of Columbia Broadcasting System and presently chairman and principal officer of the American National Red Cross, will speak at the 27th commencement of Claremont Men's College Sunday at 2 p.m. in Badgley Garden.

There are 204 candidates for the bachelor of arts degree.

For more than a quarter century Stanton was president of CBS. During part of this time he also was chairman of the U.S. Advisory Commission on Information, having been appointed by President Johnson in 1964 and reappointed to a third three-year term by President Nixon. He was appointed to his present post by the President in 1973.

Stanton, who holds a B.A. from Ohio Wesleyan University and a Ph.D. from Ohio State University, is on the board of directors of numerous corporations, including the Atlantic Richfield Co., American Electric Power Co., Pan American World Airways and Columbia Broadcasting System. In addition he is a trustee of the Rand Corporation and of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, and a retired trustee of the Rockefeller Foundation.

The speaker has been the recipient of numerous honors for his achievements in broadcast journalism, including the George Foster Peabody Award in 1961 for his sustained effort to bring about the "Great Debates." In 1972 he received a Special Peabody Award for his defense of broadcast journalism and "the people's right to know."

Burlington sells Pomona plant to textile company

POMONA — The Pomona plant of Burlington Industries is now under new ownership.

Burlington announced the sale of the Burlington Tricot Fabrics plant, 1980 S. Reservoir St., as a further step in streamlining and consolidating the firm's warp knitting operation.

Hansel B. Millican, executive vice president of Burlington, said the plant has been purchased by the newly formed Pomona Textile Co.

Principals in the new company include C.J. Gelber and W.M. Joyner, both of whom have been with Burlington more than 20 years. Gelber has been a vice president of Burlington Tricot Fabrics.

No purchase price was announced.

Earlier this year, Millcan announced that Burlington was consolidating its warp knitting operations at the J.C. Cowan plant in Forest City, N.C. with streamline operation and upgraded equipment.

Joyner said the plant in Pomona would continue operating as in the past with the same flat knitting process.

Pomona to fund nutrition service for children

POMONA — City government again will be the fiscal sponsor for a special summer nutritional program for 2,200 children.

Starting June 17, free hot lunches will be served to children from low-income homes at more than 24 sites throughout the city.

This is the third year the city has conducted the program, designed to improve the nutrition of children by providing well-balanced meals.

The program will be conducted Monday through Friday in conjunction with the city-schools summer recreation program and organized activities of other agencies.

This year, food services will be supplied by the Pomona Unified School District. This was done by a private vendor last year.

The program will be funded by a $60,000 grant received through the State Department of Education's Office of Food and Nutrition Services.

Officials said some details, such as the exact locations, are being worked out between the city, school district and state offices. The program will end Aug. 9.

Gas hike sought, raising average bill by 82 cents

LOS ANGELES — Residents may soon be charged more for their natural gas.

The Southern California Gas Co. has requested approval to increase rates by $79,450,000 a year to offset anticipated increases in its cost of natural gas.

If approved, the cost for the typical residential usage of 100 therms a month would go up 82.6 cents.

The California Public Utilities Commission has scheduled a public hearing for Monday at 10 a.m. in the PUC's Los Angeles Courtroom, located in the State Office Building at 107 S. Broadway.

In its application, the gas company claimed that two of its suppliers, El Paso Natural Gas Co. and Transwestern Pipeline Co., have filed rate proceedings with the Federal Power Commission and that higher rates will go into effect on July 10.

Should the federal agency subsequently reduce the rate increases, gas company officials said they would make appropriate rate reductions and refunds to their customers.

The Parks and Recreation Department will conduct an eight-week water safety program for children 6 and older Mondays through Fridays starting June 17.

The first week will be devoted to classes for beginners. Red Cross classes for beginners advanced beginners, intermediate students and swimmers will be taught at both pools at 9:30, 10:10 and 10:50 a.m. Twenty-five cents will be charged per lesson.

The case of the missing expletives

President Nixon's use of deleted expletives in the White House transcripts has drawn comment by spokesmen from both the spiritual and the secular worlds, from the sacred and the — uh — profane.

First was John McLaughlin, a Jesuit priest on the White House staff whom some reporters have dubbed the President's resident exorcist.

"I see the profanity as a form of emotional drainage," said the good father, " . . . of therapy . . . of release." Used as an escape valve for the tremendous pressure at the top, this kind of cussing was "good, valid, sound."

Now comes a University of Wisconsin professor who says President Nixon is a "typical American" when it comes to swearing.

Reinhold A. Aman, an assistant professor of German who considers himself an expert on swearing, says he "read the whole (expletive deleted) thing" (the transcripts) and found that the President "acted like anyone else. He had to get rid of his emotional steam. He could have kicked Pat or started a war, or he could have sworn."

Americans will be happy to know that they have as Commander in Chief a regular fellow who swears rather than kick his wife or call out the Marines. And anyone with a smattering of understanding of human nature will agree as to the therapeutic value of a resounding hair-singeing, wall-shaking oath vented under the appropriate circumstances. The man who knows how to swear — and when to swear — has learned a useful art.

But is that what we have in the transcripts?

It would seem that very little emotion was expressed at all, by any of the participants. Rather, they cold-bloodedly discussed "options" and "scenarios." Far from signifying explosions of presidential wrath, the deleted expletives attributed to Mr. Nixon seem to have been almost neutral, all-purpose adjectives — so far as can be determined from reading the transcripts rather than hearing the actual tapes.

The conversations recorded in the Oval Office were little different from the kind that can be heard in any military barracks, where a small number of stock expletives are used routinely and incessantly as a substitute for thought.

Certainly, very little first-rate thinking seems to have taken place in the Oval Office, at least as far as Watergate is concerned.

If only the President had really let loose when he learned about his aides' involvement in the affair and had delivered himself of a few choice words that would have fried those tapes and curled them around the edges.

That would not only have been therapeutic for him but for the whole nation.

Old stations don't fade, they die

Old gas stations never fade away. They just die.

Abandoned stations are a growing urban blight. (They're not so pretty in the country, either, but there the landscape tends to swallow them up.)

Some 10,000 service stations went out of business in 1973, the American Petroleum Institute reports, and the gasoline crisis was just getting started then. Thousands more will probably close this year, even with improving gasoline supplies.

What to do with all these properties? Fortunately, many of them are in very advantageous locations, usually on a busy corner right across from two or three other stations.

Realtor magazine recently asked its readers to send in suggestions for new uses for gas stations. Some it received:

Dry cleaning substation, office, auto repair shop, bus terminal, monument sales, parking lot, beauty shop, small stores or shops, fast food service, open-air market, drive-in bank, laundromat, mobile home sales, used car lot, convenience food market.

None of these ideas exactly grabs one, does it?

The missile age

We usually think of the missile age—with all its fabulous innovations and achievements—as having started with Russia's first Sputnik.

In the sense of the space missile age that is essentially correct. From that first man-made orbiting satellite sprang the great space voyagers that have taken man to the moon and back, been gravity-less home and workshop for scientists in orbit, sent man's electronic eyes and ears to the outer reaches of the solar system and even beyond, into the unknown, unimaginable far reaches of our expanding universe for all eternity.

Actually, the missile age, which led us into the space age, began 30 years ago June 13 on a horrible note in World War II. It was spawned by Hitler's flying buzz bombs, which wreaked such terrifying damage on embattled England.

Unless one agrees with those who feel the space program has been little more than a wasteful extension of scientific ego, it can in all truth be said that war at least in this case did produce good out of evil.

Gerald Ford has all-American quality

WASHINGTON — What kind of President would Gerald Ford make? This is a question we are often asked, as the impeachment of President Nixon becomes more likely.

Ford would not be the brightest President to occupy the oval office, but he would be one of the most decent. There is nothing suave or subtle about him. He would bring an openness and a guilelessness to the White House. He could be trusted.

He would not have as keen a grasp of the paperwork of the presidency as Richard Nixon has. But probably more important, Ford would have a better feel for the human undercurrents.

There is also an all-American quality about him. He has the common touch of Harry Truman, the easy manner and engaging sincerity of Dwight Eisenhower.

Under Gerald Ford, the oval office would no longer be a storm cellar where the President is constantly engaged in plotting strategy to strike back at innumerable "enemies."

When an aide brought Ford the first news from a UPI ticker that the White House kept an "enemies list," Ford shook his head in disbelief. "If you have so many enemies you have to keep a list," he remarked, "you are in trouble."

He would bring integrity to the White House. He has always refused to accept cash campaign contributions. He has insisted upon checks, which can be properly recorded.

He would be a partisan President, who would attend to his political chores. But he would be able to work in harness with Democratic leaders. As House Republican leader, he had a close working relationship with the Democrats, particularly Speakers John McCormack and Carl Albert.

Incidentally, the Vice President took the time in Boston the other day to place a quiet, kindly phone call to the ancient and lonely McCormack.

Watergate politics have put Ford in a squeeze. He gave President Nixon a pledge of loyalty before accepting the vice presidency. But he also promised party leaders that he would spearhead the campaign for Republican candidates this year. They needed a leader whom Republicans could rally around. For the President has become a millstone around the neck of the GOP.

Ford, true to his pledge of loyalty, has tried to defend the President. Yet, at the same time, he has sought to divorce the party from Watergate.

The President, according to our White House sources, has suggested to Ford that he tone down his criticism of the way the White House has handled Watergate. The Vice President, in response, has tried to support the President, without completely swallowing the White House line.

Gerald Ford would not be a spectacular President. His style would be Grand Rapids, not Camelot. But he has the warm attributes, which would allow him to sit comfortably on the cold pedestal of power.

THE FORGOTTEN SERGEANT: The Army's slick new advertising campaign, promising enlistees they'll be treated "with respect and dignity," doesn't mention what happened to Sgt. Charles Anthony.

He's a 14-year Army veteran with a wife and eight young children. His wife is seriously ill and one of the children has a critical heart ailment.

He received a routine transfer from Ft. Gordon, Ga., to Ft. Belvoir, Va. He didn't balk at the orders until the condition of both his wife and child grew worse. The doctors said they couldn't be moved.

So Sgt. Anthony asked the Army's Compassionate Review Board to let him stay at Ft. Gordon. But the board, its name notwithstanding, was lacking in compassion. Despite letters of support from doctors at Ft. Gordon, the sergeant was turned down.

He was ordered to report to Ft. Belvoir or take a hardship discharge that would cost him his retirement benefits. Woefully, he obeyed the orders and traveled the lonely 600 miles to Ft. Belvoir.

Still, he believed the Army he had loyally served would realize its mistake and send him back to his family. Instead, he was informed flatly that he was there to stay.

Dr. Peter Cranston of Augusta, Ga., the psychologist who attended the sergeant's wife, told us he warned the Compassionate Review Board that she might attempt suicide if her husband were forced to leave.

The board wouldn't listen and Mrs. Anthony attempted to take an overdose of sleeping pills just as the doctor had feared. Fortunately, she was stopped in time.

But the sergeant, alone and despondent 600 miles from the family who needed him, suffered an emotional breakdown. As we write this, he is hospitalized at the Army's Walter Reed Hospital in Washington.

Footnote: When we made inquiries at the Compassionate Review Board, we heard a loud voice in the background shout: "Don't answer that!" But later the board explained that Anthony was assigned to Ft. Belvoir because of job openings and the nearness of Walter Reed.

A fresh start for Chicago convicts

Recidivism is a word every lawman and prison official would like to see removed from the dictionary. Recidivism is the rate at which men released from prison return to prison for another offense.

Most of our criminals are repeaters. Nationally, 70 per cent of all cons released from prison return. Except in Chicago.

In Chicago, where inmates of Cook County Jail attend a unique school, the rate of recidivisim is only 22 per cent. It's called the PACE program — Programmed Activities for Correctional Education.

Every correctional authority has warned that a prisoner returned to society with no skill other than stealing is going to resume stealing. What other options are there?

In Chicago's huge Cook County Jail inmates have an opportunity to learn a skill. Those who'd never learned how to read are taught to read.

Today, in functional classrooms, convicts, are spending their mornings studying grammar, mathematics. Others are taking high school courses. Afternoons, in prevocational classes, they are learning auto mechanics, carpentry, drafting, electronics.

When his jail sentence has been served, the PACE graduate is referred for further job training in private industry. If he has no family resources, PACE counselors will help him find both a place to live and a place to work.

While the counselors are volunteers, the training facilities and equipment cost money. The Cook County Jail chaplain, John Erwin, conceived the idea in 1967. In 1970, Chicago industrialist Oscar Getz mobilized the volunteers and the money necessary to move the effort into high gear. Since then, with matching federal funds, a new Basic Education Building within the walls of the Cook County Jail has been completed. Plans for outside facilities serving released trainees and a program for prevention for the community in which it is located are on the drawing board.

To handle expanded facilities, the staff of PACE Institute has been upgraded and expanded.

Fifteen thousand men each year spend some time in Cook County Jail. Over the six years since the PACE program was inaugurated, only 22 per cent of its "graduates" have returned to jail.

Hundreds are gainfully employed and some are now themselves financial contributors to the support of the program.

All it takes for a prisoner to enter the PACE program is a willingness to improve himself. The trainee is tested and his academic training is started at the level indicated. He continues to learn at whatever rate he is capable of learning.

Generally, 90 days of concentrated work improves the student at least one grade level.

Winston Moore, director of corrections at the Cook County Jail, has fully supported and encouraged the PACE program through the years. He says that many who come to jail frightened, frustrated and convinced nobody cares now leave jail with a new self-confidence, a purpose of in life and the knowledge that somebody does care.

'Below the belt' attack

I am not sure what led me to read Milton Richman's column in the sports section on Sunday, June 2, but the contents incensed me to the point of writing this letter as I cannot believe Richman is for real.

I have been attending athletic events all of my married life — 31 years — as I am married to a participating athlete and coach. I have heard words and seen events take place over these years which I could not believe.

How can Milton Richman possibly, in good conscience, relate ill-mannered, ill tempered fans to President Nixon and Watergate? What about people who remain seated during our National Anthem — this, sir, started long before President Nixon and Watergate was ever an issue for Richman and his kind to get their teeth into.

It is people such as Richman who give those fans an excuse for bad manners and dirty language — for which there is no excuse if they have been taught to respect our country, and our flag as well as the rights, feelings and property of others.

I sincerely believe that regardless of Watergate, the Presidency of the United States should be respected, and Milton Richman, in his "below the belt" attack is as bad, if not worse, than the fans of which he wrote in his column. An irate reader. — Jane J. Anderson, Diamond Bar.

Gossip for today

Computerized billing by large department stores, even though at times it can become somewhat frustrating to customers who feel they have a valid argument with the computer over the billing, does have its interesting moments. — I speak from recent personal experience.

Finding a purchase on my bill was listed as having been made in the hide-a-bed and mattress department, I immediately phoned the store's credit department.

"What goes?" I asked. "I'm not about to get into a lengthy hassle with your computer but I haven't bought a hide-a-bed or a mattress in the last ten years."

The credit clerk was courteous but businesslike. After taking down the date of purchase, the department number, my name, my address, my phone number and a few more bits of information I now forget, she informed me that she would check with the head office and call me back later. — Two weeks passed. I really did want to pay my bill but not before I knew what I was paying for. So I called the credit department once agin.

"Oh, yes," the credit clerk replied after I finished telling her who I was, what I was calling about and why, "we just got an answer from the head office today — and I must say we certainly goofed. but you still owe us money. — Actually you'll be surprised when you learn to what lengths a computer will go to protect a customer's good name and reputation from prying eyes. Our billing should have shown that you made a $15.87 purchase in our liquor department."

Nixon economists get failing grade

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has sent to Congress the program his chief economic advisers have developed for attacking inflation and unemployment. It is shockingly sterile.

A study of the 44 pages makes clear these men have no new answers, no new thoughts and no new initiatives.

Their major hope for beating inflation apparently rests on keeping the money supply tight and the costs of borrowing high.

Steep interest rates drive dollars from investments. Witness the unhappy state of the New York Stock Exchange and the Dow Jones industrial, transportation and utilities averages. When funds normally raised in the stock market are not available for legitimate and necessary expansion, conversion and modernization, consumers suffer.

The nation has a major need today for rapid expansion of conventional and nuclear power plants, increased exploratory drilling for oil, increased production of equipment to mine more coal more efficiently and to convert electric power plants from oil to coal. If the money required, either through borrowing or the sale of new stock, is high in cost, higher prices will be locked into the system for years to come.

High interest costs discourage the installation of energy-saving devices by that myriad of small concerns and ordinary homeowners where the need is greatest, thus nullifying national efforts to conserve energy.

Scarce, expensive money also drives to the wall, or at best makes life extremely difficult for, that multitude of small and medium-sized industries which produce many of this nation's breakthroughs in research and new products. Original devices and concepts are urgently needed to increase industrial efficiency and thus break the back of inflation.

The added cost of high-priced money can be expected to hamper the President's $10 billion program for encouraging home building — for it will tend to drive the cost of houses out of sight, and tend to dry up mortgage funds as rapidly as the government pumps new "low interest" money into the system.

The President's Council of Economic Advisers, however, theorizes tight money will cure inflation by squeezing out the market. As competition for credit is intensified, these advisers say, the "less creditworthy borrowers" tend to be crowded out or become unable to pay the high interest rates.

"That is part of the process by which monetary restriction reduces inflationary pressure."

This assumes falsely some relationship between the worth of an industrial or commercial project and the ability to borrow in a tight market at disastrously high rates. Experience in other countries is that borrowers most able to absorb such high rates are of two kinds — those set for a killing through wheeling and dealing and legitimate companies able to pass ruinous interest costs on to consumers in sharply increased prices. Historically, high interest rates have in the main encouraged speculation in quick-turnover, highly-profitable deals which have a negative effect on the economy; they have discouraged legitimate industrial growth and stimulated greater inflation.

Perhaps saddest of all this strategy overall will put the heaviest burden on small business and strengthen, relatively, the position of large business groups which have easiest access to capital funds.

Upland ducks water fight

UPLAND — Two proposals relating to the city's water supply in the Chino Basin Municipal Water District have received a cool reception from the City Council.

The council took no action on either proposal Tuesday, but directed City Atty. Donald Maroney to refer both matters to a Sacramento lawyer, expert in the field, for review and recommendations as to the city's best line of action.

The first of the measures, presented by Water Supt. Harry Rohrbach, is an agreement asking the city to join with 10 other interested parties in seeking a court suit to determine ground-water pumping rights among various users of Chino Basin water and to develop an equitable management program for the entire basin.

The city, at an initial cost of $20,000, would join with the Southern California Water Co., Fontana Water Co., Fontana Union Water Co., Cucamonga County Water District, Pomona Valley Water Co., San Antonio West End Operating Co., the city of Pomona, Kaiser Steel Corp., Monte Vista County Water District and the Southern California Edison Co. to protect its over $2 million dollar investment in water rights and facilities in the basin area.

The lawsuit has been developed as an alternative to a proposed Senate bill being sought by CBMWD and the cities of Ontario and Chino to allow CBMWD to impose a pump tax on a per acre foot basis on all ground water pumped out of the basin.

According to Rohrback, the legislation being developed by State Sen. Ruben Ayala, D-20th Dist., would completely ignore any and all water rights currently claimed by the various users of the basin water.

Rohrbach said some 75 per cent of water producers in the basin would rather have their water rights protected than pay a tax on all the water they produce in the basin.

Both measures, developed by the CBMWD, are designed to develop some sort of a pump tax as a means of raising revenues to replenish the basin's water table and also the formation of a watermaster to oversee the pumping operations.

Dick Pehl, a member of the CBMWD board of directors, commenting on the measures, said the district favors the adjudication route to establish water rights. Of the legislation proposal he said, "We want to take the pulse of the community. If the bill doesn't pass, we feel we've made an attempt to bring in replenishment water."

Councilman Harold Bailin called the tax idea "premature" and "a distinctly bad move." He didn't like the lawsuit any better and registered alarm at the high initial cost to the city. He also commented that both solutions "are diametrically opposed" to each other.

He moved that the Maroney confer with expert legal advisers on both issues and the council passed the motion unanimously.

Semiofficial tally for 32nd Senate District

In the uncontested race in the 32nd Senatorial Dist., Sen. Ruben Ayala, D-20th Dist., received a semiofficial total of 5,667 votes in San Bernardino and Los Angeles counties.

Republican candidate John Marcus of San Bernardino received 4,685 votes.

American Independent candidate Ray Clark of San Bernardino received 125 votes.

All three will face each other again in November for the senate seat representing Pomona, Ontario, Montclair, Chino and other San Bernardino County cities.

S.B. County to get federal job funding

SAN BERNARDINO — San Bernardino County will receive an $89,950 federal grant to help create new job opportunities for workers affected by the reduction of military activities.

The county has had an $11.5 million annual loss of income since early 1972 caused by the reassignment of more than 1,000 military personnel and the reduction of 660 civilian jobs at Norton Air Force Base.

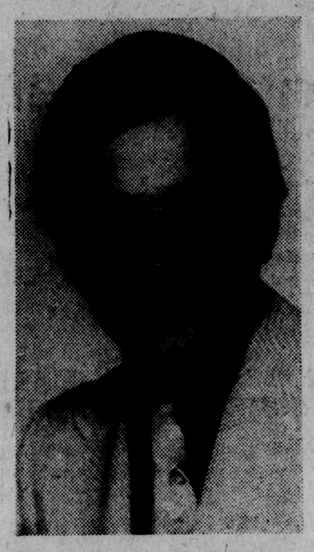

Another $18 million in annual income has been lost by the reduction of nearly 1,200 jobs in the aerospace industry in the county.

The grant was made by the U.S. Department of Commerce. It will be administered by the county's Economic Development Council.

The federal agency made the grant in cooperation with President Nixon's Economic Adjustment Committee, which is working to assist communities and personnel affected by the curtailment of military and civilian-related acitivites.

The county agency plans to identify sites for use by business firms and industry as a means of creating new job opportunities for workers. It expects to develop an industry prospect list and center for servicing industrial inquiries.

The council will work with San Bernardino's Economic Development Corp. in attracting new industry. The council will add $36.700 in other funds to complete the $126,650 as the program's total cost for the first year.

Russ admire Nixon most, prof says

POMONA — The person the Russians admire most outside of Russia is President Nixon, Dr. James A. campbell of Claremont told members of the Rotary Club on Tuesday.

Campbell, who is chairman of the department of chemistry at Harvey Mudd College, showed color slides taken on two trips to Russia, one of them as a representative of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The Russians admire Nixon, he said, because they believe he is responsible for a more relaxed government in their country.

However, the government is a "lousy" one and has been for centuries, but is improving, he said. Otherwise, Campbell continued, the country has all the potential for greatness, including unlimited resources, plenty of land and just the right population.

The Russian people are hard working, have a good sense of humor are friendly to Americans, and are proud of their country, Chambers said.

Tourists to Russia can make a hit with the people there by taking along a supply of chewing gum, lapel buttons and jeans, all of which are in demand in Russia, he said.

Chick-sharing bad business

By JEAN ADAMS

INTERLUDE: (Q.) My family and I went on a trip to New York. I thought it would be a nice time to run away. I left our hotel and wandered around. Well, this guy picked me up and took me to his apartment. We went to bed. (Before this I was a virgin.) We lived together for a while.

Then he told me he loved me but he was on drugs and didn't want me involved. He also said I was too young. (I'm 15, he's 26.) I got mad and hitchhiked home.

Well, I just got a letter from him. (I don't know where he got my address.) He said he'd be passing by and I can come with him if I don't mind sharing him with other chicks. I don't know if I should. I still love him, though.—Undecided in Indiana

(A.) He may not show up. If he does, don't take up with him again. Chick-sharing is a very bad business. There are several other reasons I could give you, but that one is enough.

MESSAGE: (Q.) What would you do if the boy you liked said that he wished you would stop chasing him, that if he wanted you he would come and get you?—Told in Texas

(A.) I would listen to him.

Baker: southern GOP will suffer least over scandal

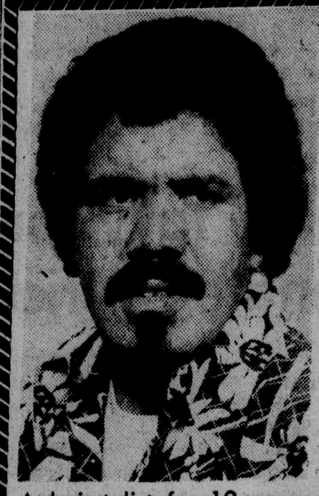

ATLANTA (UPI) — Republicans in the South will suffer the least from Watergate, according to Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn.

But, Baker admitted, it's too early to tell just how severe a jolt will be dealt by the political scandals.

Baker, a possible presidential candidate in 1976, said that he does not think the Republican party will be as badly hurt as some people think.

Baker, in Atlanta, to attend the high school graduation of his daughter, said Southern Republicans will feel Watergate fallout less than those in other sections because "here the party is new, young and has more vitality than elsewhere."

The doctor comments

What is adrenal insufficiency?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you please explain adrenal insufficiency. Some years back I was in poor health, losing weight, no appetite and exhausted. When I stood motionless I passed out. This led my doctor to suspect that it was caused by adrenal insufficiency. He gave me shots of ACTH. I was a new person. I took shots for about six years and regained my health. In fact, life took on a new meaning for me. I haven't had to take any medication, but I had gall bladder surgery, and I knew I'd be in trouble again. In the past I'd always had trouble after surgery. My nerves were a real problem for at least seven months after any operation.

I contacted my former doctor, and the night before my surgery I was given intravenous medication, none of the problems I had had previously. If I'd only known this years before I could have carried children.

My question is, "Why does the gland function at times and at other times it needs help? I am 49 and going through the menopause beautifully.

Dear Reader — Adrenal insufficiency occurs when the outer shell of the adrenal gland fails to produce enough hormones. This outer shell is called the adrenal cortex. Its normal function depends on stimulation by a hormone from the pituitary gland that rests underneath the brain. That hormone is the adrenocortiotropic hormone, abbreviated ACTH. The term ACTH then means a hormone that stimulates the adrenal cortex.

There are two ways that you can have adrenal insufficiency. One would be simple failure of the adrenal cortex itself because of some disease or disorder within the gland. The other cause would be a failure of the pituitary gland to form enough ACTH.

In your case apparently the doctor felt that your problem was inadequate stimulation of the adrenal gland and so he gave you ACTH. This in turn stimulated the adrenal cortex to produce more adrenal hormones and cause the changes in symptoms that you have noted.

If the fault lies in the adrenal gland itself, it's necessary to give adrenal cortical hormones, rather than ACTH, to replace the deficiency.

Patients with adrenal insufficiency usually have weakness, fatigue, weight loss, tendency to faint (which you've described), anemia, problems with their digestive tract and sometimes emotional and mental changes. When the adrenal gland itself is the cause, there is sometimes bronzing of the skin. This does not occur when the pituitary gland is the cause.

In more recent years it has been more generally accepted that mild forms of adrenal insufficiency can occur. In mild forms, you can have periods when the adrenal gland is not meeting the needs. Periods of stress, such as a surgical operation as you mentioned, may also place a greater demand on the adrenal gland. The important point it that almost all cases of adrenal insufficiency can be handled and treated to provide a normal, healthy life expectancy.

It's also important to realize that a lot of the symptoms associated with adrenal in sufficiency are the same general type of symptoms that occur from anxiety neuroses and other problems. Fatigue, for example, has many causes, including depression and anemia, to mention just two. The proper diagnosis and treatment depend on careful tests to identify the real problem. This is particularly true if you are going to make an early diagnosis before the disease progresses to the stage of presenting all of the classic signs.

ELEPHANTS

Last I heard, male elephant calves were selling in this country for about $560 each, female elephant calves for about $700. Clearly, it's not the cost of the elephant that prevents each of us from keeping one in the back yard, but the cost of the elephant's grub. It's known that every elephant is hungry all the time.

President asks more funds for disaster areas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has asked Congress to authorize an additional $100 million for federal disaster relief efforts, primarily in the states hard hit by tornadoes in April.

Nixons request was contained in a larger proposal that Congress increase his budget authority by $329.6 million, with the bulk of the remaining fund —$200 million—sought for expansion of the government's Community Development Program.

In a separate request, Nixon asked Congress to add $80 million to the Interior Department budget in the current fiscal year for financing of a program designed to help American Indians start small businesses with federal loans for grants.

Liberty ship sunk, to be a fishing reef

ATLANTIC BEACH, N.C. (UPI) — The World War II liberty ship Theodore Parker has been sunk off Atlantic Beach as part of a plan to develop underwater fishing reefs.

The Parker was the first of three old liberty ships to be sunk along the North Carolina coast. The vessel sank Tuesday just eight minutes after marine demolition experts fired charges placed in the ship's stern.

Experts thought it would take 30 minutes to sink the old ship but the Parker slipped quietly beneath the waves even faster.

The ship created a local stir Sunday by breaking free of its moorings and drifting into a fishing pier, causing some damage to the pilings and structure of the pier.

Linda Blair Talks About Acting

Child Star of "The Exorcist" Center of Controversy

"As far as the script was concerned, I just thought of the words as being part of the character. If anything, it has made me much more careful about what I say."

Some of the language in the current top-rated motion picture "The Exorcist" is definitely X-rated. Much of it is spoken by 15-year-old Linda Blair. This week Peer J. Oppenheimer chats with Linda and reports exclusively in FAMILY WEEKLY on her candid and matter-of-fact point of view about rough language in the movies. On the lighter side, read what Linda has to say about her family, her hobbies and her travels.

Says general

D-Day troop concentration no longer possible

By M. GENE MEARNS

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Thirty years after the Allied invasion of Normandy in World War II, Lt. Gen. Troy H. Middleton believes there may never again be a troop movement of the size and scope of D-Day.

"You'll probably never see something of that type," said the general who led the U.S. Eighth Army Corps against the Nazis in the Battle of the Bulge.

"There's been such improvements in the air and in weapons, that I doubt you could concentrate and then transport troops across a channel like that.

"Of course, we didn't have the opposition from the Germans in the air. We had absolute supremacy in the air. When I got into the rendezvous area off the coast of France, I didn't see one German plane — we had thousands of them."

Allied Strength

Allied strength was estimated for D-Day at 2,876,439 men. The invasion force included 4,000 ships of all kinds, 5,000 fighter planes, 3,400 heavy bombers, 1,600 light and medium bombers, 2,300 transport aircraft, and 2,500 gliders.

"On 6 June 1944 I was locked up in a compound at Southampton, England, getting ready to cross the channel," recalled Middleton. "The Eighth Army Corps had two airborne divisions, the 101st and 82nd, and an infantry division and a lot of artillery. It was a pretty sizable command, over 100,000 men. That's a lot of men for a country man like me to command."

While Middleton remained in England on D-Day, paratroopers from his command were given key assignments in Normandy and they actually went in the night of June 5-6.

"The primary mission was to kill Germans and capture part of the Cherbourg Peninsula. We came in behind the Seventh Corps. Then we went to Brest and captured that city. We rejoined the Army on the ground where the Battle of the Bulge took place. After the Bulge was over, we advanced to Coblenz.

Waited for Russians

"We got to Coblenz, took that town, and crossed the Rhine at Boppard, 15 kilometers above Coblenz, on a wide front. Then, we continued to advance to the east until we got to Chemnitz south of Berlin. There, the high command stopped us. We did nothing for two weeks waiting for the Russians to come up."

Middleton believes the frontal attack on German forces through the Normandy beachhead was the right thing; better than Winston Churchill's philosophy of attacking the "soft underbelly" of Europe.

Says day of paratrooper over

101st Division commander recalls Normandy invasion

By WARREN L. NELSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, D-Day began as he stood in a damp Normandy pasture, staring at and being stared at in return by French cows.

"I jumped with a stick of about 11 men but I fell into one field," Taylor recalled in a recent interview. It was 1 a.m., June 6, 1944, and Taylor and his men were the start of the massive allied D-Day invasion.

Taylor was commander of the 101st Airborne Division. He had jumped with his men and ended up in a typical Normandy field, divided from all the neighboring fields by high hedges.

"There was a group of cows in the field munching their cuds and obviously wondering who this guy was. I presented a very undignified picture.

"You had to buckle yourself real tightly into those old parachutes. When I landed, I couldn't get the snaps unbuckled. I pulled my knife out of my boots. I had my pistol in one hand, my cricket in the other, so I'd put the pistol down and pick it up and put it down again as I tried to cut myself out of the chute."

The cricket was one of Taylor's innovations. During paratroop drops in Sicily his men had been badly scattered. He anticipated that the dispersion amid the Normandy hedgerows would create havoc, and he wanted his troops to have a distinctive noisemaker to identify themselves. An aide came up with a simple children's toy, a metal cricket.

"To this day the old veterans will come up to me and go pop, pop in my ear with their crickets," Taylor said. "They still have them.

"I crept along the hedgerow looking for a gate. Just as I found it I heard a stir on the other side. I drew my pistol and got all set. Then I heard the click. That was the most pleasant sound I ever heard in the entire war.

"We literally fell on each other's shoulders. He was looking tough—like I hoped he would."

Taylor couldn't recall the name of that first American he met on French soil. "It was a Polish name. I saw him years later. Unfortunately he'd gotten fat. It's always disappointing to see your lean paratrooper get potbellied."

Taylor later rose to four-star rank, commanded all American troops in the Korean war, became Army chief of staff under President Eisenhower, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff under President Kennedy and ambassador to South Vietnam under President Johnson. In the last two posts he joined in a number of controversial decisions deepening U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Taylor, at 72, a little stooped and hard of hearing, still is vigorous. As he thinks back 30 years to D-Day he smiles, "My memory is not good anymore, but my stories are better."

Although Taylor was a major contributor to the history of paratroop warfare he is no diehard proponent. "It's the last way you want to get to the ground. I never jumped except when I had to. The day of the paratrooper is long past."

The Army recently announced the last paratroop unit in the 101st Airborne would be replaced by helicopters. The 82nd Airborne, the only other such division, still has paratroopers.

The "real value" of his paratroopers, Taylor said, was shock.

"The Germans thought we were everywhere. It shook them up and confused them. That was proved again in the Battle of the Bulge, the only time the Germans used paratroops against Americans. It scared the hell out of our people. There were rumors of Germans all the way back to Paris."

Taylor said the value of the paratroopers showed on the landing beaches. The 4th Infantry Division, which landed on Utah beach screened by the two airborne divisions,

IKE TALKS — Then Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Supreme Allied Commander, talks to paratroopers before they boarded planes for flight across the English Channel as part of the Normandy invasion.

NORMANDY LANDING — Units of the U.S. First Army landed on Utah Beach at dawn on June 6, 1944. Some of the troops are shown resting near a sea wall while the wounded wait to be evacuated.

Normandy invasion recalled by commander

"never had a hostile rifle shot fired at them, although there was still artillery fire." But the other American units trying to come ashore at Omaha beach with no paratroopers in front of them met heavy enemy fire.

The paratroopers were elite volunteers. The Normandy experience gave them added confidence. "My lads were swaggering. 'Those krauts are nothing,' they'd say. They were ready to take on all comers— especially I regret to say, the MPs from other units who didn't wear paratroop boots."

Taylor still talks of his men as "lads," although the youngest are pushing 50.

The men of the 101st Airborne had donned warpaint and sported outlandish haircuts, presumably to impress the enemy they soon would meet. Eisenhower came to visit the men on the eve of departure and remarked to Taylor that they might not scare the Germans, but they sure frightened him.

"I never had to worry about getting them to go forward, my task was to keep up with them. When they were encircled at Bastogne in the battle of the Bulge, their first reaction was pity for the enemy—'They've got us surrounded, the poor bastards.' Normandy taught me the quality of these men I was privileged to command."

Taylor recalled worrying about wooden poles that began to sprout amid the French fields a few weeks before the invasion—clearly a German effort to hamper an airborne invasion.

Taylor assumed the Germans had a systematic plan, and he believed the pattern of the pole settings would give him a clue to the enemy's precise military mind. But Taylor's long hours of study failed to uncover any pattern.

After his jump, Taylor asked the first farmer he found why poles had been placed in one field but not another. The farmer said, "The Germans told us to pole all our fields by June 15. My cow never liked the west field so I poled that first." Taylor said it was unreasonable to expect him "to anticipate the French cow factor in German planning."

But Taylor had not worried about the weather, which plunged the dispersion into chaos.

The troop planes hit a thick fog blanket when they reached Normany. Veering to avoid collision, the pilots became disoriented and troops were scattered all over Normandy.

Taylor had, however, figured that his men could not be trained just to take one objective because they might land some distance away.

"Before the jump, we barricaded the men like they were in jail. They had to memorize the maps and then we had sand tables where they had to reconstruct the entire jump area from memory."

In the end, he said, "the objectives of the day were taken, but by practically nobody who was assigned to what he took. The battle was won not by generals like Taylor but by little groups of men who saw something of value and ran and sat on it."

The passage of time makes the most hotly contested events of history seem simple, but the outcome of D-Day was by no means clear and preordained. The American high command had wanted to invade in 1943 but the British vetoed that and promoted the Italian campaign instead.

In retrospect, Taylor says the British were right.

"We weren't ready to do this in 1943. The Mediterranean operations were good because we needed the experience. few of our men had ever seen combat; the first time I was shot at was in the Mediterranean. That helps a lot."

D-Day was no walkover.

"To break into Hitler's Europe, certainly on the map, looked hard." But Taylor says, "I thought it would be a lot harder than it turned out. It's difficult to believe the Germans wouldn't know we'd land on that peninsula."

Field Marshal Rommel was in Germany that day asking Hitler for a panzer division at St. Lo, 15 miles from Taylor's drop zones. Rommel believed the allies could not be permitted to establish a beachhead.

Hitler agreed. But when the invasion came, he thought it was a feint to draw the Germans from the narrow channel points, and he refused to send reinforcements to Normandy.

Convicted man must pay for education

MIAMI (UPI) — A man convicted of manslaughter has been ordered to pay for the college education of his victim's two small children, court records showed Tuesday.

Richard Urso was convicted of running a red light last Oct. 25 and causing the death of Raymond Pough when their cars collided.

Circuit Judge Sidney Weaver said he did not want to send Urso to jail "because he had no prior criminal record and he will have this accident to live with for the rest of his life." but Weaver ordered Urso, also a father, to pay $1,500 a year for the next five years into an education trust fund for Pough's two small children, Gregory 2, and Sabrina, 6.

"As each one reaches the age of 8, it will be available for their education," the judge ruled.

Attorneys for both Urso and Pough's widow, Linda, 22, said the judgment was satisfactory.

Mrs. Pough's lawyer, Marvin R. Freedman, said the judge had made a "wise and useful" decision. "Putting this man in jail will not serve any purpose."

"I think we did it the right way," Middleton said, "It saved time. The Germans helped a little with the Battle of the Bulge. Had the Germans not spent themselves against me and my Corps, the war would have been prolonged. But they shot their wad in December 1944 and January 1945. It was a fierce and a wicked battle. And a cold one. I was never in doubt about the outcome because I just thought we were too good for them."

Middleton ordered Bastogne, a key crossroads, held against Hitler's last big counterattack in the war. Middleton once said Gen. George S. Patton "called me a damn fool" for deciding to hold at Bastogne.

But Middleton, Patton and the Allies won a brilliant victory at the Bulge. Patton later changed his mind and praised Middleton, saying: "None of us will ever forget the stark valor with which you and your Corps contested every foot of ground during Von Rundstedt's attack. Your decision to hold Bastogne was a stroke of genius."

Middleton still has mixed emotions when he remembers how his Corps was stopped near Berlin on orders from headquarters.

"I didn't feel as badly as a lot of the soldiers. I'd go out and visit the units and they would ask me, 'General, what are we sitting here for?'

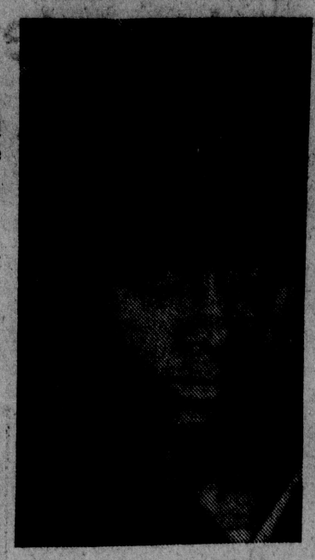

"We could have gone on, but the higher ups stopped us and we waited for the Russians. Not only were we stopped, we eventually gave up all of the territory the Eighth Corps held. We were pulled back and the Russians took it over."

Banker stunned; couple turn in 68,435 pennies

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UPI) — Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Crews drove up to a branch of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. recently, opened their car trunk and revealed 68,435 pennies to stunned banker Dennis J. Easter.

Mrs. Crews explained that her husband, a collector, ammassed the coins over several months to pick out the ones he wanted to keep. They decided to turn them in because of the penny shortage, she said.

"We're in pretty good shape here, thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Crews," said Easter. "They really saved us."

Court decision disrupts state's milk-pricing system

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A little-noticed court decision, which could mean lower milk costs, has shaken California's milk-pricing system and nearly triggered the resignation of Agriculture Director C. Brunel Christensen.

One byproduct of the ruling is a consumer drive to have the state suspend retail price controls on milk—an action which could lower the skyrocketing milk prices paid by Californians.

The decision came in a Los Angeles Superior Court case involving the long-established maze of state dairy regulations.

In the ruling, Judge Charles Loring accused Christensen's department of playing favorites among milk wholesalers. The department sets minimum milk prices at the producer, wholesale and retail levels.

Declaring the state had no obligation to protect the dairy industry's "sacred cows," Loring's decision for the first time allowed joint ventures in California's billion-dollar-a-year milk business.

The ruling "upset" Christensen, a nationally-known cattle rancher from Modoc County. "I had considered resigning," he said.

During an interview with UPI, Christensen said joint ventures were "disruptive" of the state milk price-fixing system. The system has come under attack by consumer groups repeatedly.

Loring approved a "joint venture" by Knudsen Corp.—a system under which a milk processing plant is jointly owned by a fluid milk distributor and one or more retail stores. The ruling was not appealed.

The arrangement allows Knudsen-Todds, a Los Angeles-based milk distributing giant, in effect to earn greater milk profits by circumventing minimum wholesale prices through rebates.

It has led to plans for more joint ventures which can sell their milk at lower prices than conventional milk wholesalers.

Because of this, the state was forced in past months to suspend minimum price controls on wholesale milk in Sacramento, Fresno, Tulare and Kern counties to permit conventional wholesalers to compete.

Consumer groups are now pressing for a suspension of retail price controls so the reductions—which have been as much as three cents per half-gallon where wholesale minimums have been lifted—can be passed through to the milk-drinking public.

Christensen, director of the Department of Food and Agriculture, said he was "so upset" over his superiors' reluctance to appeal the decision he sought the advice of his friend Earl Butz, U.S. director of agriculture.

Butz advised him against resigning, saying the court's decision was "only one problem" and there "were others to be solved."

Christensen said, "The joint venture has proven very disruptive in the distribution end of the Milk Marketing Program in California."

Because of the decision, "I wouldn't fight too hard to retain minimum retail and wholesale prices now," said Christensen, who has the power to suspend the minimum price regulations.

"But I would still fight hard to keep such minimums at the producer (dairy farm) level," he added.

In deciding the suit last July, Loring was critical of the department and its present and past directors.

He accused the department of playing favorites within the milk industry. He said the Dairy Institute of California, which represents conventional distributors, was vigorously opposed to the "joint venture" concept because it threatened wholesalers who could not sell below state minimums.

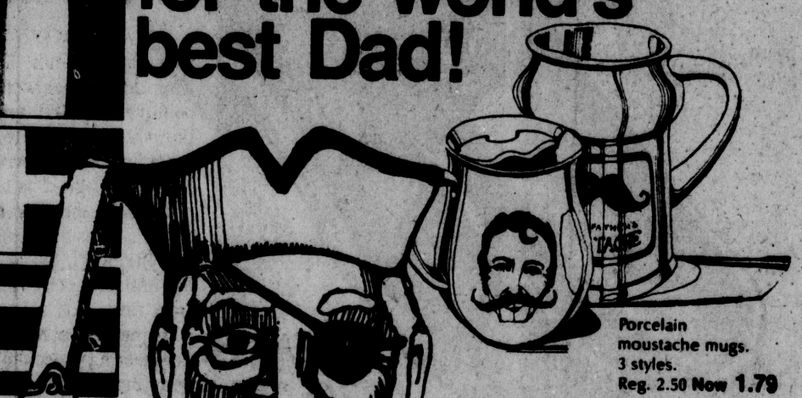

"We have no doubt that the Dairy Institute pressured the director into taking action against Todds (the joint venture) against his will," the judge said in the decision.

"But the director has neither the obligation nor the right to protect anybody's 'sacred cow' unless the public welfare is involved. The public welfare is at least as well served by the Todds' concept as by the conventional distributor," Loring said.

trick with the king as quickly as he could—thought a while—played his ace of trumps and started after diamonds. He got to discard one spade on the third diamond, but West ruffed in and cashed two more spades to leave South one trick short.

Once South grabbed that first trump trick he could think forever and not find any way to make his contract. If he had done his thinking beforehand and let West hold the trick, West could think to his heart's content, but he would not be able to defeat the contract.

If he led a second trump, South would simply run off the rest of the tricks. If he played more spades he would hold South to his contract, but that would be all.

Brothers slain, dad wounded as thief surprised

ELBERTON, Ga. (UPI)—A burglar, surprised by a returning family, shot two boys to death and wounded their father Monday and escaped into a wooded area.

About 50 law enforcement officers using bloodhounds searched the area through the night without finding a trace of the burglar.

Police said Dwayne Cooper, 13, and David Cooper, 11, were shot and killed with a .22 pistol the burglar had found in the home of Wayne Cooper, a cattleman and Baptist minister. Cooper was slightly wounded.

Mrs. Cooper, who was unharmed, entered the house shortly after her husband and sons, but the burglar raced by her and disappeared into a nearby patch of woods.

State statute on obscenity struck down

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A three-judge federal panel Tuesday struck down as unconstitutional California's obscenity statute for motion pictures and literature.

The panel, in a unanimous ruling on the sex film "Deep Throat," said the California statute violates Fifth Amendment guarantees of due process because it does not specifically define what types of sexual activity should be prohibited in books and movies.

"It is clear that the California statute on its face ... does not specifically define the sexual activity which is prohibited," the ruling said. "As it reads, there is not fair notice what California permits or prohibits."

Michael Capizzi, Orange County assistant district attorney, said the decision would be appealed to the Supreme Court.

The ruling was expected to halt all pending prosecutions under the state law.

In its ruling, the panel noted that Buena Park police on Nov. 21, 1973, had three times raided a theater showing "Deep Throat" and, with warrants issued by a municipal judge, seized the film.

"The facts set forth ... clearly demonstrate bad faith and harassment which would justify federal intervention," it said " ... the police were bent upon a course of action that, regardless of the nature of any judicial proceeding, would effectively exorcise the movie 'Deep Throat' out of Buena Park."

The panel ordered the seized film returned to the theater.

Honeymoon over for Mr. and Mrs. snake

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: A terrible thing happened concerning Mr. and Mrs. King Snake, who have been blissfully honeymooning, as far as I could tell, for the last month. Yesterday, I gave them a small mouse and Mrs. Snake started to eat it. Then I had to leave. When I got back this morning, the mouse was gone, of course, but so was Mrs. Snake. There Mr. King Snake lay, fat and looking terribly guilty. He's so fat I know what happened to Mrs. Snake. But what I don't know is how such a terrible accident could have occurred. Have you ever hear of such a thing?—B.D.

DEAR B.D.: Yes, I have. It sometimes occurs when two snakes simultaneously start eating the same victim. The larger snake will continue the process to include not only the initial prey, but the small snake as well. This, combined with the fact king snakes are known to practice cannibalism on occasion, can certainly explain Mr. K. Snake's repast — and his rapid reversion to reptilian bachelorhood.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I'm about to get my first kitten and a friend advises me to get a female. The reason is that male cats have so much trouble with their kidneys. I had never heard or thought of this. Is her advice reasonable? — D.P.

DEAR D.P.: House cats do have plenty of kidney and bladder problems. As a group, these diseases are a major cause of illness. While urinary disease isn't particularly more common in the male than in the female, the symptoms of the disease are often more acute and the males' mortality rate is indeed higher. The male is a more frequent fatality when urinary disease strikes because he is more prone to urethal-bladder blockage and rapidly developing fatal uremic poisoning.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Please publish this letter so other cat owners can be warned. What happened was our cat almost died. The reason this happened was that he drank some oil oil fertilizer I was using on my potted plants. Boy, was he sick! Warning, all you cat owners, don't let this happen to you. — T.A.

COMMENT: Don't let it happen to your cats, either. Also, pooches, puppies in particular, are prone to sample various kinds of fertilizer, some deadlier than the fishy types. Care must be taken to keep pets away from fertilizer containers, of course, but also away from any fertilized area, whether indoor potted plant or outside planted plot.

Taylor says Stalingrad turned tide

WASHINGTON (UPI) — What was the principal battle of World War II?

British history books are filled with tales of the tide being turned at El-Alamein in North Africa. Russian books talk of Stalingrad. American books speak of Normandy.

Asked which really was the decisive battle of the war, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, commander of the American 101st Airborne Division on D-Day, came down for the Russians.

"Stalingrad certainly turned the tide," he said. "It made things enormously easier for us."

In that epic battle of December 1941-January 1942, Nazi Germany lost 240,000 men. By comparison, in all of World War II 290,000 Americans died in action.

Subversive group list abolished

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon Tuesday abolished the attorney general's list of subversive organizations — which was started 27 years ago —and issued orders forbidding government agencies to use copies of the list in the future.

Attorney General William B. Saxbe announced the presidential order, saying Nixon had acted on his recommendation. Saxbe's recommendation was based in turn on a study initiated last year by then Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson.

President Harry S. Truman in 1947 directed the Justice Department to compile a list of organizations that he considered subversive and through later years the number of entries had grown to about 300.

Saxbe said the organizations on the list ranged from the Communist Party USA to the Klu Klux Klan and included such groups as the German-American Bund and the Black Dragon Society which had been considered friendly to World War II enemies of the United States.

Bank robber gets $1,000

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A middle-aged man fled with about $1,000 after pulling a gun on a Security Pacific Bank teller and demanding money in small bills.

Police said half a dozen bank customes were unaware of the robbery. The bandit, described as neatly dressed and in his 40s, fled into a parking lot and apparently escaped in a car, police said.

Rattles & straws

Being critical of criticism

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

When all other sleep-inducing devices and nostrums fail, it is my custom to turn to the music critic's columns of the Times (New York, London, Los Angeles, Peoria — they're interchangeable).

Here amid the high-flown rhetoric, the incomprehensible Miltonic prose and the richly fatuous observations, I find quick release into the Land of Nod. It's a better sleep-inducer than watching the Rose Bowl parade.

Music criticism is not easy. It is an art that must be studied and practiced for years to attain the proper degree of sincerity, obfuscation and sneering condescension. The younger critics have all kinds of trouble eliminating meaning from their reviews.

Here's how it works. Take any musical phrase — say, the opening line of that great American folk classic, "Pepsi-Cola hits the spot, dum-de-dum-dum, that's a lot . . ."

What can you say about this that nobody can deny? Start slowly. "Sprightly." (Good word.) "Gay, bouncy, lilting." (Careful— the lay reader might read something into that.) "Insouciant." (Always useful to chuck in a word you're sure people don't know what it means.)

Then you start getting a little, you know — arty. Try "Symbolic, hyperemotional, reflective, buoyant yet brooding, a statement of affirmative Purpose without regard for Morality." That should lose a lot of them.

Now you're getting warmed up. "Here see the composer asserting, in deceptively light-hearted phraseology, the individual liberties of Man and his struggle with the remorseless vicissitudes of carbonation, a clear statement of Neo-Emersonian transcendency."

Tartuffe, music critic for the Daily Herald, sometimes takes issue with G. Llewellyn Fenspan of the Times.

"We do not," says Tartuffe over cutlets and ale at Keen's Chop House.

"Eh? Do not what, old boy?"

"What you said — see the composer asserting all that stuff."

"All that stuff? You mean remorseless vicissitudes and like that?"

"Yeah. If there's one thing 'Pepsi-Cola hits the spot' does not contain it's a clear statement of Neo-Emersonian transcendency."

"Shows how much YOU know about it," says Fenspan.

"You never even heard of Emerson until that little filing clerk —"

"Let's leave Miss Gilderkirchen's name out of this, if you don't mind," Fenspan says coldly. "The conclusions are as plain as the handwriting on your face. There is a statement of affirmative Purpose without regard for —"

"Yeah, yeah, I read the late edition. Reflective. Brooding. Baloney."

"So what did you call it in your ha-ha review? Warmly tremulous, pulsating with emotional intensity, a paean to Young Love that —"

"Well, it WAS pulsating with emotional intensity."

"It was not!"

"So's your old man!"

Life sentence in murder case

LONG BEACH (UPI) — A Superior Court Judge sentenced a 25-year-old man to life in prison Monday for the first-degree murder of a 16-year-old girl whose body was found in a cave at Point Fermin Park.

Thomas Kirby was found guilty by a seven-woman, five-man jury May 1.

The victim, Candis Wilbur of San Pedro, had been stabbed repeatedly.

Economic letdown?

Okinawans wonder what follows building boom

NAHA, Okinawa, Japan (UPI) — Okinawa Prefecture has begun its third year back under Japanese rule still uncertain of its future.

Okinawa has been undergoing a continuous facelifting since it was returned to Japan by the United States on May 15, 1972. Prior to that Okinawa had been under U.S. trusteeship for a quarter of a century following World War II.

High rise hotels are sprouting up throughout the island, major expressways are being constructed, old roads are being modernized and homes are becoming more westernized than ever.

Despite all this sudden modernization, many Okinawans view the future with skepticism.

As late as this century portions of the Okinawan chain known as the Ryukyu Islands were still considered to be in the stone age. The main island of Okinawa itself, while not as neglected, was always a quiet, easygoing place of rather shy people.

It was abruptly jolted into world attention during World War II, then found itself being rushed rapidly into the 20th Century during the Korean War. Prosperity and easier living gained a strong foothold in the years under American trusteeship, including those during the Vietnam war when Okinawa was a logistical base for the U.S. military.

In 1972, having witnessed the Japanese "economic miracle," Okinawans were eager for their return to a prosperous and booming Japan.

All was not to be as bright as expected, however. The dollar shock that hit the world in 1972 especially hurt Okinawa, starting a price rise skyward that to this day has not slowed down. Once one of the cheapest areas in the Far East, Okinawa now finds its prices as high or higher than some prices in Tokyo.

Food, most of which must be shipped in from mainland Japan, is very expensive. Prices of many daily commodities have also shot up since reversion. Apartment rents, which had been low, have soared.

As of March this year Naha, capital of the Perfecture, was listed fourth among the most expensive rental areas of Japan. Before reversion, multiroom apartments averaged about $60 to $70 a month. Now they cost about $50 a room or more.

Within the past year blame for continually rising prices has shifted from the dollar shock to next year's planned International Ocean Exposition here— Expo 75. Many union and leftist ogranizations are saying that Expo 75 is responsible for the new high cost of living.

Land speculators moved into Okinawa in force following reversion, buying up cheap land from Okinawans, then reselling it to mainlanders or other Okinawans at exorbitant prices. Money hungry farmers held out for the highest price when the government of Japan was buying land for the Expo 75 site at Motobu Peninsula in northern Okinawa.

Money from mainland Japan kept on pouring into Okinawa, most of it for new hotels, high rise apartment houses, new roads and land.

Money has been spent as though it was going out of style and now the cash situation has become tight. But prices continue to climb.

Despite their unhappiness with the current situation the islanders are pulling together in their efforts to make the 1975 exposition a success, and Prefectural Governor Chobyo Yara is confident it will be.

"As the site of the Ocean Exposition," the Governor told UPI, "Okinawa fully understands the significance of the event. The people are determined to make it a success.

"We want to make the Exposition a significant opportunity in striving for creation of future peace, which mankind is strongly calling for."

This spring, thousands of Okinawans have poured into the countryside to see how work on Expo 75 is progressing. All the way from Naha to Motobu Peninsula, a two-hour drive, preparations for Expo 75 are dramatically visible, beginning with tall new hotels and office buildings in Naha itself, the modern expressway to the site that is gradually taking shape, on to the busy construction at the site itself which will be filled with elaborate structures.

Expo 75 is scheduled to open on July 20, 1975, and run six months. What lies beyond is the cause for most Okinawan concern. One big question is whether, after Expo, there will be an economic letdown.

Many progressive businessmen here think such doubts are groundless. They believe Japan will develop Okinawa into another Guam or Hawaii, industrially and otherwise— including making it one of the top tourist spots in the top tourist spots in the world.

Cabinet gives Golda dinnerware settings

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Members of Prime Minitser Golda Meir's outgoing cabinet chipped in $12 each recently to buy her dinnerware place settings for 12 persons for use when she retires to a kibbutz later this week.

An aide said that in her busy political life Mrs. Meir never managed to get a complete set of dinnerware.

AID TO BLIND — Fewer slips between cup and lip for the blind is the purose of this thumb-sized electronic sensor developed by Dr. Richard W. Roberts right, director of the National Bureau of Standards, and George Jernakoff. Attached to the cup by "feeler" electrodes, the battery-operated sensor buzzes when the beverage level rises within a half-inch of the cup's lip, warning against overfilling. Developed at the General Electric Research and Development Center in Schenectady, N.Y., the device is being offered to responsible outside manufacturers on a royalty-free license. This shot demonstrates typical usage.

Universal regret measure of Willy Brandt's stature

A measure of Willy Brandt's stature is the universal regret outside Gesmany over his decision to resign as West German chancellor.

Even though his resignation may be just a way-point in his political career and not its end, it nonetheless cast a huge question mark not only over the future of Germany but the whole European community as well, capable also of influencing future policy of the United States and the Soviet Union.

It also requires a long look at the man who is to become his successor —Helmut Schmidt, who has served both as finance minister and defense minister.

In Washington, where there was undisguised regret at Brandt's departure from office, reaction was cautious beyond a notion that Schmidt is a "good man" in his own right.

As regards Schmidt's future relations with the United States, it is noteworthy that two of his personal heroes are Thomas Jefferson, because of his broad intellectual horizon, and President John F. Kennedy, "because he restored to men all over the world the courage to have ideals."

In Bonn it is predicted that West Germany now will tilt more toward Washington than Paris in American-French rows. Brandt had attempted to go down the middle between the two. Schmidt believes the Americans deserve more consideration from the Europeans and says so out loud.

An example was his outspoken support of the United States against France during the Washington oil crisis conference a few weeks ago.

The Americans are warned, however, that Schmidt will be no one's yesman.

He proved to be an extremely tough negotiator in reaching agreement with the United States on the $2.28-billion to be spent by West Germany to help offset the cost of stationing U.S. troops in West Germany.

But until he feels his own position secure both at home and among West Germany's partners in the European Common Market, no wides-winging action on his part can be expected.

Meantime, Brandt's departure removed the one European leader both the United States and the Soviet Union believed capable of a leadership role for Western Europe.

In Europe at the moment, stable governments exist in Luxembourg and Ireland.

France has reached the end of the De Gaulle era and its future direction is uncertain.

Denmark, the Netherlands and Belgium have weak coalitions.

In Britain, the currently ruling Labor party is a minority, its future in the European common market uncertain and more concerned with its own problems than with those of Europe as a whole.

Italy's government also is a patchwork of factions apt to fall apart at any moment.

Uneasiness and unrest are Western Europe's most common denominator. It is a situation in which normally the Soviet Union would rejoice. Ironically, with the loss of Brandt, the death of French President Georges Pompidou, and with President Nixon in trouble at home, it also strikes directly at detente with the West which Soviet party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev has made the cornerstone of the Kremlin's foreign policy, and conceivably could threaten Brezhnev's own position.

Antimacassar was the name given to the protective covering thrown over the back of a chair or the head of a sofa, named after Macassar, a hair oil in general use in the 19th century.

New skin transplant technique holds hope for severely burned

BOSTON (UPI) — Children so severely burned they otherwise faced almost certain death now have a better chance for survival because of a new skin transplant technique which suppresses the body's natural rejection mechanisms.

Since the first experiment in early 1972, 11 youngsters have received such treatments and seven lived. All had burns which virtually ruled out their survival if treated by any other means.

The procedures were developed by surgeons and pediatricians at the Massachusetts General Hospital (MGH) who also staff the Shriners Burns Institute.

In the May issue of the MGH News, doctors explained the treatment involved temporary skin transplanted from a donor, usually the child's parents. The physicians seek to protect the burned children until grafts from unharmed portions of their own bodies can be transferred.

Though skin transplants for burned patients are nothing new, the Shriners-MGH technique includes important new elements, the most significant of which is the use of immunosuppression.

With daily medication doctors suppress the children's immunologic responses which are believed responsible for their bodies' rejection of foreign tissue.

This treatment, doctors say, greatly prolongs the length of survival or "survival time" of the temporary graft. With the extra time, doctors can cover the most badly burned child with his own skin.

Covering patients sufficiently with their own skin requires several weeks or more and since patients with large burns have few areas of healthy skin remaining, surgeons must continually reharvest these patches, allowing them 10 to 14 days to grow back each time.

There are risks involved in the use of immunosuppression, but severely burned patients have almost no chance of survival with traditional treatments.

The use of a special bacteria controlled nursing environment makes immunosuppression safe enough to attempt, but because the risks still exist, only children with 80 per cent or more total body-surface burns and 70 per cent or more third-degree burns receive it.

"We had to consider the undeniable risks of using immunosuppression before starting the program," said Dr. A. Benedict Cosimi. "That's why we only applied it to patients we thought had no chance of survival by conventional methods."

During the four to eight weeks when the youngsters are carrying their parents' skin, surgeons continually replace it with sections of the children's own skin.

"When we have covered all but 20 per cent of the child's burns with his own skin," said Dr. Alia Y. Antoon, "we stop immunosuppression and continue using allografts (cadaver skin) until we have grafted the patient's skin to all the remaining parts of his body."

After about three months in the bacteria-controlled unit, the children begin to undergo reconstructive plastic surgery. The patient, if all goes well, can leave the hospital after six or seven months.

The first patient to receive the treatment was a 2½-year-old New York girl who suffered burns over 91 per cent of her body, 80 per cent of which were third-degree burns.

That was early in 1972. No child as young as her had been known to survive with burns so severe. She walked out of the hospital six months later.

During a recent followup, doctors saw the girl, now 4½, and report she was about to start nursery school.

Chief surgeon Dr. John F. Burke said experience will make this a reasonably safe procedure and "then we can extend it to patients having less severe burns."

Hold those box tops, kids, FTC says it could be against law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mmmm, Kemo Sabee! No more Lone Ranger rings or silver bullets?

That's right, Tonto. Maybe no more Captain Video decoders, Davy Crockett T-shirts, or Sky King turquoise rings either.

William Tell Overture in the background —and the scene shifts to Washington, D.C., where the cause of this consternation is revealed. This week, Lewis A. Engman, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, proposed banning kids' television commercials in which prizes are offered for sending in box tops.

"I am now prepared to conclude, as a matter of law, that the inclusion of premium offers in children's television advertising has no place in American marketing and —as I read the law —is a violation of the Federal Trade Commission act," he said in a speech to the American Advertising Federation.

To members of the Tonto generation that might sound like enough of a social revolution for one day, but Engman was just warming up.

"I also have concluded that, under some circumstances at least, the use of 'hero figures' in children's advertising may constitute an unfair practice..." he said.

"The use of hero figures — whether sports figures, entertainment personalities, cartoon characters or figures from the program itself —may further serve to reduce the child's power and inclination to discriminate."

That apparently could mean that neither Hank Aaron nor Mighty Mouse could endorse cereal.

In addition Engman said consideration should be given to stopping commercials for vitamins or over-the-counter drugs aimed at children, as well as pitches for dangerous toys or "other products hazardous to health or safety."

Consuner groups which have been pushing both the FTC and the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to do something about kiddy commercials for years were happy.

Peggy Charron of the Boston-based Action on Children's Televison called Engman's announcement a "beautiful first step." She looks forward to reducing the number of minutes of commercials to which children may be exposed in one day.

Nude revue opens

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — "Circus Bang Bang," a nude circus revue featuring singing, dancing and juggling has opened in the Boom Boom Room of the Fontainebleau Hotel here for an indefinite period.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The English statesman William Pitt, the first Earl of Chatham, exclaimed before the House of Lords in 1770 that "Unlimited power is apt to corrupt the minds of those who possess it." In 1887, Lord Acton, an English historian, penned the phrase, "Power tends to corrupt, and absolute power corrupts absolutely." the World Almanac recalls.

Breaks window in own home, bleeds to death

STRATFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Theodore Stec, 42, bled to death after breaking a window to gain entrance to his home over the weekend, police said.

Stec's body was found slumped over the kitchen sink early Saturday by a brother-in-law who had gone to visit him.

Police said Stec apparently got home late Friday or early Saturday and slashed an artery in his arm while breaking the window.

They said they found puddles of blood throughout the house, and presumed he had tried to call for help because the telephone receiver was off the hook.

Donors' generosity wanes

The shysters cripple charity

NEW YORK (NEA) — Part of the incidental information culled from the investigation of President Nixon's tax returns was that in 1972 he contributed a mere $292 to charity.

The niggardly gift was surprising to much of the nation, but not really a subject of controversy because of a general belief that charities are old fashioned, that philanthropy is fading and that donations in general are down.

No so. According to statistics just compiled, charities are enjoying unprecedented favor in America, and the President, in 1972, simply was not doing his share. The American Association of Fund Raising Counsel reports that some 27-million tax returns indicated charitable deductions last year, and some half-million charities shared in a record-breaking receipt of $24.5 billion.

The figures are staggering and, to a nation plagued by enough problems of inhumanity and carelessness, they are encouraging. Religious groups and institutions received $10.9 billion alone. One contributor, Mrs. Geraldine Rockefeller Lodge, gave $85 million to set up a foundation in her name, and another philanthropist, Mrs. Helen Bonfils, donated $50 million to the performing arts.

The Fund Raising Council says that individual Americans contributed more than $18 billion of the total for an average contribution of $490 apiece.

But beneath this good news, there are some signs that the President may not be so out of trend as it seems. Perhaps he is merely ahead of his time. Despite large sums being given to charity at present, there is worry it may not continue.

Already Americans are giving less of their total income to needy causes (1.75 per cent today vs. 1.78 in 1960) and some experts in the field, such as Melvin Van de Workeen of the National Information Bureau, believe young people, tomorrow's givers, "are being turned off to charity."

The reason for the concern is simple: Many charities operate fund-raising campaigns that raise more money for the fund raisers than the charity. And it's not only young people who are disturbed by such questionable procedures, it's everybody who's aware of what sometimes goes on. Says Jack Schwartz, whose 42-year-old Fund Raising Council is a collection of 30 major, and presumably legitimate firms:

"We fight this image all the time. Everytime some fly-by-night shyster clips the public, legitimate fund raisers are hurt. People get suspicious and it's harder to get them to give."

To be sure, there are numerous fly-by-night shysters. One Washington, D.C., fund raiser recently forced charity organizers to sign a contract which allowed him to take his expenses and profit before any donations could go to the needy.

Another group, called the Friends of the FBI, is reported to have used such devious tactics in money raising that the most popular G-Man of them all, TV's Ephrem Zimbalist, Jr. withdrew his name from its list of alleged supporters.

But breaking or bending legalities is not the most prevalent of fund-raising abuses. In most cases the perversion is mostly an ethical one: Fund raisers milk high but lawful profits from ostensibly worthy causes.

In one classic example uncovered by Sen. Walter Mondale's Senate Subcommittee on Children and Youth, investigators found that fund raisers for a group called Asthmatic Children's Foundation raised $10 million to help the diseased kids, then pocketed 86 per cent of the total as campaign expenses.

Naturally, this latter abuse will no doubt hinder future collections for asthmatic youngsters. Thus the concern that shady or incompetent fund raisers will eventually cripple charity in general. Schwartz of the Fund Raising Council says that newspapers should do more to protect the legitimate enterprises, by emphasizing the positive rather than the negative side of charity campaigns.

He says the unworthies are "an extremely small percentage" of the total. He adds that the major fund-raising firms will not even consider a charity campaign if the cost gets much above 25-30 per cent.

Yet, as of now, very little is known about the extent of fund-raising abuse. The true crooks may be, as Schwartz says, "an extremely small percentage" of the overall; but then again the NIB, which acts as a fact-finding agency for philanthropers, annually finds that some 75 of the nation's largest and most entrenched charities operate to some degree of inefficiency or exaggeration.

Some states and cities do regulate charities, and demand such information as financial breakdowns, but for the most part, this data, nationally, is privileged. Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin (D-Calif.) reports that he recently tried to check into the operations of several charities and found they refused to answer any questions.

The National Chamber of Commerce and the Better Business Bureau also have had difficulties getting charities to reveal the economics of their operations. In some cases, the charities refuse for reason of "privacy," and many well-known religious charities say they maintain secrecy on the sacred tenent of church and state separation.

Not surprisingly, attempts are being made to change this secrecy. Van Deerlin has introduced a House bill which would force charities which solicit by mail to disclose the facts of their money disbursement. Mondale is leaning towards the creation of some kind of federal information center whereby any citizen can check on the worthiness of his prospective charity and the use of his donated dollar.

Less specific, but apparently equally concerned, the Nixon administration has set up a commission to "study the situation."

But in lieu of new laws or restrictions, legitimate fund raisers and charity workers say the abuses can even now be minimized if individuals and corporations follow two simple and logical rules:

(1) Never give money to unidentified people and (2), Never give money to a charity that will not reveal how its donations are spent.

La Verne loses thriller

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — The La Verne College baseball team is coming home tonight.

No matter what happens in the championship game tonight between Sam Houston State (42-10) and Lewis University (38-13), it will be anti-climatic.

In one of the wildest, wooliest games imaginable, the Leos (37-9) were eliminated by Sam Houston, 5-4, in 11 innings Wednesday night here at Phil Welch Stadium.

There were three hours and 17 minutes of thrill after thrill and ever-mounting pressure and tension. But these things stand out most vividly:

—Despite the fact that it was a semi-final game in a national championship tournament, La Verne third baseman Hank Merenda was ejected from the game in the seventh inning.

—Merenda was followed shortly by John Verhoeven and Mike Alonso, both ejected from the bench.

—With a patch-work lineup of Art Sanchez at third, Eric Frazier in center, and Jesse Mendoza in left, the Leopards still held one-run leads which they couldn't hold going into the ninth and 11th innings.

—Frazier kept the Leos alive with a great throw from deep centerfield to nail the winning run at the plate and complete an inning-ending double play when everybody thought SHS had the game won in the last of the 10th inning.

—The Leos would have won in regulation time except that a run scored by Paul Fleming was nullified because Fleming was ruled to have left third base too soon.

—The Leopards had a triple, single, double and single in that order in that inning (the seventh) yet scored only one run. Besides losing Flemings' run, Dave Long ran through the third base coaches' stop sign and was tossed out at the plate.

—Wayne Redfearn made a great running catch on a drive to deep right field in the third inning. Running toward the fence, Redfearn made one last, desperate lunge, snagging the ball as he fell.

—Verhoeven was named to the NAIA All-America First Team which was announced before the game. Nick Leyva was selected to the second team and Alonso made honorable mention.

—La Verne outhit Sam Houston, 15 to 10.

—La Verne also lost a run when Don Snyder was thrown out at home on Fleming's fifth inning single.

—For the first time in memory, Leo coach Ben Hines had nothing to say . . . that could be printed.

It was, all in all, one heck of an evening's entertainment . . . for those who had no team to identify with. For the rest, it was unbearable tension packed between soaring hopes and mounting despair.

When it was over, everyone connected with either team, was emotionally drained.

The two teams battled through five scoreless innings before La Verne broke the ice in the sixth. Redfearn opened the inning with a single. With two out, Frazier singled to right and Snyder drove in Redfearn with a line single to center.

At that point, Ray Burgess replaced Sam Houston starter Jim Miller. Burgess retired Rich Fielder to end the inning.

SHS knocked out Leo starter Tim Kelly in the last of the sixth. Designated hitter Tom Wendt drew Kelley's second walk. The youngster had escaped damage in the fifth inning but showed definite signs of losing his edge. When he went to 3-1 on Jim Bates, Hines called in Dan Quisenberry who had sparkled in Monday's game.

Quisenberry got Bates on a tap to the mound. But Bill Cheatham doubled to score Wendt and Steve Maas singled sharply to drive in Cheatham and give SHS a 2-1 lead.

Robb Mayhew (9-4) took over pitching chores in the seventh for La Verne and was the eventual loser.

The Leos tied it in the seventh, but should have scored more. Merenda led off with a triple. Fleming singled in Merenda to tie the game.

Alonso doubled to left, putting Fleming at third. Redfearn hit a fly to center, after which Fleming scored easily, but when the Bear Kats appealed, Fleming was ruled to have left base too soon, his run was nullified, and he was the second out of the inning.

Long ran for Alonso. Leyva hit a shot off the Sam Houston third baseman. Long, coming from second, ran through Hines' stop sign and was an easy out at home plate.

But that was not the end of La Verne's seventh inning difficulties.

Mayhew came in to pitch for La-Verne. With one out, he overran Willis Stewart's grounder for an error, putting Stewart on base. Mayhew balked on a pickoff attempt, allowing Stewart to go to second. Sam Monteau was given an intentional walk.

Wendt forced Monteau at second with Stewart moving to third. Leyva took Fleming's throw and then fired to third trying to nip Stewart. When umpire Linzey Sumpter called Stewart safe, Merenda exploded, and was ejected from the game.

He was followed by Verhoeven and Alonso. If it hadn't been for the restraining efforts of Leyva, Hines also might have been ejected. Bates flied to right to end the stormy inning.

In the eighth inning, La Verne scored a run on just one hit. Sanchez grounded to short, but Bates threw the ball away and Sanchez reached second. He advanced to third on an infield out and scored on Fielder's single.

That gave La Verne a 3-2 lead. Mayhew fanned two of the three men he faced as he sailed through the last of the eighth. But he gave up the tieing run in the ninth.

Stewart drew a one-out walk. Monteau got an infield hit. Wendt forced Monteau, Stewart advancing to third. Bates grounded a single to right, scoring Stewart and sending the game into extra innings.

It looked like the Leos had reached the end of the line in the last of the 10th. Maas opened with a grounder to third that Sanchez, playing in a strange position, fielded and threw away, Maas reaching second. Paul Leggett sacrified Maas to third, and Dave Wooley hit a fly to deep center.

The crowd was actually starting to leave as Frazier caught the ball for the second out. He fired it to Snyder at the plate in time to double Maas and end the inning.

Fielder opened the 11th with a triple off Rick Matula (7-4). Mendoza grounded out, and Fleming was walked intentionally. Jim Sherman, who had taken over as DH, hit a slow bouncer to second on which Fielder scored easily.

Once again Mayhew and the Leos had the lead.

But in the last of the 11th, Mayhew walked the leadoff man Jackie Heard. Stewart sacrificed and Monteau was walked intentionally. Wendt grounded to first, with Heard and Monteau advancing.

Bates was also walked intentionally, loading the bases with two out. The infield moved in for a possible play at any base. Cheatham took one pitch, a ball, then hit a short fly to left field that dropped in for a hit, scoring both Heard and Monteau to win the game for Sam Houston.

The Leos, third place finishers in the tourney, are due to arrive via Continental flight 041 at Ontario International Airport at 8:30 p.m (PDT) tonight.

LANCE PARRISH

Lance Parrish must decide on Tiger offer

WALNUT — Lance Parrish was just a little surprised about being a first round selection by the Detroit Tigers in Wednesday's free agent baseball draft.

But it wasn't the fact that he was a first round choice that surprised the stocky all-around athlete from Walnut High.

"I was hoping I'd go that early," stated Parrish. "I thought I might have been picked earlier by the Phillies or the Angels. I was a little surprised to be drafted by Detroit. I might have talked to a Detroit scout this year, but I never worked out with them. I worked out with six clubs and twice with the Angels at Anaheim Stadium."

Now the negotiating will begin.

Lance, who stands at 6-foot-3 and 195 pounds, would like to play pro ball but he has indicated the "price" has to be right. It's not just the money, though, that concerns Parrish.

"I don't care where I play, just so I play," he commented Wednesday after hearing the news. "Now we'll just wait to see how things go when we talk to the scouts. I'll take whatever is fair."

When asked what he considers fair, he answered, "Pay for my schooling, for instance. Also I've talked to a lot of people connected with baseball and they have told me that the average salary for first round choices is $50,000. I'll be keeping an eye on that figure."

Terry Murphy, who has coached the Walnut athlete in various sports since he was 13, said, "Lance is the best athlete I've coached. He'll sign if the money is right because he wants to play pro ball."

Murphy, Parrish's coach in this summer's Walnut Thorobred program, also indicated that he was surprised Lance didn't get picked up earlier in the draft.

Parrish, who was the starting quarterback for Walnut's football team and a starting guard for the Mustangs' basketball team this year, was the 16th choice in the draft.

"Right now Lance has a lot of options open to him," added Murphy, who was recently named to succeed Hank Johnson as head baseball coach at Walnut. "Money will be the deciding factor in whether or not Detroit can sign him. If they come up with a good offer, he'd sign."

Murphy figures Lance should command a figure in excess of the $50,000 mark. He pointed out that at least 10 major league clubs, including Detroit, scout Parrish extensively at Walnut and in the Thorobred program.

Lance has been offered a football scholarship at UCLA, but also has been considering attending a junior college for a year. Now he can add the pro prospects to his list.

Parrish was one of several valley athletes drafted Wednesday.

Nogales High's Dean Olson, who helped lead the Nobles to the CIF 3-A baseball finals this year, was selected in the third round by the Minnesota Twins.

John Verhoeven, who was one of the key figures in leading La Verne College to the semifinals of the NAIA World Series this year, was grabbed in the 12th round by the Angels.

The San Diego Padres drafted Chaffey College's Ron Gill, an Alta Loma High graduate, in the 13th round. The West End pitcher was the first choice of the round.

Damien High pitcher Larry Pekarcik was picked up by the Kansas City Royals in the 15th round.

Pekarcik, who was the Most Valuable Player in the San Antonio League this year, had an earned run average of 1.00 and a 12-1 record.

McGriff looks for his fifth road race win

RIVERSIDE — Hershel McGriff, millionaire lumberman from Bridal Veil, Ore., will be looking for his fifth victory over the rugged 2.62 mile road course at Riverside International Raceway, when he takes the pole position for Sunday's California 100.

The 46-year-old McGriff, who piloted his 1969 Chevelle to a 106.996 clocking in last Sunday's qualifying, won the Caifornia 100 last year and has three Permatex 200 victories to his credit in six Riverside outings.

The $10,000 California 100, which starts at 11 a.m., is part of a NASCAR stock car doubleheader that features the $80,000 Tuboug 400 Grand National race at 1 p.m.

Heading the list of entries for the Tuborg 400 are NASCAR regulars, Richard Petty, Cale Yarborough, Bobby Allison, Benny Parson, James Hylton and Cecil Gordon. George Follmer, who calls Riverside "my home course," will drive Roger Penske's American Motors Matador while Buddy Baker has been assigned to Bud Moore's RC Cola Ford.

Practice sessions for the Tuborg 400 start at noon today and continue Friday morning. Qualifying for the first 15 places on the starting grid gets underway at noon Friday, with the balance of the 35 starting spots being decided Saturday afternoon beginning at 1 p.m.

Tickets for the stock car doubleheader can be obtained at any Ticketron or Liberty Agency or at the Riverside Raceway.

Garvey keeps L.A. winning

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers have been virtually unbeatable at home and southpaw Doug Rau nearly underscored it with the season's first no-hitter.

The struggling Pittsburgh Pirates busted Rau's effort with a pair of hits and a run in the eighth, however, and fought back to a 2-2 tie—only to lose in the ninth on Steve Garvey's leadoff homer for the Dodgers.

The 3-2 victory Wednesday night was Los Angeles' 22nd in 27 home games this year and sixth of its last seven to extend its lead over idle second-place Cincinnati to seven games in the National League West.

"I wasn't getting tired but the pace of the game was so fast I hardly had time to sit down," said Rau, who left the game in the ninth while Mike Marshall registered the last two outs for the win. "I felt like I was always on the mound. I kept thinking to myself 'when am I going to get a chance to catch my breath?'"

Rau failed for the 10th time in 11 starts to complete a game but expressed little disappointment at losing his no-hit bid.

"I started to think about a no-hitter in the fifth inning," Rau said. "The first hit didn't let me down as much as the fact they got a run on it."

Rau, 5-1, had only a pair of walks against him before Richie Hebner singled in a run in the eighth. He allowed another hit to Al Oliver in the ninth and walked Willie Stargell and Manager Walter Alston brought in Marshall.

"It was tough to take Rau out in a spot like that," Alston said.

Marshall, 3-3, was greeted by a run-scoring single by Richie Zisk but nailed the last two outs for the victory.

The Pirate one-run rallies in the eighth and ninth snapped a 35-inning streak in which they had been unable to push across an earned run. They fell another half-game deeper into the NL East cellar.

For Garvey, it was his 12th homer and moved him to second place in the league behind teammate Jimmy Wynn, who has 15. He tied St. Louis' Reggie Smith for the RBI lead with his 47th run driven in, however.

"When you have a team where everybody contributes like the Dodgers, you just have to go out there and make your contribution," Garvey said.

The Dodgers send Andy Messersmith, 5-1, against Ken Brett, 6-3, tonight.

Ex-Brewers lead way for Angels 6-5 win

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Like the monster returning to haunt Frankenstein some ex-Milwaukee Brewers Wednesday night came back to Milwaukee and haunted their ex-team.

Joe Lahoud and Sip Lockwood, who during the winter were dealt to the California Angels, helped the Angels down Milwaukee 6-5 to even the series at a game apiece going into today's final game.

Lockwood, a starting pitcher in Milwaukee for several years, was the man on the mound for the Angels and Lahoud, an outfielder, hit the ninth inning two-run homer to give their new team a win in the rain-delayed game which lasted four and a half hours.

"It's kind of poetic. I happen to be pitching when Joe hits the home run," said Lockwood, who worked the final 1 2-3 innings to pick up his second win against one loss while Milwaukee reliefer Eduardo Rodriguez dropped to 4-1.

And Lahoud, who admits that "I've always enjoyed hitting in this park," was all smiles after showing his old fans he had what it takes.

"I didn't get a chance to play over here," he said, "but Angels' Manager Bobby Winkles is giving me a chance."

And Lahoud admitted that "I was thinking of hitting the ball out of the park in that situation —hitting the ball as hard as I could."

Chest pains send Hayes to hospital

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Veteran Ohio State football coach Woody Hayes was listed in guarded but "stable" condition today in the coronary unit of University Hospital after being admitted suffering from chest pains.

Dr. Robert J. Murphy, head of the OSU Athletic Department medical staff, said Hayes, head coach of the Buckeyes for the past 23 years, was admitted to the hospital about 8 a.m. after complaining of the pains.

"His condition is stable and it will be three days before any definitive diagnosis can be made," Murphy said. "Unless there is a change in his condition, no further report will be made until then."

Ralph Staub, one of Hayes' top assistants, said the Buckeye coaching staff had met most of Wednesday and when he talked to Hayes last night "he was in good spirits."

Hayes, 61, a native of Newcomerstown, Ohio, is a graduate of Denison University and has spent his entire coaching career in the Buckeye State.

His first collegiate job was at his alma mater and he was coach at Miami (Ohio), the socalled "cradle of coaches," prior to coming to Ohio State in 1951.

In 23 years as Ohio State's head coach, Hayes has compiled a record of 159-49-8, including a 10-0-1 record last year, soiled only by a 10-10 tie with Michigan in the final game of the season. At the time, the Buckeyes were rated the No. 1 team in the nation in the United Press International Board of Coaches' ratings.

The Buckeyes, however, got the Big Ten's controversial Rose Bowl bid in the vote of the conference's athletic directors and went on to trounce Southern California 42-21 in the New Year's Day classic.

Hayes' teams have won six outright Big Ten titles in his 23 years at OSU and have shared three others, either winning or sharing the championship with Michigan five of the last six years.

The annual season-ending Ohio State-Michigan games, always the top contest on the Buckeye schedule, have become even more fiercely contested the last five years with Hayes doing battle with former assistant Bo Schembechler, who served under Hayes at OSU.

This week, Hayes lost one of his most popular assistants when Rudy Hubbard, his backfield coach who also played for the Buckeyes, was named head coach at Florida A & M. Hubbard was one of Hayes top recruiters, having been given credit for nabbing both all-Americans John Hicks and Archie Griffin for the Buckeyes.

Quarterback Steve Taylor is the lone Pomona representative while Chino's spirit will be instilled by defensive guard Randy Rizo. Ganesha's running back Ronnie Jacques should also see plenty of action.

Coaching the East will be Dwayne DeSpain, who guided Los Altos to the 4-A championships, and Rowland High coach Gary Rawls will assist.

The West will be coached by Gordon Warnock, who piloted Crescenta Valley to the 3-A title, and Arroyo's head coach Gary Gunstream.

The West is lead by linebacker Jim Laffin of Duarte, the CIF 2-A co-Player of the Year, Larry Smith of Mark Keppel, the Mission Valley defensive Player of the Year, Alan Staie of Crescenta Valley, and Rich Mueller and Ron Blankenbaker of 2-A champion Temple City.

The teams will begin conditioning workouts July 3, with the East team practicing at Citrus College and the West team at Pasadena City College. The teams will begin workouts with pads on July 6. Both units expect to practice in the early evening hours and neither team intends to hold double session drills.

MYRON McGILL . . . Poly's Co-Most Valuable

Jane Janousek: a first at Poly

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Cal Poly's track team recorded a first Wednesday night.

But it wasn't out on the track.

It was at the team's awards banquet held at the Kellogg West dining hall on the Cal Poly campus.

Jane Janousek, a shy blonde who stands a petite 5-foot-0, 112 pounds, became the first female athlete to receive a collegiate award at Poly. Miss Janousek ran the mile for Poly's Women's Track and Field team this year. According to Bronco head track coach Fred Jones, Jane competed in eight track meets this year and finished fourth in the conference in the mile, clocking a best time for the season of 5:57.0.

"It's the first time in Cal Poly's history that an award like this was given," Jones said. "She's a fine young lady."

Miss Janousek, only a sophomore, stole the show at the banquet.

Her award overshadowed the other awards passed out by Jones and his assistant, Don Halderman.

Sprinter Myron McGill and triple jumper Emory Montgomery shared the Most Valuable honors.

The Most Consistent trophy went to hammer thrower Mike DeShane, while distance runner John Armstrong received the Most Improved award.

Doug Dantzler, who was the conference leader in the quarter mile this year in the CCAA, was the recipient of the Best First Year Man honor.

And high hurdler Harry Frierson picked up the Most Inspirational award.

Long jumper Rickey Robinson also received an award for being a three-year lettermen in the field events. An injury kept Robinson harnessed for most of the season.

Cal Poly ended its season this year with an 8-2 dual meet record, and finished third in the CCAA meet at Cal State Northridge.

Jones is expecting better things in the future for the Broncos, since a good majority of the athletes from this year's track team will return to the track next year.

Memphis dropping off NFL expansion list

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — A "puzzled, discouraged and dejected" Michael Lynn gave up his eight-year quest for a National Football League team in Memphis Wednesday while quarterbacks for the city's new World Football League team opened practice a mile away.

"Memphis is not going to get an NFL team," said the sports promoter. "Commissioner Pete Rozelle may say Memphis is still in the running—but it's not."

Lynn said he also planned to confer with his attorneys about the possible withdrawal of his suit challenging the lease of 50,000-seat Memphis Memorial Stadium, to the WFL Memphis Southmen.

"I see no real purpose in the suit at this time," he said at a news conference in his home. Newsmen were served soft drinks on paper napkins emblazoned with the letters "NFL" in red.

Owners of the NFL teams voted Tuesday in New York to expand to Seattle after taking in Tampa earlier in the year. Each team paid $16 million for its franchise in the established league.

Memphis was reported high on the list of possible NFL expansion cities. But Lynn said that the owners feared a possible multi-million dollar antitrust suit from the WFL if they attempted to establish a team here.

The Memphis Park Commission agreed last month to lease the local stadium to the WFL for five years and give the team, which moved here from Toronto, "preferential" dates to play.

"I am puzzled, I am discouraged, I am dejected," said Lynn. "A few people in this city panicked—and because of this, Memphis is not going to get a National Football League team."

Lynn said he planned to surrender the charter of Mid-South Sports, Inc., and shut down the promotion company within six months.

"Its sole purpose was to get an NFL team here," he said. Meanwhile, quarterbacks John Huarte and Danny White began their battle over who will start for the Southmen when the team opens its season here July 10.

All-State honors to valley players

Five valley players were selections on the California Coaches Association All-State and All-Southern California baseball teams announced recently.

Third baseman Kevin Bell of Mt. San Antonio and outfielder Dennis Hawkins of Chaffey College were chosen for the first team All-State squad, while MSAC outfielder Pat Corcoran was a second team selection.

All three players were first team selections on the All-Southern California team and MSAC pitcher Bob Chaulk and Chaffey catcher Dave Hill were second team choices.

Hawkins batted .373 for the Panthers and established a new state community college stolen base record with 50 for the season.

Bell batted .366 for MSAC, while Corcoran led the South Coast Conference with a .383 average.

Chaulk had a 9-2 win-loss record for MSAC and Hill batted .336 for Chaffey.

Indians chastise umpires

CLEVELAND (UPI) — General Manager Phil Seghi of the Cleveland Indians Wednesday chastised the umpiring crew headed by Nester Chylak for losing control of Tuesday night's game with the Texas Rangers that erupted into a knife-wielding, bottle-tossing near-riot on "10 cent beer night."

Billy Martin, the Rangers manager, also was accused by Indians vice president Alva "Ted" Bonda of provoking some of the Cleveland fans.

Bowie Kuhn, the Baseball Commissioner, said that future game promotions "which could create problems of this type will be reviewed in advance."

Seghi, in a telegram to American League president Lee MacPhail, also lodged a formal protest of the game which was forfeited to the Rangers. Seghi conceded the chances are the protest would not be upheld, but he at least wanted MacPhail to know the Indians' side of the story.

Bonda said the incident which precipitated the brawl in which hundreds of fans stormed the field at the stadium came when Martin led his team with bats in hand onto the field. The Rangers say this action took place only to protect their rightfielder Jeff Burroughs, who was trying to get his cap from a fan who had come out of the stands and snatched it off his head.

"It was bad enough Martin leading his men out there, with our players following to help," Bonda said. "Whether provoked or not, Martin threw gravel at the fans and thumbed his nose at them near the Texas dugout.

"If the umpires had tried to keep all the players in the dugout and quell the Burroughs incident by itself, I don't think this happening would have occurred. Then it just mushroomed and snowballed and you know what happened after that."

Bonda, only in his eighth month with the Indians, said the incidents which led to eight persons being arrested, one person hospitalized and several players injured was caused by "all sorts of factors, including the ten cent beer night promotion; the Tribe's tying the game in the bottom of the ninth; students being out of school, and people just wanting to see a good ball game."

Bonda said he defer any decision on whether or not to scrap the remaining three beer nights.

"I deplore anyone going on the field," Bonda said, "and Phil has ordered more security for future games.

"We've got to learn from this situation and then make a very careful evaluation and worthwhile effort to prevent such incidents from reoccurring. When one fan ran on the field and got away with it, more tried to do it and got a way with it, too. They were just trying to play 'King of the Hill.' What one does and gets away with, another wants to try, too."

The wire Seghi sent to MacPhail at American League headquarters in New York said: "While we deplore the incidents which led to the forefeiture, we also feel that there was no warning given to the fans during the course of the game by the umpires that any continuation of interruptions of play would lead to a declaration of a forfeiture of the game.

"Also, we strongly feel that in the ninth inning it should be kept in mind that both the Cleveland Indians ball club and the Texas Rangers ball club had gone back to the dugouts unmolested and that the umpires should have made a more concerted effort to have our policemen clear the field so that our game coould be resumed."

Seghi said if he had the opportunity to use hindsight he would have made an announcement on the public address system early in the game to tell the fans to stop running out onto the field.

Bonda also called upon the American League to conduct a study on crowd control to help avoid such instances throughout baseball.

"We have to start to give crowd control more consideration and make certain judgements with it," he said. "It will be for the betterment of the fans, the players and the club."

Seghi who said umpire-in-chief John Stevens was in attendance at the game, said he asked him if he would have forfeitted the game. Seghi said Stevens responded with a terse "no." As it was, Chylak termed the fans as "just uncontrollable beasts.

"We never thought it would reach that crescendo," Seghi said. "The American League expected something to happen because of the incident last week in Texas and had someone here to view the game."

McDonald, Celts agree

BOSTON (UPI) — Glenn McDonald, the world champion Boston Celtics' first round draft choice last week, Wednesday signed a two-year contract with the NBA club.

McDonald, a 6-6, 180 pound defensive specialist from Long Beach State, was expected to bolster the team's already tough defensive back court.

"My tongue is already hanging out over the defensive prospects," said Celtics' Coach Tom Heinsohn. "I think with Don Chaney's wing span and this guy's (McDonald's) reach, they should be able to reach from sideline to sideline."

"I feel just beautiful," said McDonald, one of four Long Beach State players grabbed in the first three rounds. "I never expected to be drafted by Boston (who picked 17th). The Celtics play just about the same style I did in college, so I think I will work out well."

McDonald, an unheralded player at Long Beach, averaged 13.4 points per game his senior year but played more minutes than any of his teammates because of his outstanding defensive game.

Boston General Manager Red Auerbach said neither McDonald nor his attorney ever mentioned negotiations with the American Basketball Association in reaching the undisclosed contract agreement.

"He wanted to play here," said Auerbach.

CIF starts game over

LOS ANGELES — The CIF 4-A baseball championship game will start over again at 2 p.m. Saturday at USC's Dedeaux Field, the CIF announced Wednesday.

Undefeated Lakewood and North Torrance will try it again after playing to an 0-0 tie at Anaheim Stadium Tuesday night in a game after 11 innings because of a curfew.

The CIF said the title game will start from scratch rather than open in the 12th inning.

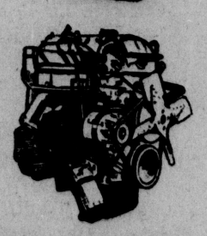

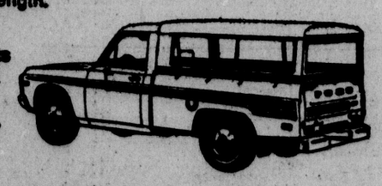

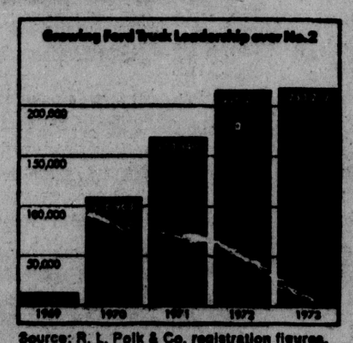

In Tuesday's preliminary, Lompoc defeated Nogales, 4-3, in the 3-A finals.

Izanami goes after first victory as a three-year-old

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Izanami, turned back in her first 1974 start by a pair of allowance class colts, bids again for her first win as a 3-year-old today in the featured $14,000 race for fillies and mares at Hollywood Park.

Izanami, which came in third by a nose and a head in her sophomore debut, will be seeking to break 3-year-old maiden against seven rivals.

The six furlong allowance race is for fillies and mares 3 years-old and up.

The winner over her highly-regarded stablemate Fleet Peach last year Izanami will be matched against Lady By Choice, Guantanamera, Mini McCoy, Call Box. Liloschoolteacher, Bold Pleasure, and Winter Kiss.

Friday's $20,000 feature is for 3-year-olds and will be a one mile turf allowance contest. The field of seven is headed by Tinsley's Image, a winner in his only two starts as a sophomore.

Miss Tokyo, the most impressive 2-year-old in the stables at Hollywood Park, zipped to an easy 10 length victory Wednesday in the $26,250 Cygnet Stakes.

"Boy can she run," said jockey Laffit Pincay Jr., who never had to touch the black filly with the whip. "She could have gone faster because I never really pushed her that much."

Coupled with her stablemate Cloudy Summer, Miss Tokyo won her third race in as many starts. Only two other owners were interested in saddling challengers to the powerful Tony Doyle-trained entry, so it was run as an exhibition between the fifth and sixth races, the first time Hollywood Park has staged an added money race with a non-wagering format.

Cloudy Summer was second, a nose in front of Mocha Frost.

The Cygnet Stakes is normally a major battleground for distaffers heading for the Hollywood Lassie Stakes, the meeting's championship for 2-year-old fillies.

Miss Tokyo, which won her other two starts in :57 1-5 for five furlongs, had the fastest time for 2-year-old at that distance, colts included.

Cherry River won the featured $16,000 classified allowance race to score a $6.80 victory. Chios was second and Wodeco third.

All-State jockeys ride in Hollypark Invitational

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — An additional 10 of the nation's top riders, including former U.S. champions Angel Cordero Jr. and Bill Shoemaker, have been invited to take part in a $10,000 all-star jockey race at Hollywood Park June 30.

The jockeys, six from the West and six from the East, will ride in a $20,000 allowance race at a mile and one-sixteenth on mounts determined by draw. The invitational race will be run on the same day as Hollywood park's inaugural of the $100,000 Swaps Stakes for some of the country's top 3-year-olds.

Laffit Pincay Jr., the national money winning champion with over $2 million earned with his mounts, and Sandy Hawley, the leader in races won, already have accepted invitations to ride in the allstar race.

The list as announced by Hollywood Park director of racing F.E. Kilroe Wednesday and the jockeys' earnings as of May 31:

West (Hollywood Park): Shoemaker, $1,203,895; Donald Pierce, $1,159,402; Alvaro Pineda, $883,493; Fernando Toro, $749,213; Steve Valdez, $549,976, and alternate Howard Grant.

TERRY MURPHY
. . . New Walnut coach

Murphy new mentor for Walnut B.B.

WALNUT — From Leduc, Canada to the head baseball job at Walnut High — such is the story of Terry Murphy, the Mustangs' newly appointed diamond mentor.

Murphy was named Wednesday by Walnut High principal Jack Ingram to succeed outgoing Hank Johnson at the helm of the Mustang varsity baseball fortunes.

A native of Leduc, Canada (population — around 3,000), Murphy played hockey during his schoolboy days with the likes of National Hockey League star Eddie Joyal.

But his father was a baseball fan, and Murphy played on his father's team which won the provincial championship of Alberta when the younger Murphy was 16.

From Canada, Murphy came to the U.S. in 1961 and attended Lennox High in Hawthorne his senior year. From Lennox, he entered Cal Poly Pomona and spent four years playing baseball under coach John Scolinos.

"My father influenced me to go into coaching," recalls Murphy, "while Scolinos taught me about the skills of baseball and how to teach them to someone else."

Graduating in 1967 from Cal Poly, Murphy entered coaching at Suzanne School in Walnut on the 7th and 8th grade levels. He also helped out for a couple of summers coaching the now-defunct Pomona Kings Connie Mack team.

In 1970 Murphy became the junior varsity coach at Walnut High.

In four years at that position, Murphy won two Hacienda League J.V. championships.

That showing, plus his success coaching summer baseball, got him the job at Walnut, according to principal Ingram.

Murphy, currently coaching the Walnut Thorobred baseball squad, is already looking forward to his new job.

"I think we will have a good group of kids back for 1975," he said, "and we should be very competitive in a couple of years with a good group of 14-year-olds coming up."

Earl Anthony builds lead in tourney

By GRAHAM CROW
P-B Correspondent

DOWNEY — While most were complaining about the challenging scoring conditions, Earl Anthony kept going about his business of playing a game and increased his lead even farther in the $75,000 Brunswick PBA National Championship at Wonderbowl Downey.

The field of 192 was trimmed after Wednesday's third round of eight games to the leading 54 bowlers with Anthony holding a commanding 214 pin lead.

The Tacoma, Wash., lefthander, once a member of the Baltimore Orioles organization, was averaging over 224 when the first cut was made. This is almost 10 pins a game ahead of second place Gary Mage.

Tye Critchlow, Claremont, was the only local to survive the cut, and thus assured himself of a paycheck. The former PBA Rookie of the Year is in 43rd with a 4826 total. It took 4797 to make the top 54.

Bob Fenton and Greg Baderdeen, both failed by 80 pins to make today's semi-final round of eight games. Tonight, the field will be trimmed to the leading 24 for the head-to-head finals.

Wednesday's scoring was highlighted by a 289 game from Tokyo's Junichi Yajima. This marked the high game of the tourney which has been dominated by lefties thus far. The leading trio are all southpaws with six of the first 12 being lefthanded.

Fleming, Vallandingham hurl five-hit gem for Walnut

The Walnut Thorobreds edged La Verne Post 330, 1-0, to highlight Wednesday's Valley baseball action.

Bill Fleming and Jim Vallandingham combined for a five-hitter to down La Verne, as Marty Shepherd stole home with the only run of the contest.

In Legion games, Arcadia Post 247 slipped past Claremont Post 78, 8-7; Upland Legion blanked Rialto, 5-0; and Redlands Post 650 nipped Montclair Post 616, 2-1.

The Walnut-La Verne tussle was a battle of pitchers all the way, as the Post 330 duo of Bumstead and Gary Zakem surrendered only three hits to the heavy-hitting Reds.

Shepherd opened the first by reaching base on an error by shortstop Bruce McNaught. He stole second, went to third on an infield out, and then stole home off Bumstead for the run which proved to be the difference.

Jim Vallandingham, with four innings of scoreless relief, got the win for Walnut. Reliever Gary Zakem looked sharp for Post 330, with four hitless fromes in which he fanned four Reds.

Walnut now holds a 8-1 record with the win, while La Verne is 9-4-1.

Upland's Steve Iles fired a two-hitter as the Upland Legion squad rolled past Rialto 5-0.

Upland, now 4-1 on the season, got a two-run single from John Pignotti and another RBI from Russ Feaster plus two wild pitches for scores, and that was all Iles needed.

The righthander fanned eight and walked two in posting his second Legion win without a loss.

Arcadia scored three times in the seventh and then held off a late Claremont rally for an 8-7 baseball win. Claremont Post 78 has now lost five in a row to give the Cardinals a 6-7 overall mark.

Two walks, a sacrifice fly and Harry Brown's single netted the Cardinals four runs in the ninth, but Arcadia reliever Ken McLain fanned Ken Macleod with the sacks full to end things.

Redlands Post 650 scored twice in the second and made it standup for a 2-1 win over Montclair.

Bruce Richardson pitched a seven-hitter but a key triple in the second by Manuel Ramos set up the two Redlands scores.

Montclair, now 3-3 on the season, will play Upland Legion Friday at Upland's Memorial Park, starting at 8 p.m.

UCLA seeks fourth NCAA track crown

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The record seems almost unattainable, but in the words of UCLA track coach Jim Bush, "You never know."

The string of UCLA basketball championships has stopped at seven but the Bruins still have their track supremacy going. Bush and his club will try to make it four NCAA titles in a row beginning today in the 53rd annual track and field championships.

"I don't think there is any way I could ever match Coach (John) Wooden's seven basketball championships in a row," Bush said on the eve of the first big qualifying day at the University of Texas' Memorial Stadium. "But it could happen. We are going to do our very best to win our fourth straight."

Qualifying was set today in all but two events following Wednesday night's finale in the decathlon.

Runald Bachman of Brigham Young won the decathlon with a meet record 7,874 points.

"I was just happy to compete the last two days," Bachman said after defeating last year's runnerup, Roger George of Fresno State, by only 35 points. "I've lost three pounds during the last two days. I'm getting ready to eat a big meal and rest. I haven't had a good meal the last two days."

Bush's Bruins are in quest of their fourth straight title against such competition as Tennessee, Brigham Young, and Texas-El Paso.

Sun cuts 32 more players

FULLERTON, Calif. (UPI) — Tom Fears wanted to get back into pro football as a head coach but he wasn't expecting to have to look at 143 players during the first week of training camp.

"That's far too many players to have in camp and I never want to go through anything like this again," said the coach of the Southern California Sun of the World Football League.

The Sun cut 32 players Wednesday, including Nebraska quarterback Steve Runty and former Southern California linebacker Ray Rodriquez.

But the team staff still has a way to go.

"One year when I was on the staff at Green Bay, we came to camp with 52 players," Fears said.

ATLANTA WALKER CUP golfer Jim Gabrielson kept American hopes alive in the British Amateur Golf Championship today, but former Wimbledon tennis champion Bob Falkenburg reached the end of the title trail. Gabrielson, the main U.S. hope after the second round defeat of defending champion Dick Siderowf, beat O. Gordon Brewer of Huntington, Pa., 3 and 2, to win a place in the last 16.

Top choice likes chance with Padres

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bill Almon likes the way the San Diego Padres operate.

It's sort of like going to work for your old man—you start at the top and work your way down.

Almon, a 21-year-old shortstop from Brown University, was the first choice in Wednesday's free agent draft and said he would be willing to follow in the footsteps of his predecessors with the Padres and start out in the major leagues.

"I'd like to start out in the majors," Almon said from his Warwick, R.I. home. "But maybe it would be better to play the summer in the minor leagues and maybe come up to the big club in September and spend a month there."

The Padres' past two No. 1 picks in the summer draft, Dave Roberts and Dave Winfield, have jumped directly from college ball to the majors.

But San Diego probably will abandon that precedent and send Almon to a farm club for experience. The Padres have been after Almon since they drafted him out of high school and the college junior indicated he would sign with San Diego as long as the money offer is right.

Asked what constitutes the right price, Almon said, "I don't know, but I'm not going to cheat myself."

The second pick in the baseball draft, high school pitcher Tommy Boggs, also has a tough act to follow, David Clyde.

After lassoing the Lone Star phenom last year, the Texas Rangers picked the Austin native as their first pick and he immediately signed a contract. Again, though, Boggs is not expected to debut in the major leagues.

The general consensus is Boggs has as much potential as Clyde but, as a Ranger spokesman said, "Boggs isn't as refined as Clyde."

The biggest gamble in the first-round was taken by Kansas City, which selected outfielder Willie Wilson. The Summit, N.J., high schooler possesses extraordinary athletic abilities, but in other sports as well as baseball. So the Royals must convince Wilson, an AllAmerica running back, to forego a football scholarship at Maryland for baseball. But the challenge is not a new one to the Royals.

Last year's No. 1 pick was Lew Olson, who had a football scholarship for Stanford, and the previous year, it was Jamie Quirk, who was headed for Notre Dame.

The word at the draft Wednesday was that Wilson probably would stick with football but a Royal spokesman said one of the team's scouts had talked informally with him and indicated the chances of signing Wilson were "about 50-50."

Also selected in the first round was South Carolina shortstop Eddie Ford, the son of New York Yankees' pitching coach and Hall of Famer Whitey Ford, taken by Boston. San Diego also picked Bump Wills, son of former Los Angeles base-stealing whiz Maury Wills. The younger Wills, taken on the 12th round, played infield and outfield at Arizona State.

Also, John Sciarra, UCLA's starting quarterback, was selected by Baltimore.

Of the 24 first round choices made in each of the semiannual free agent drafts, one chief scout said less than half make it to the major leagues.

Big crowds turn on Gene Tenace

By United Press International

Crowds always did have a way of turning on Gene Tenace.

An obscure second-string catcher with the Oakland A's in 1972, Tenace rose to the occasion in the World Series when he batted .348, hit four homers and knocked in nine runs.

It's the same in 1974 when Tenace is the A's' regular first baseman and probably in the $70,000 salary class. He likes to see those people in the stands— and unfortunately for the Detroit Tigers Wednesday night, Gene doesn't see too many of them in Oakland.

"We're entertainers and when you see a big crowd it makes you want to do your best," said Tenace after hitting the third grand slam homer of his career in the A's' 9-1 victory over the Tigers. "I hate to keep ripping the Oakland fans but there we play to 3,000 and here we play to big crowds.

"I like to hit in the Detroit park. It's got a nice background, nice atmosphere and it's nice to come here and see all the fans."

The crowd of 18,341 saw Tenace hit his grand slam off reliever Dave Lemanzcyk, boosting the A's' margin to 8-1 in the fifth inning. Deron Johnson also homered in the seventh as Vida Blue gained his fifth win with the eighth and ninth inning relief help of Roland Fingers and Darold Knowles.

Cleveland defeated Texas 9-3, Baltimore edged Kansas City 5-4, Boston topped Minnesota 5-3, California edged Milwaukee 6-5 and Chicago scored a 7-6 15-inning triumph over New York in other American League games.

National League scores were St. Louis 4 San Francisco 1, Philadelphia 4 Atlanta 2, Montreal 8 Houston 3, San Diego 4 Chicago 3 and Los Angeles 3 Pittsburgh 2.

Blue allowed four hits, including Willie Horton's 13th homer, before retiring with a groin ailment after the seventh inning and raised his record to 5-5. Joe Coleman suffered his fifth straight loss and is now 6-6.

Indians 9, Rangers 3

Oscar Gamble and Dave Duncan hit three-run homers in a seven-run sixth-inning outburst which paced Bob Johnson to his third win. Charlie Spikes, George Hendrick and Frank Duffy also homered for the Indians while Jim Spencer connected for the Rangers. There were no incidents in the Cleveland park where riotous fans caused Tuesday night's game to be forfeited to the Rangers.

Orioles 5, Royals 4

Mark Belanger's two-out double climaxed a three-run ninth inning rally which enabled the Orioles to beat the Royals. Doug Bird yielded the game-winning hit after the Orioles tied the score on three walks, Brooks Robinson's single and Elrod Hendricks' sacrifice fly. Bob Reynolds, who shut out the Royals in the last two innings, won his fourth game. Jim Wohlford homered for Kansas City.

Red Sox 5, Twins 3

Luis Tiant allowed 10 hits but went the distance for his fifth straight victory and seventh of the season behind an 11-hit Boston attack which included Tommy Harper's second homer of the year. Run-scoring singles by Rico Petrocelli and Carlton Fisk gave the Red Sox a 2-1 lead in the fourth inning and they never trailed thereafter. Dave Goltz suffered the loss.

White Sox 7, Yankees 6

Jorge Orta doubled home Dick Allen, who opened the 15th inning with a single, giving the White Sox' Terry Forster his third win for seven innings of five-hit, one-run pitching. The Yankees tied the four hour, 10-minute game in the ninth when Bobby Murcer singled home Elliott Maddox. Cecil Upshaw lost his third straight game for the Yankees.

Cards 4, Giants 1

Reggie Smith continued his hot hitting as he drove in two runs with a double and a sacrifice fly. Lou Brock rapped out three hits and stole two bases for the Cards. Sonny Siebert hiked his record to a 6-3 with the win but Ron Bryant, a 24-game winner last year unable to get on the right track this year, lost his fifth game in seven decisions.

Phils 4, Braves 2

Mike Schmidt powered a three-run homer and Bob Boone contributed a solo shot to drive in all of Philadelphia's runs as the Phillies retained first place in the Eastern Division by beating the Braves.

Expos 8, Astros 3

NEW YORK (UPI) — Not that they actually were worried, but for the first time the Miami Three—Larry Csonka, Jim Kiick and Paul Warfield— got to see the color of the World Football League's money the other day.

The WFL's money is the same color as the NFL's, a nice cool green.

In this case, it came to one million bucks, cash on the barrelhead.

This represented the first installment on that bulky $5 million-plus package it took to get the three Miami players to jump from the NFL to the WFL. The money was paid by the Memphis Southmen, known as the Toronto Northmen until only a short time ago, and spread out among Csonka, Kiick and Warfield.

"It didn't make me feel rich," said Kiick, the Dolphins' 27-year-old running back. "I never got to see the money. It went right to Mark McCormack (the agency handling the three players' finances) and what made me feel good was talking to the investment counselors and listening to the way the money was being invested."

Jim Kiick put in seven years with the Dolphins and is one of their more versatile backs. He was the one they called on for the short yardage. But he finds he has become much more of a celebrity since he decided to go over to the other league along with Csonka and Warfield beginning in 1975. He is questioned a lot more by people than he was in the past and he is sought more for appearances.

Kiick finished competing in the Dewar's Sports Celebrity Tennis championship in Las Vegas Tuesday and enjoyed meeting all the others who participated. His doubles' partner was miler Jim Ryun, with whom he spoke at length. He also had a long conversation with another of the competitors, Walt Frazier of the New York Knicks.

Talked about people

"We talked about everything, basketball, football, people," Kiick said. "I really enjoyed meeting and getting to know Walt Frazier. He's quite an individual."

Kiick had no desire whatsoever to go out and indulge himself after signing with the new league. His share alone came to around a million. Some people keep asking him what he did with the money and his answer is always the same —nothing really.

"I don't need any yachts," he says. "We fixed up the house a little bit. We got some furniture we needed."

Csonka has spoken with Miami Coach Don Shula since his signing, several times, in fact, but Kiick has not. This isn't anything intentional on Kiick's part. It has merely worked out that way.

"Csonka has a good relationship with Shula," Kiick says. "Mine is like a business relationship more or less. Don't get me wrong. I get along with Shula all right. And there isn't any doubt in my mind we'll have a good team this year. I'd rather leave the Miami people being sorry than bitter, and I think by winning a third Super Bowl championship they'll feel that way. I don't want the people to say 'the reason we didn't go to a third Super Bowl was because of those three.'"

Still, Kiick knows that he, Csonka and Warfield are bound to hear from the fans negatively from time to time.

"We expect that," he says. "If I fumble, Larry fumbles or Paul drops one, we know we're going to hear something. That's only natural. In our first home exhibition game last season, against Cincinnati, I think it was, we were behind in the first quarter and some fan yelled, 'you guys oughtta turn back your rings—you're no good!' You know how that goes. You can run the ball and make 100 yards every game, then go one game in which you make only 20 or 30 yards and people will get on you. That's just the way it is. People are people."

John Watson seeks big win in Saturday's Los Al Derby

LOS ALAMITOS — John Watson waited a long time before he rode home on a big winner — like about 10 years. But when he did it came in the biggest quarter horse race of them all, the All American Futurity.

Since scoring his impressive win on Timeto Thinkrich in last year's All American, however, Watson has been turning up in stakes race winner's circles on a regular basis — usually on the same horse.

Saturday night the veteran jockey will be after yet another 'big' win when he pilots Timeto Thinkrich in the $86,100 Los Alamitos Derby at the Orange County track.

Last Friday Watson guided the Vessels' Stallion Farm colorbearer to a division victory in the Derby trials and, although his qualifying time wasn't the fastest, they're regarded as the favorites for the 21st running Saturday night.

The Watson-Timeto Thinkrich combination is just off a victory in the Golden State Derby at Bay Meadows this spring but isn't eligible to capture the California triple crown because they didn't compete in the first leg — the El Primero Del Ano Derby — in January. A win Saturday, however, would make it two out of three.

That Watson is the 'black horse's' regular jockey is, perhaps, part chance. The 29-year-old rider was just returning from an injury when trainer Jerry Fisher put him aboard Frank Vessels' pride for the Los Ninos at Los Al last summer.

"It was a matter of being in the right place at the right time," Watson explained.

It was all up after that win. Watson, whose biggest previous victory was a consolation race at Los Alamitos, went on to ride Timeto Thinkrich in the All American last September —the dream victory in the quarter horse world.

"That's something you just hear about when you get into this business," Watson grinned. "Just getting into it is a thrill and to win it. . ."

The horse became the top 2-year-old in the nation in 1973 and is the biggest money winner in the industry's history.

Timeto Thinkrich has already put $450,196 in the bank and a win Saturday would push him near the half million mark in just over a year of racing.

When asked the obvious question — is the black horse his favorite ride? — the ear-to-ear smile that breaks out on Watson's slightly mustachioed face is answer enough.

"The horse has been trained super good by Jerry Fisher and he just likes to run," Watson said explaining the reason for the tremendous success they've both enjoyed.

Although the 29-year old jockey has played a significant role in making the 3-year-old the richest quarter horse ever — he's been aboard for eight of the colt's nine career wins — other trainers haven't exactly been beating the door down to get John Watson in their saddles. But, even if the build-a-better-mouse-trap syndrome isn't working, he's more than satisfied to be Timeto Thinkrich's regular pilot.

Irvine wins NCAA title

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Gary Wheelock scattered five hits and his teammates exploded for two six-run innings Wednesday night to lead California-Irvine to the NCAA College Division 2 baseball championship with a 14-1 victory over New Orleans.

Wheelock, who went the distance and was named to the College Division All-America Team, was touched for a single run in the first inning. He struck out 12 batters and finished the season with a 17-2 record.

It was the second consecutive College Division 2 crown for Irvine, which wound up with a 48-8 record.

Jeff Malinoff, who was named the All-American first baseman, hit safely four times in the title game and was named tourney's most valuable player. Keith Bridges belted two home runs for Irvine.

Chino L.L. sees gem by Reina

CHINO — A no-hit gem by Al Reina spurred All Cities Fence in Chino American Little League action this past week.

Reina spun his gem in a 6-0 shutout victory over Fashion Carpets. All Cities also beat Hiro International 20-6 earlier in the week to post a 9-1 Chino American loop slate.

Weeks' Roses, in second place with a 7-3 record, kept pace by beating M.K. Smith 3-2 and Ted Miller Hay 11-0.

Charles Lobo gave Reina the suppport he needed in his no-hitter, as he went two-for-two and drove home three runs.

In All Cities' big 20-6 win, Lobo and Eisher had three hits while Reina socked a homer.

Billy Spain starred in Weeks' 11-0 win. Spain fanned 12 in hurling the shutout and also had three hits and two RBIs.

In other Chino American action, Alan Terpstra unloaded a homer and Will Jongsman fired a shutout as Pomona Fence beat Ted Miller Hay 2-0.

Joe Campos fanned 14 and pitched a one-hitter as the Pizza Palace blasted Fashion Carpets 13-0, Campos also knocked a homer in the one-sided win.

Winning pitcher Rick Abilez also helped himself with a home run as he pitched Pizza Palace to a 7-1 win over Pomona Fence.

LA VERNE ACE IN ACTION — John Morris of the Athletics shows his form in a recent La Verne L.L. outing. He hurled a one-hitter earlier in the season.

La Verne opens 2nd half

LA VERNE — The La Verne Little League launched second-half play this past week, with the Tigers and Yankees taking an early advantage.

The Tigers posted two wins over the week without tasting defeat, as did the Yanks.

9-7 proved to be the winning score in both Tiger victories. They beat the Cardinals by that score as Dennis Garman had three hits, including a triple. In the Tigers 9-7 win over the Indians, Larry Redman matched Garman's feat as he picked up three safeties.

Troy Tyner had a big week for the Yankees in their two wins.

Tyner socked a home run and two doubles to pace the Yanks to a 7-2 win over the Angels, with teammate Ed Vega also picking up three hits. Ken Quartermain homered for the Angels.

Later in the week the Yankees routed the Athletics 20-2. In that contest Tyner picked up three more hits and three RBIs, while Joe Skahill had three hits for the losers.

The White Sox, winners of the first half with a 9-1 mark, picked up where they left off.

The Sox beat the Cardinals 6-4 behind a standout pitching job by Mike Fox. Fox fanned nine batters in a three-inning mound stint.

In other league news, a Las Vegas Night has been announced for June 22.

Pomona Little League

Pennant races tight

POMONA — Close pennant races seem to be contagious in the Pomona Little Leagues.

The Pomona Northwest loop wound up its first-half play with a three-way tie for the top spot, while the Ted, Greene, Pomona American, Pomona Southwest, and Pomona National L.L.s all are witnessing two-team races for the title.

In Northwest play, Breakfast Optimist, Rod & Gun and Pomona Mold all knotted for the first-half title with identical 7-3 records. Right behind the threesome were the Uptown Lions, who posted a 6-4 record.

The Optimists' Kevin Bevins led his team to its' 7-3 mark, as he paced the Northwest L.L. in first-half play with nine homers. One of Bevins' blasts was a grand slammer.

Jerrell Wilkinson of the Uptown Lions was right behind Bevins in homers, as Wilkinson slugged eight in the fitst 10 league games.

Northwest second-half action started out much the same way last week, as the Angels, Rods & Gun and Pomona Mold all posted wins in the opening round of second-half games.

In Ted Greene L.L. action, Shakeys' Pizza Parlor and the Dukes continue to duel it out for the top spot.

Shakeys won two games the past week to take a 9-1 Ted Greene record, while the Dukes dropped a close game to Olive Vista but came back to down Catron Motors.

Shakey's, getting fine pitching from Brian Turpen and Anthony Mejia, beat P.F.F. 12-4 and Clark Brothers 11-1.

Tim Trahms scattered four hits as Olive Vista upset the Dukes 4-3 in a contest shortened by the curfew.

The Dukes came back to nip Catron Motors 11-10 with some heroics by Greg Newsome.

Newsome blasted a long homer in the game, and then came on in the sixth and final frame to fan the final two Catron batters on six pitches to end a six-run Catron uprising and give the Dukes the win.

Meatcutters Local 439 earned a city playoff berth by nailing down the first-half crown in the Pomona Southwest L.L. The Meatcutters finished with a 9-1 first-half slate, beating out Taco-Lita's 7-3 ledger.

Southwest second-half play began Monday.

In last week's action, Scott Andrez pitched the Meatcutters to an 18-7 win over P.P.A., and they clinched the crown by beating Dial Finance 7-2.

Taco-Lita won two games over the week, beating Dial Finance 17-2 as Ron Campos and Mike Pearson combined for nine RBIs, and shutting out L.S.M. 14-0 behind a two-hitter by Johnny Rodriguez and Pearson.

Arelino Sanchez had a big day for the Pomona Police Association, as he pitched a grand slam homer in P.P.A.'s big 16-0 win over Servisoft.

The Pomona American L.L. is holding a two-team battle between Park Avenue Hospital and Cal Credit.

Park Avenue holds down a perfect 13-0 record at this point, with Cal Credit in second with a 10-3 mark.

Bill Eldridge has paced Park at the plate this year, accounting for seven homers.

Eldridge did his thing again at the expense of Cuna Mutual, bombing a two-run homer in Park's 8-2 win.

Vince Cabrera had a banner day for the Optimists. He pitched his team to an easy 20-1 win over Wayne Manufactoring with a 10-strikeout, one-hit job. Cabrera also accounted for four hits in his turns at bat.

The Pomona Police Association and Gemco have gotten off to a 2-0 second-half starts in the Pomona National L.L. PPA beat McDonalds 10-2 and the Elks 18-1, while Gemco defeated Peich Construction 10-1 and Mautz Flooring 4-2.

Jeff Wisham and Dave Koppelman have paced Gemco to their two wins with five hits apiece in two games. Wisham and Brian Chappel both homered in Gemco's win over Peich.

Steve Wiltse continues to lead Peich. He homered in their loss to Gemco and came back to pitch Peich to a 7-4 win over Antonios, and also contributed three RBIs at the plate.

Exciting play in five local Senior loops

Senior League action picked up considerably in the valley this past week.

The La Verne Senior League opened play, while four Pomona loops swung into full action.

The Dodgers and Lions took an early advantage in La Verne Senior action, both with 2-0 records. Outstanding pitching by the Lions' Bob Alcaraz has paced the Lions in early season play.

Alcaraz turned in a no-hit relief job in the Lions' 4-1 win over the Giants, as teammate Steve Romero drove in two runs. Alcaraz came back to hurl a two-hitter and Doug Paul drove home three Lion runs in their 5-2 win over the Cardinals.

In Ted Greene Senior League contests, the Pomona Breakfast Lions have taken a big lead in early loop play. The Breakfast Lions are 8-0, ahead of second place Olive Vista's 4-1 ledger.

The Lions rallied with four runs in the seventh to beat Faberge 6-4, while later in the week Mike Blaine pitched two-hit ball for six innings as he shut out K&L 14-0. Joey Chapa had two homers and a double in that game for the Lions, while Darrell Keepers has had eight hits in the last four games for the undefeated Ted Greene squad.

Olive Vista has won three straight games to move into second spot with its 4-1 record.

The Optimists remain undefeated as well in Pomona National Senior action, with a perfect 6-0 record.

The Optimists edged Datsun 12-11 on Rene Escobar's clutch triple and came back to beat Gary's Painting 5-2 later in the week.

Reis lost their first game of the year, as Grays' Painting beat them 4-2. Randy Oliveri picked up his third mound win without a loss, with three innings of one-hit ball.

Datsun also sprang an upset, edging Carl's Junior 4-3 with two runs in the seventh.

In Pomona Southwest Senior play, Post 30 has taken a two-game lead over the V.F.W. Post 30 is 6-0, while V.F.W. is 4-2.

Post 30's Tim Quiroza picked up four hits during the week as they beat Youth Sportsman 8-1 and 12-4.

In the 8-1 win, Roosevelt Jett pitched a sterling one-hitter with nine strikeouts.

Louie Cerda fired a one-hitter of his own as V.F.W. blanked Cullums 5-0. V.F.W. came back later in the week to down Cullums again, by a 8-3 score, as Steve Andrews had two hits to give him five in two games against Cullums.

The Pomona American Senior League sports a three-way tie for first between Rod & Gun, Market Spot, and Valley Glass.

Market Spot beat Valley last week 4-3 thanks to Randy Akers grand slam homer and Fred Macias' relief pitching. Steve Warren has paced the Rod & Gun attack with two homers so far this year.

Trout searching for cool climes

ORANGE — Rainbow trout fishermen are having to work a little deeper at Irvine Lake, as warmer surface water temperatures are moving the tout to cooler climes, reports Mrs. Alice Carlson at the late tackle ship.

Most of the trout are being caught in the 20 to 30-foot depths now, either by still fishermen using eggs or cheese, or by trollers using weighted lines or sinker rigs ahead of their lures.

Catches of channel catfish are increasing in Santiago Flats—one of the lake's prime catfishing grounds—and the majority are being recorded via stink bait or blood bait, she says. Small bluegill are hitting at the south end of the lake and bass fishing is fair off Rocky Point, the east side cliffs and in shallow water in the South Fork of the lake.

Weekend catches saw Richard Roberson of Long Beach check in with a 4¼-pound catfish taken on stink bait in Santiago Flats, while Ed Lashok of Norwalk had a catfish limit taken there totalling 11 pounds and 4 ounces. Chuck Paiz and John Barrick of Norwalk had half a dozen catfish and two limits of trout, botalling 21 pounds in the aggregate.

Floyd Dampesy of West Los Angeles had a 3-12 trout limit, Norman Wright of Long Beach took a 4-8 trout limit and Warren Fien of Artesia registered a four-pound trout limit.

Fair trout fishing at Anaheim

ANAHEIM — Fair trout fishing is on tap at Anaheim Lake, reports lake manager John Moore, with anglers fishing deep taking the best catches.

Moore says the North Shore and Pharis Pit areas have been producing some of the best catches, with other good catches coming from the southwest area of the lake. Live nightcrawlers and floating cheese have been the best baits, Moore says.

Helen Smith of Anaheim again had a limit of trout this week, weighing 4½ pounds and taken by trolling Super Duper lures behind Dave Davis flasher rigs. Ed Talor of Anaheim had a trout limit, as did Clyde Seth of Bellflower. A five-pound, four-ounce trout limit was taken by G. Bletheven of Long Beach and Bob Gliszczynsby of Orange registered a four-pound 15-ounce limit.

The California Fish and Game Commission has adopted regulations for 1974-75 that will cut back inland and late deer hunting seasons, add an early bear season and tighten restrictions on taking furbearing animals. The commission action took place recently in Los Angeles.

Mammal and furbearer hunting regulations were adopted following the last of three public hearings on the proposed new rules.

The new regulations for mammals and furbearers will take effect July 1. Resident game bird restrictions, which until this year were adopted with those for mammals and furbearers, will be adopted this year in August.

Inland and late deer hunting seasons will open a week later this year than last in an effort to keep openings from falling during periods of extreme fire danger and to reduce the harvest while deer numbers are declining and habitat is deteriorating

In addition the late season will close a week earlier than in 1973, and the hunt will run five rather than seven weeks. Commissioners decided on the advice of the Department of Fish and Game not to extend the northeastern area season one week and not to move the northwestern boundary of that area from Highway 97 to Highway 5, a proposal that would have given Californians an opportunity to hunt the Oregon - California interstate deer herds.

The commission did, however, extend the season in eastern Tehama County for two weeks by moving the northern boundary of the late deer season area north from Highway 32 to Highway 44. In the south, commissioners removed an area of Los Angeles County north of Highway 138 and west of Highway 99 from the late general season and placed it in the early season region.

Also approved was a Department of Fish and Game recommendation for an early bear season in five northern counties and portions of three others to run from Sept. 21 to Dec. 15. The department said the proposal will enable hunters in that area to take advantage of better weather.

Regulation changes on furbearers will: 1) Extend to the entire state limited and closed seasons on muskrat and beaver; 2) remove bobcats from the list of non game animals that can be taken anytime; 3) outlaw some traps; 4) prohibit the use of non-registered traps for taking furbearers commercially; 5) require the removal of animals from traps daily; and 6) permit the pursuit of bobcats and gray foxes by dogs March 1-July 31, 1975, providing that the pursued animals are neither killed or injured.

Commissioners also adopted a special buck antelope hunt Aug. 24-Sept. 2 in Modoc, Lassen, Shasta and Siskiyou Counties for which 410 permits will be issued by public drawing.

Here is a rundown on the new mammal hunting regulations by species:

Deer—Early season Aug. 3-Sept. 15; limit two bucks, one forked horn or better. Inland season Sept. 28-Oct. 20; limits one buck three points or better in northeastern area; two bucks, 2 points or better in northwestern area; one buck, forked horn or better in balance of area. Late general season Sept. 28-Nov. 3; limit one buck, forked horn or better.

Archery deer—Early season July 6-21; late season Aug. 24-Sept. 15; limits the same as for rifle seasons.

Bear—Early season Sept. 21-Dec. 15 in counties of Lake, Marin, Mendocino, Napa, Solano and portions of Colusa, Humboldt and Yolo Counties; late season Oct. 12-Jan. 1, 1975, in balance of area opened last year; limit one adult bear per season.

Archery bear—Aug. 24-Sept. 15; limits the same as for rifle season.

Wild pigs—Open all year statewide; limit one pig per day, one in possession.

Tree squirrels—Sept. 21-Jan. 31, 1975, in the same areas as last year; Sept. 24-Nov. 24 in Butte County, Aug. 3-Jan. 31, 1975, in counties of Marin, Napa, Solano, Sonoma and that portion of Lassen County outside of Mendocino National Forest. Bag and possession limits four per day.

Archery, falconry tree squirrels—Aug. 17-Sept. 9 in the same areas as last year. Bag and possession limits four per day.

Rabbits—Sept. 1-Jan 31, 1975, for brush, cottontail pigmy rabbits and varying hare in the counties of Imperial, Riverside, San Bernardino, Los Angeles and eastern Kern. In the rest of the state the season runs from July 1 through Jan. 31, 1975. Bag and possession limits are five per day and five in possession.

Jack rabbit season will run from July 1 through Jan. 31, 1975, in the counties of San Bernardino, Los Angeles, Riverside, Imperial and eastern Kern. In the rest of the state jack rabbits may be taken all year. There is no limit in either season area.

In the new regulations the commissioners removed Inyo County from the special area season and placed with the remainder of the Southern California desert state.

ABA boss remains optimistic

NEW YORK (UPI) — American Basketball Association Commissioner Mike Storen has been leading his league in defense ever since the season ended.

Speculative rumors by "informed sources" suggesting the ABA is about to fold, reduce its number of teams and merge with the National Basketball Association, or slim down to eight or less teams for another go-around next season, have appeared periodically in recent weeks.

Storen deals in optimism, to be sure, but he also deals in facts. And the facts dispute the rumors. According to Storen, "we'll be back with at least 10 teams and much more stabilized than ever before."

One fact that superficially supports the rumors is that Carolina Cougars owner Tedd Munchak will not operate a team in North Carolina next season. He has sold All-Star guard Ted McClain to Kentucky, waived high-priced Jim Chones out of the league and told his coach and general manager to "seek employment elsewhere." Those facts add up to the demise of a franchise and would seem to leave the ABA with nine teams. But not so, says Storen.

"Munchak has told me he's not interested in getting out of basketball," Storen said. "Everyone thinks he's pulling up all the roots but I think he'll have a few surprises at the league meeting."

The meeting Storen referred to will be held June 20-21 at Louisville. Storen hopes "all the issues will be settled at that meeting. The Carolina franchise will likely be shifted but I think Munchak will remain."

Storen also said Cougar star Billy Cunningham, rumored to be heading back to the NBA, "will definitely be playing in the ABA next season."

A second fact is that Virginia Squires owner Earl Foreman is now "out of the picture," according to Storen. The ABA recently took over the money-troubled franchise from Foreman, who was forced to deal away several top players to pay his bills, and the league is negotiating with prospective new owners.

A third fact is that the Denver Rockets are no longer a franchise in limbo. Monday they hired Larry Brown and Carl Scheer, both formerly of Carolina, as coach and general manager and the team is set to play in a new building still under construction.

A fourth fact is that several discussions between ABA and NBA officials have not increased the possibility of merger at all. The leagues are as far apart as they were a year ago.

One of the pressing issues Storen wants settled is the status of the San Diego franchise, stradled now in a 3,200-seat gym. Storen said negotiations have progressed between the Conquistadors and Peter Graham, owner of the much larger Sports Arena in San Diego, but if an agreement is not reached by June 21, the league will force the Q's to move, probably to Los Angeles where another building called the Sports Arena may be available.

Probably the biggest thorn in Storen's side, as well as the rest of the league investors, is the difficult situation of Charlie Finley's Memphis Tams. Everyone in the league wants Finley to sell but he has yet to find an offer he can't refuse. It hurts the league most because Finley's tight wallet turns away college draft choices and has rendered the team non-competitive. Nothing that happens at the league meeting, unless it involves a prospective buyer for the Tams, will eliminate that problem.

Certainly all the facts, when added up, reveal a league beset by problems. But nobody, least of all Storen, is pushing the panic button. As he said, "we've got several problems to tackle at the meeting and we'll just have to go over them one by one in a business-like fashion. June 21 is the cutoff date to resolve all the unanswered questions but there's no question in my mind that we'll be operating with a strong league next year."

Big weekend at Caliente

TIJUANA — Thoroughbred racing continues this weekend at Agua Caliente with distance runners taking the spotlight in feature races on both Saturday and Sunday.

Saturday's feature is The Guadalajara, an allowance race for 4-year-olds and upward over a distance of one mile with a purse of $2500 up for grabs.

On Sunday the top route runners will contest The Mazatlan over the mile and one-sixteenth course with a $3000 purse offered.

Post time for both weekend days is 12:30 p.m. with daily double wagering on the second and third races.

Over the past weekend at Caliente, jockey Jesus Munoz was the top rider reaching the winner's circle four times. H. K. "Duke" Wellington continues as the top jockey with 18 wins, but Wilfredo Osuna is closing the gap and is only five notches behind the leader.

Miami (Florida), Texas share No. 1

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Miami of Florida and Texas will enter the College World Series as co-holders of the No. 1 position in the final 1974 baseball ratings released today by the publication Collegiate Baseball.

Arizona, which had held the top ranking all season, fell to seventh place as the Wildcats were upset by Northern Colorado in the District 7 playoffs.

In the power index ratings, Miami and Texas tied with 489 points, a single point ahead of third rated Oklahoma. Miami owns a 48-9 mark while Texas is 52-5.

Southern Illinois was ranked fourth, defending national champion Southern California fifth and Northern Colorado sixth. After Arizona came Seton Hall, South Carolina and Harvard.

In the second 10 were Georgia Southern, Cal State at Los Angeles, Louisiana Tech, Vanderbilt, Pan American, Minnesota, Iowa, Miami of Ohio, Arizona State and Santa Clara.

The college division rankings were led by University of California at Irvine with Valdosta State second, Ohio Northern third, New Haven fourth and New Orleans University fifth.

La Verne College of California was first in the NAIA division ratings, followed by Lewis, Sam Houston State, David Lipscomb and High Point.

L.A. State coach picked

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI) — Larry Cochell of Los Angeles State has been named NCAA district-8 baseball coach of the year.

The announcement was made Wednesday by district chairman Chuck Brayton of Washington State University.

Dave Dryden jumps to Cougars

CHICAGO (UPI) — All-Star goalie Dave Dryden of the Buffalo Sabres jumped from the National Hockey League to the rival World Hockey Association Wednesday when he signed a multi-year contract with the Chicago Cougars.

Cougar President Walter Kaiser, showing Dryden off at a news conference, gave no financial details. Dryden said, "Any hockey player wants security—obviously. I feel I have this with the Cougars."

Pat Stapleton, player-coach of the Cougars, said: "Dave will give us much needed experience in goal and will help our younger players."

Dryden, 32, compiled a 2.97 goals against average for Buffalo last season and was credited with 1,251 saves and a shutout. He had a record of 23-20-8 in 51 games.

Dryden, who was voted most improved player at Buffalo after the 1972-73 season, played on the NHL Western Division All-Star team last season.

Buffalo acquired Drysden, brother of Montreal goaltender Ken Dryden, in 1970 from Pittsburgh. He alternated in the net with Roger Crozier in 1972-73 and saw heavy duty for the Sabres in the 1973-74 season after Crozier became ill.

Indians purchase Lis from Twins

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Cleveland Indians today purchased infielder-outfielder Joe Lis from the Minnesota Twins for an undisclosed amount of cash.

Lis, 27, batted .233 in two seasons with the Twins. His current batting average is .175.

To make room for Lis, utility infielder Dwain Anderson was returned to the Tribe's affiliate in Oklahoma City.

Ogawa fights Casteneda at Olympic tonight

LOS ANGELES — Japan's Yosh Ogawa, a sensation second round knockout winner over Mexico's Valentin Martinez at the Olympic May 23, returns to the Olympic tonight when he takes on another Latin from below the border, Nacho Casteneda.

Ogawa, a flashy slugger who wears Oriental garb into the ring, will enter the fight with a 33-7 record that includes 18 knockouts. By comparison Castenada is 33-8 with 13 knockouts.

Casteneda's two bigest fights have come against world lightweight contender Jimmy Heair. Two years ago he dropped Heair, but came out on the short end of a 10 round decision. Last year at the Olympic Casteneda lost in nine rounds, but the verdict was roundly booed by the fans who felt the fight was stopped without cause.

Ogawa's attack is to warm all over his opponent. Against Martinez he threw punches from all angles, made awkward lurches and had the crowd in an uproar.

Matchmaker Don Chargin hopes to put the winner in with Victor Abraham who decisioned Ogawa five weeks ago in a 10 rounder. In that fight Ogawa hurt both his hands and was unable to throw punches with the velocity he showed against Martinez.

Tonight's first bout gets under way at 8 p.m. with three amateur bouts followed by four professional matches. KCOP (13) will televise the action to 10 p.m. with Jim Healy calling the action.

Transcribers Guild makes presentation

At the annual meeting of the Pomona Valley Transcribers Guild Richard Armour, author of "It All Started With Columbus," was presented a brailled copy of the book by Mrs. Vernon Hayes who did the transcribing into Braille.

Mrs. William Kelber was chairman for the annual event presided over by Mrs. Marshall Mendell.

Four transcribers were honored for their work with the guild. They are Mmes. Robert Melton, E. A. Greenlee, Ronald Coonrod and Eva Haag.

Mr. and Mrs. William Beckley were presented a scroll by the guild in honor of their 50th wedding anniversary which will be observed June 12. The scroll stated that individual members of the guild had made a donation in their honor to the guild for a special project to be decided on by the couple.

During the period of June 1972-73 members of the guild transcribed in braille and large print a total of 26,695 pages, making it possible to add 51 additional pleasure-reading books to the Ontario Public Library special reading section for the visually handicapped.

In addition to the above, 20 books were brailled for students, totaling 17,753 pages. There were 12,395 pages of braille duplicated by the thermoform process to fill requests made by students.

Mrs. L. M. Colwell has completed and mailed 46 brailled Monopoly Games to date. The instructions and game components are put into Braille so that both the blind and the sighted can play at the same time.

A number of text books have been brailled for several college students in the current school year. Included were Russian and Arabic, math and elementary chemistry.

Donations have been received from: Ontario Rotary Club, $500; Price Foundation, $300; John H. Smith of Upland, $50; Hechtman Family, $5; Betty Crocker coupons from Frank Remski, Pat Wheat, Mrs. Leo Hermes and the American Legion Auxiliary, Post 112, and Newman School.

In addition, Ontario Kiwanis presented two battery chargers and 48 batteries and the Ontario Lions gave magnifying glasses and aids for CIM inmates in a program under the direction of Mrs. Kelber.

Ask Dr. Brothers

Bad case of envy

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Dear Dr. Brothers: Something strange has been happening to me the past few years, that is, my friends are beginning to drop me. My husband says it's because I'm so darned rude and unfriendly to many of my old group. I know this is true, but I can't seem to help myself. It's as if everyone I know is more successful at their marriage, their hobbies, their work, and with their families than I am, and on top of all that, they're happier and more attractive. It just makes me mad to hear that they're going to a vacation place I've always wanted to see, or that they find time to take up a hobby that's always interested me.

I know the old saying that the grass always looks greener on the other side, but in most cases it not only looks greener, it is greener. I never had the greatest disposition in the world and so I guess I find everyone else's good fortune hard to take. I let them know this by being mean and kind of chipping away at what I think is wrong with them. So, the problem is I know I am like this and I don't want to be, but there's not much I seem to be able to do about it.—M.W.

Dear M.W.: Poeple who suffer from a bad case of envy are usually stuck in cement themselves and this makes them unhappy and angry. Instead of doing something about themselves, however, they attack their friends who have no imprisoned themselves.

Also, whenever we are with our friends, especially at parties, we usually see and hear about the positive aspects of their lives. Generally, people prefer not to tell you how unhappy they are or to dwell on their shortcomings or family problems.

Instead of insulting and attacking your friends, try congratulating them for doing something you've always wanted to do. Try to pick up some tips from them on how they manage and you may learn something you can apply in your own life.

Try to make some positive plans for your future. Set goals that interest you. Begin a self-improvement program aimed at developing your talents so you can utilize whatever abilities you have. Find one thing you do well and plan other activities that interest you, and you will suddenly find that instead of being envious, you will actually be interested in comparing experiences with your friends and sharing their pleasures.

Envy usually stems from making irrational comparisons between others' achievements and our own. Take inventory of yourself and include all the positive factors as well as the negative ones. Try to change what you don't like about yourself but base these changes on your own talents and characteristics, not on those of others.

Instead of trying to compete with others, concentrate on your own attributes and develop them. Self-contentment is one of the best weapons against envy. Remember that when you envy a friend or neighbor, you're only looking at the positive things; the chances are you're completely overlooking the disadvantages. The more you know about a situation, the less you will find yourself in a position of being envious.

One of the reasons so many people suffer from envy, according to psychiatrist, Dr. Norman Zinberg, is that Americans have a poor capacity for accepting differences and this inability leads to envy. You are not the same as your friends; they have problems as well as abilities that are probably quite different from yours. This is what makes life interesting, so try to enjoy it.

Woman Achiever awards

Nomination now open

The Progress-Bulletin will repeat its Woman Achiever Awards program this summer as part of the Womens Department special club edition to be published July 23.

The awards program was originated in 1966 when Pomona Valley residents had an opportunity to nominate outstanding women for service to their community. This year four women will be named in the special edition and tribute will be paid them for their contributions of time and service to their community at a luncheon later in July.

The nomination blanks must be returned to the Women's Department of the newspaper not later than June 12.

Fact sheets for club inclusion in the annual Pomona Valley Women edition have also been sent to the president or publicity chairman of every club listed with the Women's Department. The deadline for return of the club forms is June 21.

Additional Woman Achiever forms for nominating persons may be obtained at the cashier's desk in the lobby of the Progress-Bulletin.

FOR 600 HOURS — Mrs. George Chalfant, right, chairman of Recording for the Blind, presents certificates for 600 hours of service to Mrs. Elda Whitelaw and Peter J. O'Loughlin at recognition tea.

Recording for the Blind

Volunteers recognized

One hundred volunteers spent 5,000 hours during the past year taping books at the Pomona Valley Unit, Recording for the Blind.

According to Mrs. Rose Kelber, the outgoing chairman, this resulted in the completion of 111 books, requiring 948 tapes, for blind students and others using the service of the national organization.

Last month, the center had an 18 per cent increase in production, Mrs. Kelber reported.

The Pomona Valley Unit was established in 1957 as a branch of the Los Angeles unit. It moved the unit into McAlister Center of the Claremont Colleges in 1959 and was designated an independent branch in 1963.

During the five years that Mrs. Kelber was chairman of the unit, it was completely refurbished and new equipment added.

Mrs. George Chalfant, the incoming chairman, presented an arrangement of five yellow roses to Mrs. Kelber at the annual recognition tea held recently in McAlister Center.

Outstanding among the volunteers honored at the tea were Elda Whitelaw and Peter J. O'Loughlin, for 600 hours each; Helen Guldin and E. G. Waterhouse, 500 hours; and Helen Coonrod and Dorothy Downs, 400 hours.

Presented cetificates for 300 hours of volunteer service were Rose Kelber, Gloria Price, Dorothy P. Robinson, Jean Shumway and Josephine Smith.

Two hundred hour certificates were given to Edith Adams, Elizabeth Baber, Willard E. Baier, Rosemary Bovard, Carol Bucey, JoAnne Chalfant, Rebecca Cross, Beth Dens, Mary A. Laird, Ruth Pilling, Milla Rojansky, Grace Salsbury, Madeline Shibe, Dwight Smith, Hazel Snoke, Marjorie Stoddard, Thelma Stubblebine, Gertrude Tuttle and Betty Wells.

Those honored for 100 hours of service were Joan Casanova, Francis Cooper, Angela Creek, Ilene Feirman, Janette Fifer, Mary Gray, Dolly Heathman, Maxine Holliday, Alice Macrae, Geoffrey Mellor and Mari Sommerville.

New officers for the Pomona Valley Unit of Recording for the Blind are Mrs. Chalfant, chairman; Mrs. A. E. Stoddard, vice chairman; E. G. Waterhouse, treasurer; Mrs. Walker W. Downs, secretary.

Board members are A.D. Bachtel, Mrs. Ray Baber, Willard E. Baier, Mrs. Freeman C. Bovard, Mrs. Angelyn Creek, Mrs. Sidney Davidson, Mrs. Dwight Enberg, Mrs. La Vere Flora, Mrs. Stephen Glass, Mrs. William J. Kelber, Mrs. D. W. Maher, Mrs. Daniel B. Milliken, Peter J. O'Loughlin, Mrs. F. W. Riddington, Mrs. Vladimar Rojansky, Mrs. Barbara Sargent, Olof E. Snyder, George L. Rynn, Miss Mari Sommerville, the Rev. J. Gordon Verplank, Mrs. Warren Wass, and Mrs. Robert Cummer, adviser.

Members of the advisory board are Dr. John Gleason, Dr. Werner Marti and Harrison Stephens.

Man shot dead as he points gun at police in station

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — William A. Norman, 45, walked into a police station recently and pointed a pistol at officers, who killed him with a fusillade of shots.

Norman's gun turned out to be a gas-powered pellet pistol, a realistic imitation of an old fashioned frontier type .44 revolver, police said.

Norman's mother told police he had been under psychiatric care.

Police said he entered the station unnoticed, slipping through a usually locked rear door behind a vending machine service man who had a key. He walked through the door of the report room, pointed his pistol at Patrolman Carlos Vidal, 25, and said "Okay, here I am."

Vidal and Sgts. Robert Kimball, 28, and Byron Lay, 31, grabbed for their service revolvers and opened fire, shooting Norman several times.

U.S. puts bicycle in new spotlight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The bicycle has been blessed by Transportation Secretary Claude S. Brinegar as "a serious mode of transportation."

Citing the bicycle as "an energy-efficient, nonpolluting, low cost transportation vehicle" in a recent department report, Brinegar asked the Federal Highway Administration to increase its research on bicycle design and encouraged its consideration of the two-wheeler as a transportation vehicle in its planning and construction of highways.

Brinegar also noted as a result of the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1973, states may participate by building bikeways in coordination with highway projects.

Midwest stores pinching pennies

CHICAGO (UPI) — The demand for pennies has reached crisis proportions in portions of the Midwest, according to a spokesman for the Federal Reserve Bank in Chicago.

The Reserve Bank of Chicago serves federally controlled banks in most of Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin and all of Iowa.

The demand for pennies was so high last week that some storekeepers stopped giving pennies in change, instead they rounded to the nearest nickel.

Bill may result in metric road signs

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Road signs reading "Speed limit—88 kilometers per hour-55 mph" could result from legislation approved recently by the Senate Transportation Committee.

The bill ((AB2818) by Assemblyman Howard Berman, D-Beverly Hills, was sent to the Senate floor on a 5-0 vote. There was no opposition.

It would permit cities and counties to post dual speed limit and mileage traffic signs in both metric and conventional measurements.

Roth will sue KNBC for cutting him off

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate William Matson Roth said that he would sue KNBC-TV for $30,000 for cutting short his one-minute paid announcement following Saturday's News Conference show.

Roth said he had purchased the one-minute commercial because KNBC had refused to include him on the show, featuring leading gubernatorial contenders Joseph Alioto, Edmund Brown Jr. and Bob Moretti.

Roth said the station refused to sell him more than one minute, and then the spot was interrupted after 28 seconds due to what a station official called a "technical error."

"Hundreds of thousands of voters were watching the broadcast and would have seen and heard me," Roth said. "There is no way the same audience and voter interest can be duplicated."

U.S., Saudi Arabia map co-op sessions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and Saudi Arabia this week began high level discussions on ways to increase cooperation between the two countries in economics, technology, industry and the supply of arms for the oil-rich kingdom.

The State Department announced Monday that Prince Faisl Bin Abd-Al-Aziz, Saudi Arabian minister of interior, and a group of economic officials are scheduled to arrive Wednesday for talks Thursday and Friday with President Nixon, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, Defense Secretary James Schlesinger and other U.S. officials.

U.S. plans to pull 60 combat planes

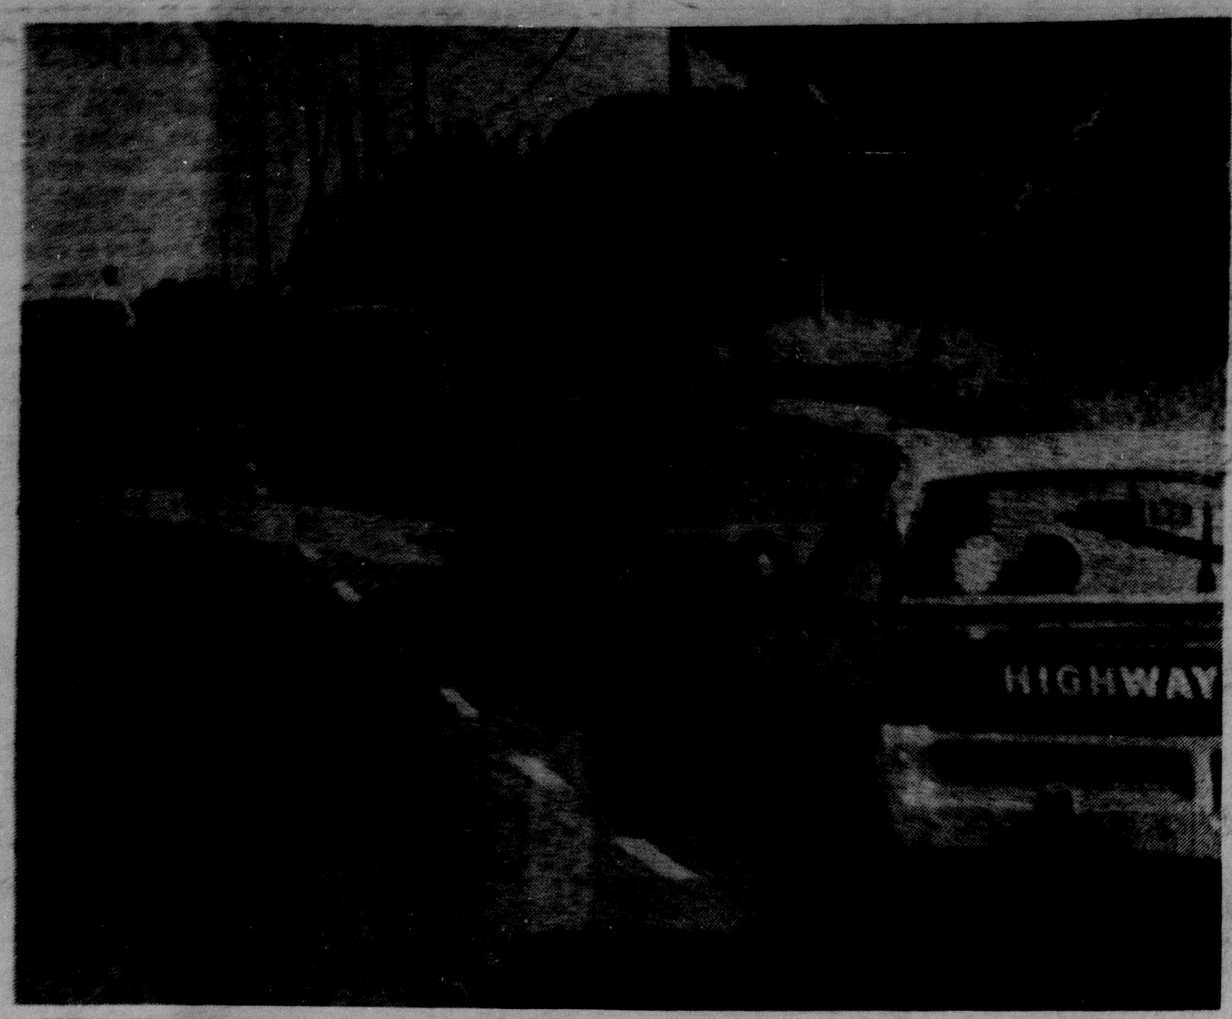

BANGKOK (UPI) — The United States plans to withdraw 60 more combat planes, including nine more B52 strategic bombers in June, in line with plans to reduce forces in Thailand by about one-third, a U.S. military spokesman said recently.

In addition to the nine B52s, the spokesman said, 51 F4 Phantom fighter-bombers and support aircraft would be withdrawn from four of the six major airbases the United States maintains in Thailand.

Final busway link will open Monday

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The final stretch of the El Monte to Los Angeles busway, the multimillion dollar San Bernardino Freeway experimental project, will go into operation next Monday.

The 3.5-mile stretch is expected to cut at least four minutes off the regular commuter time. Authorities said the busway's first 7.4-mile lane has already trimmed some 15 minutes off the 40-to 45-minute peak hour travel time between the two cities.

BUT WHERE DO I PARK? — California Highway Patrol cars escort a Midget Mustang along a road back to a Sacramento area airport after the small plane made an emergency landing on the U.S. Highway 50 freeway, Saturday. The pilot made the freeway landing after the engine began sputtering. Repairs were made and with the aid of Highway Patrolmen, the pilot taxied about 10 miles back to the airport.

Over whales

Group urging Soviet, Japan goods boycott

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — The Animal Welfare Institute of this landlocked city says Russian and Japanese goods should be boycotted until the two countries —which are exhibiting at the Expo '74 environmental fair —stop killing whales.

"The Japanese and Russians are guilty of blatant hypocrisy in their Expo '74 exhibitions," the institute said recently in a half-page advertisement in a local paper.

"They piously claim to be supreme environmentalists, to be lovers of nature. But they are raping Mother Nature, particularly in the oceans where the remaining whale stocks and fisheries are being systematically wiped out by the huge Japanese and Soviet fleets."

The group said the Japanese killed nearly 15,000 whales in 1963.

A March to Save the Whales is also planned by local high school students and area citizens.

No shortage of suggestions

Crisis energizes inventors

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — At this moment people everywhere are devising thingamabobs, or fashioning whatchamacallits, and even building doohickies which may help solve the energy crisis.

The question is, what are they to do with their whatsits?

Many of them are sending their plans via post to the Federal Energy Office. Spokeswoman Marion Olson says that agency is receiving up to 2,000 letters a day from citizens who are certain theirs is the idea or the gadget that will keep the nation humming.

Some of the inspirations, of course, are purely fuelish. One fellow says he can dry buffalo chips which will burn for hours. Another wants to put governors on thermostats, forcing them to remain at 60 degrees, "that way even 68 will seem warm after awhile." A third lady modestly suggests that "everyone should go to the bathroom in the dark — leave the door slightly ajar, especially when there is no one else in the house."

But other recommendations and inventions are more thoughtful. Mrs. Olson says that a company in Texas has reported its new method for recovering secondary oil. Another man says he's discovered a blend of hydrogen and water which can replace hydraulic fluid. A fellow in Virginia has written to advise of his thought to use coal for lawn mowers. And then there is the chap who insists he can use the laser beam principle to create limitless steam.

Yet whatever the worth of the individual suggestions, most of them, even the good ones, seem destined for oblivion. Mrs. Olson says the FEO does what it can with the offerings: "We try to send them out to the appropriate agencies; if it's a carburetor idea, for example, we send it to the Department of Transportation." However, she admits this is often more bureaucratic flim flam. A DOT spokesman, for instance, says when he gets ideas from the public concerning energy he seds them to the FEO.

The truth is the government of 213 million people simply does not have an efficient system for investigating the visionary contributions of that mass. Letters to federal agencies are received almost as nuisances — "You should read some of these dumb things," says an FEO worker whose job it is to read them. The letters are politely answered, but no encouragement is usually given. Says Mrs. Olson: "We send them a form reply."

Nor is there much encouragement from the one governmental agency that is set up to handle citizen ideas. The stodgy U.S. Patent Office operates so cumbersome a system that applications are best handled by attorneys and the average time of acceptance or rejection is 23 months. Its spokesman, Isaac Fleichman, is a firm believer in the wonderful inventiveness of the common man — "21 per cent of the 1,500 patents granted daily are to individuals" — yet he admits the patent road is on an uphill climb:

"We don't give patents for ideas. We have to have a carefully detailed and thoroughly researched package. Also, we aren't a marketing organization. All we do is advise a man if he has a unique concept — it's up to him to find somebody to buy it."

So even if a concept is recognized there is no assurance the world will find a use for it. In fact, there are alleged to be forces at work that in some cases discourage the world from trying to find a use for it. A man on Staten Island has recently built the perfect environmental and energy-conserving airplane, a ship that powers itself by flapping wings, yet is Booeing knocking on his door? Boeing is not. Even if the ornithopter machine were practical, jet-age technologists do not fancy the idea of retooling to sell a two-bit whichamajigger built like a bird.

Thus it is that big industry does not always appreciate citizen inventiveness, and often thoroughly discourages it. Carburetor inventors have for years complained that automobile manufacturers have ignored the thought of a more efficient gas-oxygen mixer. "If a company is selling all the mousetraps it can make," says a patent attorney, "why should it buy a better one?"

A New York State environmentalist, for example, has recently built and tested a better mousetrap for catching noxious emissions in the standard automobile. Dr. William Balgord has equipped a 1972 car with a dual-bed catalyst system which he claims, after 25,000 miles of driving, meets 1976 emission controls and also saves 20 to 40 per cent in fuel consumption. Yet auto companies which have examined the gadget have rejected it and so it is likely his idea will go the way of so many others: nowhere.

And that's a shame. The Patent Office's Fleichman believes that given the chance, the fertile imaginations of Americans can solve almost any problem. He says the Patent Office, for one, is beginning to recognize this as concerns the energy crisis and is currently giving priority handling (applicants will be processed in eight months rather than 23) to energy-oriented inventors. The rest of government would do well to follow suit. What is needed is a federal clearing house, a U.S. suggestion box.

For as Mrs. Olson of the FEO puts it: "I believe if we took all the suggestions that come in, and acted on them, the government could get rid of all the people it hires to come up with such ideas."

Bank planning big computer center in S.F.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Construction will begin early next year on a $100 million Bank of America computer center in San Francisco which will be the world's sixth-largest office building, the bank has announced.

The building will have more floor space than the Empire State Building in New York and will be two-thirds as large as the Pentagon.

It will serve as the data bank for 500 Bank of America branches in Northern California, and will employ about 8,000 persons.

Bank officials said the building, still in the design stage, will have 2.5 million square feet of floor space. Its height has not yet been set by the architects.

The bank said that besides the Pentagon, the building would rank in size behind the World Trade Center and Pan American Building in New York, and the Sears Tower and Merchandise Mart in Chicago.

It will cover a full block on San Francisco's Market Street.

Northwestern European waters hold oil hopes

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — The waters of northwestern Europe could prove to be the most productive petroleum resource region in the years ahead, outside the Middle East, the Oil and Gas Journal said in today's edition.

The industry publication said while oil and gas operators are busy converting prolific fields in the North Sea into big time producers, adjacent waters were revealing someday they also might have reserves fertile enough to help supply the world's petroleum markets.

More than 300 oil companies have a direct interest in obtaining United Kingdom licenses to explore and drill in the north seas, the article said. About 50 rigs were expected to be drilling in all parts of the sea by late summer.

The world's newest oil-producing country could be Sweden, with its good show of oil on Gotland Island in the Baltic Sea, the Journal reported. The oil found in strata only 1,040 feet deep was described as high quality and low in sulphur.

Shell Oil Co. announced in April it had an oil show in a well drilled in 500-foot waters of the Atlantic Ocean west of the Shetland Islands, 150 miles northeast of Scotland.

Marathon International Petroleum has discovered a commercial gas field in the Celtic Sea off Ireland's southeast coast.

The journal said although there was no actual oil from the Shell well and the Marathon Field was small by North Sea standards, the activity indicated the northwestern European waters were slowly developing into the world's most promising source of oil and gas reserves.

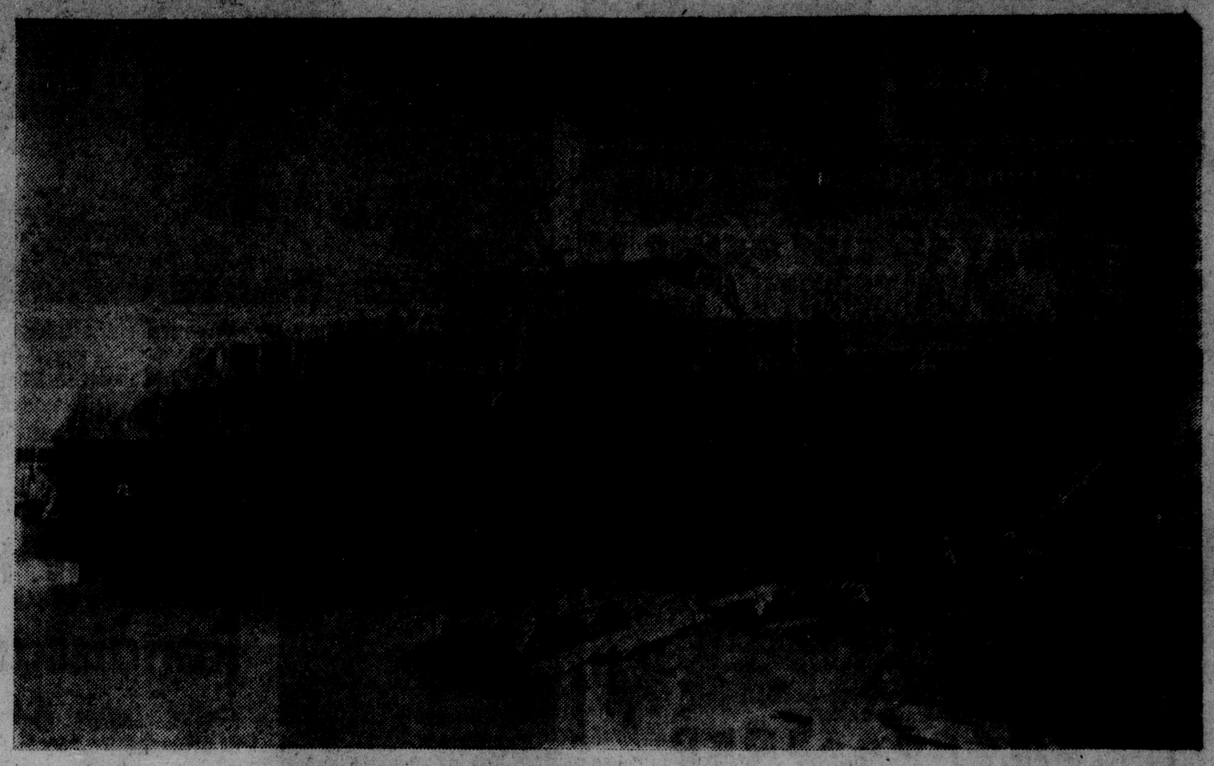

Wife shows up as mate about to wed another

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The wedding party for Maria Jose Lasso, daughter of Spanish singer Gloria Lasso, was going full blast when a woman burst into the room and screamed: "Cornelio is my husband!"

Cornelio —the bridegroom — is Cornelio Guillermo Sandoval Castillo, also a singer.

The shrieking woman identified herself as Mulenta Cortes Sandoval. She said the groom married her on May 21, 1971.

The bride, stunned, picked up the train of her white wedding gown and ran from the room, followed by her mother. Police led the bridegroom away to jail.

PASSENGER FERRY — Nearing completion in San Diego, this 165-foot-long passenger ferry scheduled for delivery Oct. 1 to the Golden Gate Bridge Highway and Transportation district will be used for service on the San Francisco Bay. It will be joined by two additional vessels within the next year. The ferry is initially scheduled to provide service between Sausalito and San Francisco. The aluminum-hulled craft will be powered by gas turbine engines, propelled by water jets and is capable of 25 knots.

Loren Adair dedicates new organ

By HARVE EDWARDS

POMONA — Loren Adair, veteran Pomona organist, pianist and teacher, assisted by soprano Mildred Herkelrath and flutist Ann Ownbey, presented a musical program Sunday afternoon dedicating the new Moller pipe organ recently installed at Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona.

Adair, who has been the staff organist at Todd's for 41 years, was in his glory displaying the virtures of his new instrument, both in his solo selections and as an accompanist to the vocal and instrumental performers.

The program was well attended by members of the Musicians Club of Pomona Valley, some of whom are associates of the American Guild of Organists, (as is Adair), and many othrr familiar music devotees, and, as usual, the artist played very well indeed. Whether the dynamic range of the organ was purposely limited or whether the organist deemed it suitable to keep the volumes restrained becaue of his memorial chapel environement, I do not know, but I missed a certain stentorian robustness in the organ solos which I had expected to hear from a pipe organ.

In the accompaniments to the voice where restraint can be a virtue, Adair excelled, providing a sensitively balanced foil for Miss Herkelrath's vibrant, well modulated voice. The three poems by the late Eleanor Fiock, set to music by Adair, were well realized and interpreted with a satisfying contemplative finesse by Miss Herkelrath whose voice displayed an admirable legato in all registers. Particularly engaging was her rendition of the dramatic "Visi d'arte" from "Tosca."

Adair's performance of the "Rustic Suite" by Alec Rowley was delightful, giving him the opportunity to use a variety of organ effects not applicable to accompaniments.

The last two movements of the suite "The Gentle Shepherd" and "Rustic Scherzo" set the moood for this reviewer's piece de resistace of the afternoon, Franz Schubert's beuatiful "Shepherd on the Rock" for soprano and obligato instrument. Originally written for voice and clarinet, it works voice and clarinet, it works very well with flute, and Ann Ownbey did a fine job of collaborative support with a solid tone and good intonation. Although I would have preferred it in the original language, (German) Miss Herkelrath sang it in English, displaying a good command of diction without the usual sacrifice of tone.

The program concluded with three songs in a lighter vein — all with flute: the agile little showpiece, "The Gypsy and the Bird," by Benedict, Sieczynski's "Vienna, My City of Dreams," and, from "The Merry Widow" by Lehar, the familiar "Vilia."

An admonition on the printed program to the effect that the audience should reserve applause until the end of the program was lamentable as it deprived those in the audience of their right to be a participating influence in a live performance and deprived them of the natural desire to show their spontaneous appreciation for an entertaining afternoon of good music well performed.

GRUMPY GRAND DAME — Margaret Hamilton plays the crusty Madame Armfeldt in "A Little Night Music," opening June 21 at the Schubert Theater, Los Angeles. One of her songs is "Liasons," by Stephen Sondheim. The award-winning musical co-stars Jean Simmons. Preview performances are set June 19 and 20.

EDDIE KENRICKS, former lead tenor with the Temptations, will perform in the Showcase Theater of Magic Mountain, Valencia, at 8 and 10 p.m. Friday through Sunday. His recent singles, "Boogie Down" and "It's So Hard To Say Goodbye," are high on national record charts.

William Wellman

Director is not 'loveable sort'

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — What could be a nicer way to spend a Sunday afternoon than to listen to one old Hollywood hand rap another one?

Director William Wellman, the man who did such great films as "Wings," "Public Enemy," "Beau Geste" and "The OxBow Incident," opened his beautiful Brentwood home for a party because he's written his autiobiography, "A Short Time For Insanity." Wellman never really cared what he said but now, at 79, he really doesn't care. His book proves that.

Over the wine table, he said that he's never been "the lovable sort."

"There were plenty of people in Hollywood I didn't like, and plenty who didn't like me," he said. "Every time I met Spencer Tracy it would end up in a fist fight."

Wellman has seven children. Several were on hand for the party. One of his daughters is Kitty Franciscus, the wife of James Franciscus. She told me a secret — Jim has joined the streakers.

"But he only does it around the house," Kitty said.

Another daughter is Cissy Donner, who is married to that fine character actor, Robert Donner. Bob wasn't at the party. Cissy said he was in New Mexico on location doing Richard Brooks' film, "Bite the Bullet." She said it was his biggest part to date — a costarring role.

Among the many actors who turned out to honor Wellman was Richard Jaeckel. He told me the demise of his series, Firehouse, wasn't too upsetting.

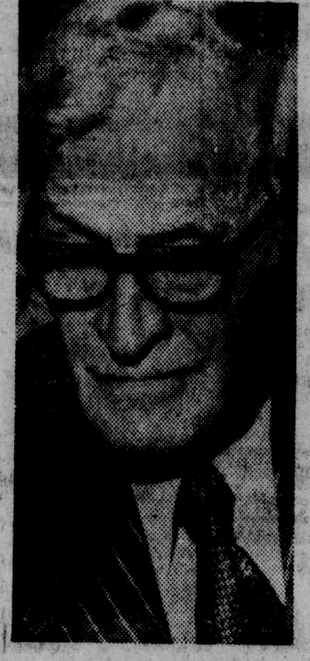

"The series did for me what I wanted it to do," he said, with a straight face. "It paid my rent for six months."

Wellman's lovely wife, Dotty, was the perfect hostess. Whenever we get together we compare new uses for peanut butter, which we both love. She topped me this time — "I found something new — try it on raw carrots. It's delicious."

Richard Lenz, who played the sheriff on Hec Ramsey, opened at the Oxford Playhouse in his own play, "Every Other Baby," supported by his wife, Jessica Rains. Among those who turned out for the opening was Goldie Hawn, who appeared with Rick in "Cactus Flower."

Lenz proved that he can write as well as he can act. "Every Other Baby" is a kind that keeps you smiling for two hours and both Rick and Jessica are excellent. With the right part in a movie or TV series, Jessica could be the next major comedy hit.

Rick told me that writing the play wasn't hard. "I just wrote down everything Jessica said and made a play out of it."
